RECOVER 41 BODIES FROM MINE

PROHIBITION OFFICIALS CONFESS LIQUOR THEFT

RESCUE CREW LEADERS BELIEVE THREE MORE BODIES PINIONED UNDER FALLEN ROCKS IN MINE

Hope To Reach The Remaining Bodies Before Night—Thought That The Final Death Toll Will Reach Forty-Four—Believe That Accumulation Of Gas Caused Explosion—Ten Miners Escape—Heart Rending Scenes At Mouth Of Mine As Relatives Gather.

By SI NEIMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

AT THE MOUTH OF CLYMER MINE NO. 1, Clymer, Pa., Aug. 27.—With the recovery of nine additional bodies this afternoon, the known death toll of the disastrous explosion here reached 41.

Leaders of the mine rescue crews believe three more bodies are pinioned under fallen rock and timber in the section most seriously affected by the blast. They hope to reach those bodies before night.

As the work of rescue crews became more complete the belief prevailed among both mine officials and rescue experts that the final death toll will stand at 44.

Ten, and possibly more, miners at work when the explosion occurred, made their way to safety and were not seriously injured. Four miners, near the mouth of the mine at the time of the blast, collapsed and were taken to Dixonville hospital, four miles from here.

Identify Dead

The dead already recovered are: Steve Debeljk, Mike Minesko, Andy Gall, George Ciako, Costa Stakovish, Adolph Lipchek, George Kingston, Peter Hankerson, Mike Sam, Steve Dospy, William McTavish, James Rumgay, John Perkovish, Paul Kapek, Andy Marko, Jay Hetrick, Steve Rostas, Howard Thornburn, Alec Trockson, Oscar Nelson, foreman.

Ten other bodies were in the improvised morgue where attempts were being made to identify them. In many instances identification was next to impossible because of the mangled condition of the bodies.

Those miners believed dead and included among the ten unidentified bodies recovered were:

Ten Miners Escape

The ten miners who walked safely out of the mine through an air shaft far back in the mine were:

Fred Zlater, Joe Paul, John Olson, Blosy Bucho, Andy Reschanski, Mike Seaman, Mike Licklewarch, Raymond Johns, Dominick Beletti and Mike Togni.

While the four miners removed to Dixonville hospital were reported as serious, physicians said they had an even chance for recovery. They are suffering primarily from the poisonous gases which followed in the wake of the explosion. These miners are A. L. Beechy, Roscoe Rappish, Mike Puro and Robert Record.

Exact circumstances of the explosions—there were two separate and distinct shocks—were unknown to both company officials and survivors of the catastrophe.

All men working in the heading where the explosions occurred were killed and those who escaped were working so much farther back in the mine, which is of the drift type, that they knew nothing of events leading up to the blasts.

There is no doubt, according to A. J. Musser, vice president and general manager of the coal company, but that an accumulation of gas in the heading known as the "Eight Right" was ignited, causing

Salvation Army On Job Early

CLYMER, Pa., Aug. 27.—One of the first contingents to arrive on the scene of the Sample Run No. 1 mine disaster was that of the Salvation Army, whose workers immediately set up a refreshment stand in a tool house on the mine property.

As soon as each rescue crew emerges from the mine its members are ushered to the Salvation Army "hut" where hot coffee and sandwiches are served.

Women not members of the organization also volunteered their services and they were accepted.

Reveal Tieup Of Mellett Murder With Booze Ring

BY PAUL E. BROKAW

CANTON, Ohio, Aug. 27.—The Stark county grand jury considering evidence in the Don R. Mellett murder today learned for the first time of the reported directed tieup of the assassination with a huge liquor conspiracy.

This was the belief of those most interested in the case when it was announced that H. C. Pontius, legal adviser and friend of the slain editor, who spent the entire morning before the jury, would return this afternoon.

Pontius, having a vast amount of reserve knowledge concerning the rum ring, Mellett's clean-up activities, and of the murder and the subsequent investigation, was expected to remain with the jurors throughout the day.

Rev. Father F. S. Kondria Faces Death In Entering Mine

REACHED SURFACE IN EXHAUSTED CONDITION

By CARL L. TURNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

AT THE MOUTH OF CLYMER MINE NO. 1, CLYMER, Pa., Aug. 27.—Throughout the trying hours of the night, when five thousand anxious relatives and friends awaited some hopeful word from within the wrecked mine where their loved ones were dying an awful death, and long past dawn today one figure stood apart from all others.

That figure was the Rev. Father F. S. Kondria of St. Anthony's church at Clymer, where most of the ill-fated miners worshipped and sought the fatherly advice of the priest.

Father Kondria, who was in the vicinity when an ominous cloud of dense smoke issued forth from the mouth of the mine, giving warning of the tragedy that had taken place inside, was one of the first persons to arrive at the mine.

Although he had no gas mask, Father Kondria insisted upon entering the mine in the first car to descend after the explosion to administer the rites of his church to the victims.

When the mine car had penetrated as far as it crew dared, in face of the poisonous gases, the parish priest left the car and fought his way back into the danger zone, where he saw the bodies of four miners.

Fearing that the priest would be overcome by the deadly gas, the miners in the first rescue car attempted to drag him bodily to safety, but their efforts were futile until he had attended the ill-fated men.

Father Kondria was so nearly exhausted when he finally reached the surface that first aid crews worked over him for several minutes before he regained his faculties.

Then, when rescue crews finally pushed their way back into the shaft to where the victims' bodies were recovered, it was Father Kondria who, because of his acquaintance with most of the victims, was called upon to take charge of the task of identifying them.

Although he found no time for sleep during the night, Father Kondria carried on today, breaking the sad news as gently as possible to the miners' families and comforting them in their hour of sorrow.

Attorney Charged With Conspiracy In Liquor Theft

(International News Service)

ERIE, Aug. 27.—Attorney Wesley A. Moffatt of Pittsburgh, attached to the office of Prihibition Administrator John D. Pennigton was placed under arrest today charged with conspiracy against the United States and rescuing government property from the prohibition warehouse in Erie.

The arrest of Moffatt is the second in connection with the theft of 508 cases of Canadian ale part of the shipment taken from Amos Vandeveer, alleged Canadian rumrunner. The ale was ordered returned to Vandeveer as the government had taken it from him in Canadian waters. John Quinn who was group head at Erie at the time of the theft, was arrested this week at his home in Indiana, Pa., and is out on $3,000 bail.

The charges against Moffatt were made before United States Commissioner Roger Knox of Pittsburgh.

WATCH AND WALLET REPORTED MISSING

Fails To Recognize Members Of His Family And X-ray May Be Taken

Mystery surrounding the disappearance of F. Willard Cameron of 420 Garfield avenue last Friday, and his subsequent discovery by city police officers wandering about the streets of the city last Wednesday morning in a dazed condition is deepening. It is now believed that he was assaulted and robbed.

Since being removed to the home of his brother, Donald Cameron, 104 South Mulberry street, his physical condition has improved somewhat, but his mental recovery has been much slower and is yet far from what is hoped for.

J. W. Cameron of Braddock, a brother, who was most active in the search for his brother following his disappearance, said this morning that there are sufficient grounds to indicate the possibility of an assault on his brother.

He continually complains of an

Tribute Awaits Gertrude Ederle On Her Arrival

MAYOR IS PLANNING OFFICIAL GREETING

Three Municipal Boats With Officials And Band To Greet Pretty Swimmer

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor Internat'l News Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The national heroine, mind's eye sweetheart of every American, is coming home today.

Roughly speaking, more than a thousand passengers will be aboard when the Berengaria steams into port at noon, but, as far as the average citizen is concerned, the decks will be deserted save for a single modest but muscular figure. It will be a figure absolutely alone with its great honor, for Gertrude Ederle is coming home today to the land that gave her the strength, the speed and the will to achieve a goal that no woman and only five men had reached in more than 50 years of effort.

Three municipal boats, with police and fire department bands, will sail down the bay by way of acting as a marine reception committee. Whistles will shriek and bells toll; surrounding craft will break out in a rash of bunting and a fire department boat will spray the surrounding seas with a so-called "water salute".

Bedlam will follow Trudie as she sails up the harbor on one of the reception boats, and the demonstration will seem to have been noiseless as she rides up Broadway, accompanied by her parents and sister, to City Hall, where Mayor Walker will greet her on the steps in his best receptive manner. An official reception in the aldermanic chambers will follow and the city will consider that it has done itself proud.

Mute evidence to this effect is furnished by the austere amateur athletic union which has marshalled 50 clubs as a guard of honor for the swimmer. This closes the argument, if any. When the A. A. U. begins chaperoning a professional athlete the case is indeed complete.

"It was a splendid trip from the time we left until we got back," said Mr. Richards today, "and one of the pleasing features of the eisteddfod was the courtesy accorded the Americans. And of course to add to the pleasure, our American choir, the Orpheus Glee Society of Cleveland, O., won the first prize."

Personal Attorney For Late Don Mellett To Go Before Grand Jury Today

LIKELY TO REVEAL INNER WORKINGS

International News Service Staff Correspondent

CANTON, O., Aug. 27.—H. C. Pontius, personal attorney and intimate friend of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, murdered seven weeks ago, today was scheduled to appear before the Stark county grand jury that is considering evidence in the assassination.

Mellett's work in fighting the underworlds of "The Jungle" is also expected to be outlined to the jurors in an effort to show a plausible motive for the crime.

Authorities participating in the inquiry were today of the opinion that at least three, and possibly five or six, murder indictments would be returned by the jurors when the complete evidence has been submitted.

Texas Ready For Governorship Vote

Election Tomorrow Will Settle Fate Of "Ma" Ferguson

(International News Service)

FORT WORTH, Tex., Aug. 27.—Texas men and women will go to the polls tomorrow to vote for a man or a woman for governor, climaxing the political classic of the year.

The election, known as the runoff primary, will decide the fate of Texas' first woman governor, Mrs. Miriam A. "Ma" Ferguson.

Opposing Mrs. Ferguson is the youthful attorney general of Texas, Dan Moody, 33, who has made a story book rise from struggling young lawyer in a country town to one of the most popular and influential men in Texas.

In the first primary, July 24, Moody lacked only about 2,000 votes of having a majority over all the candidates combined, which would have given him the Democratic nomination, and in Texas, this is virtually the same as election.

Admit Looting Federal Vault At Erie, Penna.

John Quinn, Former Prohibition Chief, And Attornev Moffatt Are Held

SEVERAL OTHERS ARE IMPLICATED

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 27.—John Quinn, of Indiana, Pa., a former prohibition group head at Erie, and Wesley A. Moffatt, of Pittsburgh, attached to the legal bureau of the office of Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington, under arrest in connection with the theft of ale from the government warehouse in Erie, have confessed, it was learned today.

They both admit looting the government vaults in the warehouse of the Erie Storage and Carting Company of the ale seized from Amos Vandeveer, alleged Canadian rumrunner, and of conspiring against the United States with other persons whose names have not been made public as yet.

Others Implicated

The confessions of Quinn and Moffatt were reported to have been made to Prohibition Administrator Pennington and Federal Attorney John D. Meyer. Their signed statements have not been made public. It is admitted, however, that both Quinn and Moffatt have implicated others in the theft of the Vandeveer ale and in the conspiracy against the United States.

In fact, they are said to have told the entire story of the operations of the big rum ring in western Pennsylvania, have told who, besides themselves, participated in the looting of the government vaults, and where the stolen ale was disposed of. Several other arrests are expected soon.

"It means the breaking up of the northwestern Pennsylvania bootleg ring with headquarters at Erie", one federal officer said at noon today.

Confessions Confirmed

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 27.—Federal Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington today confirmed reports from Erie that John Quinn and Wesley A. District Attorney John D. Meyer, however, refused to make a statement at this time in connection with the case.

Here's a tip to lads and lassies who go courting in a car, do not park along the roadside, or you're apt to get a jar, if you simply must go courting, sort of watch what you're about, for the constable will get you, if you dont watch out. Now these constables were petters in the days beyond recall, but they used a horse and buggy of an evening in the fall, and they tied the lines securely on the whipstock, so tis said, and the thought of interference never entered in their head. But its years since they went courting, and such things they've had to pass, and its probable they've lost their interest in a pretty lass. So they issue ultimatums to the youngsters of today, and in voices low and warning, this is what they have to say, if you have to do your petting in an auto, here us shout, the constable will get you if you don't watch out. But of course there's other places than an auto for such sport, swings on ivy covered porches are the proper place to court, and the constable wont get you if you take this tip from me, and your car wont get wrecked either, weather's warmer, seventy three.

AMERICA LEADS ALL OF WORLD IN ROADS

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—As the only billion-dollar "highways nation" in the world the United States now leads all the rest of the world with 500,000 miles of good roads, it was announced today at the department of commerce.

With a congressional appropriation of $75,000,000 and a state and local fund of $100,000,000 being expended this year, the American people already have poured out $1,002,000,000 on good roads. Of this amount, the federal government alone has expended $371,701,000.

At the same time, the American people have become the greatest automobile-owning country in the world, with more than 20,000,000 motor vehicles now licensed thruout the states. Of this number almost 18,000,000 are pleasure vehicles while 2,441,000 are commercial trucks.

The department announced that this tremendous motor car activity has brought nearly $750,000,000 in revenues to the federal and local governments in 1925, due chiefly to the availability of good roads. Of this income, $667,000,000 was paid in automotive taxes while the remainder came from highway fees and incidentals.

Woman Excavator Discovers Ancient Relics Of Wheat

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 27—Basket work at least 12,000 years old, the first bread-wheat of prehistoric days ever found, and the earliest known sickle are among the treasures unearthed by Miss Caton-Thompson, a well-known archaeologist, while digging on the Fayum prehistoric settlements sixty miles south of Cairo, Egypt.

These relics are now at the University College buildings here, where experts are attempting to unravel their history and if possible add to the world's knowledge of those far off days.

The basket work is chiefly remnants of granaries, revealed while removing sand, which took the form of pits lined with coiled straw or a species of reed, in some of which were wheat and barley grains stored there by prehistoric farmers.

Examination has proved the grains to be two kinds of cultivated wheat—enmer and bread. The former was known to be used in prehistoric times, but this appears to be the first record of bread-wheat in such early days.

Mexican Invasion Of Southwest Is Newest Immigration Problem

Having successfully restricted immigration from Europe and the Orient, the United States is now confronted with the problem of hordes of Mexicans crossing the Rio Grande, writes Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, in an article in this week's Liberty. In 1924, 89,336 immigrants came from Mexico. "In 1925," Secretary Davis continues, "immigration from Mexico again exceeded that of any European country except Germany.

"In shaping the restrictive law," he explains, "we exempted natives of our neighbors on this continent —Canada, Mexico, Cuba and South America. The quota does not apply to them, and a cry has gone up that we have closed the front door to the United States, only to leave the back door open.

"The complaint is that, instead of getting the workers of Europe, who more or less share our standards of living, we are encouraging labor from Mexico and farther south. Formerly, this type of labor crossed and recrossed the border for seasonal work on the farms. Now it is staying here, and in the Southwest, Mexican residents are presenting a social as well as economic problem."

unusual soreness on the top of his head, which the attending physician states might very easily exist as a result of a blow on the head, in spite of the fact that there is no outward indications of the same. It is sufficient to cause the family to feel that an X-ray of the head might solve this phase of the situation. It is probable that the X-ray may be taken.

Then according to the brother, J. W. Cameron, there is the fact that when he was found by the police his watch was gone, also his wallet in which there would have been any money that he might have had and he was known to have some funds with him when he left the home of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Turner of Harlansburg, last Friday morning.

These are considered very good grounds for believing that Cameron was the victim of an assault, which the absence of his watch and wallet would indicate might have been for the purposes of robbery. His automobile when found gave no evidence of being damaged or in a wreck.

As far as the past is concerned, Cameron's mind is a blank. He remembers nothing previous to the time early Wednesday morning when he was taken in charge by local police officers. He does not recognize members of his family as persons known previous to that time. He does not remember where they live or anything about them. He does remember at times incidents occurring since found last Wednesday morning.

When the physician was called shortly after he had been found, he stated that Cameron had evidently suffered from a sudden and severe shock. Yesterday afternoon he awakened from his semi-stupor in which he has been most of the time since being found and complained in a perfectly rational manner of a headache. He also complained of an awful soreness at the top of his head. He has from the first stated that he feels much better when standing, which would relieve the blood pressure at that point.

Traces have been found of his whereabouts on every day he was missing with the exception of Tuesday. He was at the meeting of the school board of Neshannock township last Friday night, on the morning of which he left the home of his wife's parents at Harlansburg. He and County Superintendent of Schools John C. Syling examined books to be used in the new high school of the township and discussed them. On Saturday he was seen on Grant street and on Sunday on the Wampum road. Monday he was seen in the city on South Mill street. He was in his car all of these times.

In view of the circumstances so far determined and the physical condition of Mr. Cameron, his family are not satisfied to let the matter drop at this time and will probably continue an intensive investigation to determine just how he came to be missing and return in a befogged mental condition.

RESCUE CREW LEADERS BELIEVE THREE MORE IN MINE

Cause Unknown

No open torch lights were used in the mine. The company equipped all miners with electric cap-light as a precaution against such disasters, but mine experts said it is possible that a spark from an electric drill ignited the accumulated gas.

The disaster rocked the mine late yesterday when an unusually light crew was at work. Normally from 400 to 500 miners are employed in the shaft.

Many of the bodies recovered were horribly mangled, adding to the difficulty of identification. In addition, the bodies were seared by the flames accompanying the blasts, between which about two minutes elapsed.

No undertaking establishment in Clymer or nearby towns was large enough to accommodate the large number of dead, so the coal company converted its machine shop, about two and a half miles from the mine, into an emergency morgue.

The bodies were hauled to the surface in electric cars and were wrapped in burlap before they were transferred to ambulances. A long line of ambulances, sent here from a dozen nearby towns, waited throughout the night and today at the mouth of the mine to carry the victims to the Clymer morgue.

Morgues Overtaxed

At the morgue a score of nurses and physicians from Indiana and Johnstown prepared the bodies for burial. There were so many victims that the medical staff was forced to obtain a truckload of new doors and carpenters' horses on which to lay the dead, pending funeral arrangements and identification.

A dozen mine rescue crews from all sections of western Pennsylvania worked in relays in the shaft. The poisonous gases and "black damp" were so dense that each shift could work only a short time before returning to the surface for air.

Several times rescue workers, intent upon remaining in the mine until they had gained appreciable ground in their slow march toward the tomb of their fellow workers, collapsed. Four rescue workers were so completely fatigued that after reviving them at the mine mouth it was necessary to rush them to hospitals for further treatment.

Crowd Gathers

Shortly after daybreak another large crowd assembled on the hill overlooking the entrance to the mine. A detachment of state troopers from the Greensburg barracks was kept on duty to hold back the ever-increasing throngs.

The police roped off an area around the mouth of the mine and only rescue workers and newspaper men were permitted inside the line.

For the most part, relatives of the miners who have not been accounted for, deserted the mine and swarmed about the company machine shop, where the bodies were removed, begging to be permitted to view the unidentified dead in the belief that their kinfolk might be among the latest group recovered.

They were held back, however, by an iron fence extending entirely around the temporary morgue.

Relatives will not be permitted to view the bodies until they have been prepared for burial by the undertakers.

"To an American the nuemployment dole is almost incomprehensible. Over here if a man is out of work he strikes out looking for something else to do, anything just so he gets by until his former job is open again. Over there they simply report to the government station every morning, or as they call it, pegging on, and get their dole. For a man who is married the dole is 18 shillings a week for himself, 5 shillings a week for his wife, and 2 shillings a week for every child under sixteen. They do not seem to realize that it works around in a vicious circle and that the money they are receiving must be paid in taxes. As a result the taxes there are mounting."

Beautiful Country.

"The scenery in England and Wales rivals anything I have ever seen in any country. The mountainous hills of wales descending to the sea, the rocky cliffs, and the beautiful farm lands are a spectacle and it was my privilege to travel from the south of Wales up into the northern part of England, sightseeing."

"Here and there in the various cities and towns we would meet other groups of New Castle people and one of these interesting experiences was that of meeting Councilman D. O. Davies in Westminster Abbey in London. He plans to return when the large group comes back on the S. S. Scythia."

Mr. and Mrs. Richards travelled both ways on the S. S. Majestic. With the exception of a few hours squally weather outside of Cherbourg, France, on the return trip, the weather was splendid.

A fool and his equilibrium are soon parted.

Callers Of Hogs May Contest For Champion Honor

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 27.—A world's hog-calling championship may be decided here as the result of the reported assertion of Fred Patzel, Madison, Neb., that he can call hogs better than anyone in the country.

Employes of the Kansas City stock yards today were gathering the best yoedlers of the hog-calling crew to discuss the possibility of staging a contest between the pride of Nebraska and local aspirants to the title.

It was tentatively decided to draw up a set of rules governing such a contest and forward them to Patzel. If they satisfied him his challenge would be in order it was agreed.

The rules generally would provide that only hungry hogs would be subject to call; that all hogs must be absolute strangers to the contestants to avoid partiality, that all hogs should be in good physical condition, sound of wind and limb and with a keen sense of hearing.

BUSINESS ETHICS

THE Chamber of Commerce of the United States gave the public a pleasant sensation when it announced that 813 chambers of commerce have adopted the code of ethics promulgated by the national association and that the ethics of the nation's business men would rise to a still higher plane as the result thereof.

There is nothing that gives buying public greater satisfaction than these evidences that business is trying to give the customer 100 cents worth of merchandise for every dollar and that the business man is sincere in his professions of a consuming desire to serve the public.

So the consumer was reveling in this universal adoption of the new code of business ethics when the American Fair Trade League disclosed that on the basis of tests made by it, retail dealers of automobile oils in seventy-nine out of 100 times substituted other makes or grades of oil for those asked for by the buyer.

If this dishonest practice is general, and most motorists believe it is among certain classes of dealers, it means that thousands of automobiles are going to an untimely death through no fault of the owner, but because of the fraudulent sale of inferior oil.

While the substitution, so as to make the sale, of "just as good" oils for those asked for is a reprehensible practice avoided by reputable merchants, the customer does not suffer through it and the act is merely unethical. But it is criminal to substitute an inferior grade of oil where a higher grade is ordered not only because an exorbitant price is thus obtained for the cheap oil but because of the resultant injury to the buyer's automobile.

It is a significant and recognized fact that business itself is doing more than the consumer to improve business ethics and to force the dishonest dealer out of business.

FALL OF A TYRANT

TYRANTS and dictators may crush liberty and dictate to the people for a season, but the day they assume dictatorship they are doomed. They who rule by the sword, die by the sword sooner or later.

General Pangalos of Greece played with tyranny and lost, as he was destined to. He seized power through a trick which deceived the army and navy; he held it through the methods of a tyrant. He used the mailed fist to beat down opposition warranted by his own misgovernment. His critics he disposed of by murder or exile. He enslaved the Greek press that had been free.

The Greek dictator lived too late. His methods were those of Nero and other despots of ancient and medieval times. His mistake lay in failure to fit the method to the times. He, too, might have preserved his dictatorship indefinitely had he been able to reward his armies with the rich loot of foreign conquest. And then too it is no longer second nature for man to meekly submit to tyranny.

There was ample justification for the overthrow of Pangalos and whatever his punishment shall be it can not exceed the enormity of his crimes against his own countrymen. However, little good will come of his removal from power and probable punishment if his successor does not restore to the Greeks the rights and liberties taken from them by the deposed dictator. It is hoped that Pangalos has taught the people of Europe that dictatorships are costly even in time of economic stress and national emergency.

One wonders if the Italian people would have tolerated Mussolini and his despotic reign had his government not brought economic stability to the country.

MAKING PROGRESS

WHEN a masked mob lynched a negro in Wytheville, Va., and no arrests followed, it was thought that the case was closed and that the agents of "Judge Lynch" would go unpunished as they so often do. At the moment no one seemed able to identify the perpetrators of the crime against the victim of mob passion and no one seemed to care who they were.

Two weeks have elapsed since this crime against a citizen and the laws of the nation, and while there have been no arrests it is apparent that the people of Virginia are awakening to the significance of the episode, even to the extent of indicating a willingness to see punishment meted out to the guilty ones.

It has been many years since a lynching has occurred in Virginia and the recent incident has impressed the more thoughtful and law-abiding as being evidence of retrogression. They are ashamed of the act of their fellow citizens and demand that the fair name of their state be purged of this blot. A state-wide movement is already well organized to bring to punishment those responsible for the lynching and thus to wipe out the stain upon the state's record.

Friends of Virginia rejoice at this courageous stand against savagery and at the fact that the people as a whole are prepared to vindicate their honor by bringing to book that small group which has let its lust for blood run away with its sense of justice.

Half of the world wonders how the other half gets by with its bluff.

Some girls think that a domestic science course which teaches how to make fudge is complete.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 6:41. Sun rises tomorrow 5:23.

Just about 20 years ago we ran to see autos. Now we have to run to dodge them.

Horses may be scarce, but doubtless there will always be enough on the tracks at the fairs to make it a hard job to pick the winner.

A woman who asked to have her alimony continued after she had married again evidently wanted her first husband to support her in the style to which he was accustomed.

A girl has married a traffic cop who gave her several good bawlings out because of the way she drove her car, and the presumption is she married him to get even.

Many of our financial troubles are not so much the result of income as outlay.

One reason living prices are higher is because we are living higher.

A scientist says mosquito bites are not painful if the insect is not disturbed while doing its stuff. The next thing to follow is to furnish sweet music while they're dining.

A village is a place where the cop doesn't bawl you out because he may want to borrow the rake.

Beaded knee-caps is the latest fad of fashion. Now what in the world does anyone want beads on their knee-caps for? Don't knees attract any attention any more without this extra dressing of them? We are for the good old-fashioned knees with dimples and not these new kind.

To be a borrower is to be a sorrower was one of the sayings of the man who is familiarly termed "Poor Richard", and France is certainly weeping over its debts at the present time.

Printer's ink is now claimed to be good for dyeing hair. There isn't hardly anything printer's ink won't do. If applied right to type and white paper it will sell anything you have to sell. The biggest stores in New Castle use most printer's ink and they benefit most by it.

The new army control board is being made up along the lines suggested by Col. Billy Mitchell when he was in the air service. It is all right to fire a man for proposing some good things for the service and then steal his stuff. Billy ought to feel complimented to know that what he proposed is being put into practice.

Two men in Benton Harbor must have died happy when they drowned themselves in booze.

It is estimated that the money spent for booze in France would pay off all the war debts she owes in three years' time. But you don't hear those old patriots there suggesting to the people they convert their booze money into war taxes to clear the country of debt.

An eye test for motorists is proposed by an auto commissioner and we presume the man who can tell a telephone pole fom a woman's leg would be given a license to drive.

Some people attract attention to themselves by predicting a Democratic victory.

The faster we think the longer we live. Today we may live so intensely in a few months that our experience is equivalent to years of life for a man in, say, the middle ages. The physical length of life doesn't matter. We are coming to a time when we will think so fast that our Biblical three-score and ten will be equal to seven or eight hundred years for a stone age man.

Secretary of Labor Davis thinks the old-fashioned religion is stronger than ever. However, a good many folks seem to practice it in the new-fashioned way.

Up bobs a scientist with the announcement that the world shakes like jelly. In that case it should be a welcome visitor to some of our local dance halls.

"Let no man pray that he know not sorrow,
Let no man ask to be freed from pain,
For the gall of today is the sweet of tomorrow
And the moment's loss in the lifetime's gain.
Let no man shrink from the bitter tonics
Of grief and yearning and need and strife,
For the rarest chords of the world's harmonics

TODAY'S STORYETTE

A lanky country youth entered the crossroads general store to order some groceries. He was 17 years old and was passing through that stage of adolescence during which a boy seems all hands and all feet, and his vocal organs, rapidly developing, are wont to cause his voice to undergo sudden and involuntary changes from high treble to low bass.

In an authoritative rumbling bass voice he demanded of the busy clerk: "Give me a can of corn" (then his voice suddenly changed to a shrill falsetto as he said) "and a sack of flour."

"Well, don't be in a hurry, I can't wait on both of you at once," snapped the clerk.

We read in a fashion ad. that the new step-ins are supposed to be 18 inches long over all, whatever that means.

RIDDLES FROM AN OLD SCRAPBOOK

What is it that has three feet and no legs? A yardstick.

What has eyes and skin and cannot see? An Irish potato.

Why does a clock look so bashful? Because it always has its hands over its face.

What is it a man has that he doesn't want, but when he gets it he wouldn't take thousands of dollars for it? A bald head.

If Miss-issippi would lend Maryland her New Jersey, what would Dela-ware? Al-aska-a (I'll ask her).

When is a pie like a poet? When it's Browning.

When is the worst weather for rats and mice? When it rains cats and dogs.

What is that which the dead and living do at the same time? They go around with the world.

Why are the pages of a book like the days of man? Because they are numbered.

When do your teeth usurp the functions of the tongue? When they are chattering.

A University avenue bride was asked yesterday by a neighbor if she didn't worry when her husband had to work nights. "Not as long as his good clothes are at home," she answered knowingly.

HARDER TO DODGE THAN A TIN LIZZIE

In Wisconsin, a farmer has died at the age of 104, of whom it is said he never had a doctor. Some men can dodge doctors and ministers but the patient undertaker gets them all.

Ever since our childhood we have been told that love is blind, but we doubt it. It can always see the fellow with the big bank roll.

Be brief. Omit unnecessary words. Never say "poison liquor".

Only Americans have mastered the art of being prosperous though broke.

"There are no new ideas in the movies." Rats! The wife gets new ideas about frocks at each one.

Baldness usually indicates long life. It doesn't to a fly.

Still, singing in the bath tub may indicate only that the lock won't work.

Movie theatres are about as comfortable as possible now, except for tables to place your feet on.

Alas! the people who say what they think very seldom think anything worth saying.

Only a few Americans have the grand manner, and they are driving cars for somebody else.

Among the things any man can manufacture as fast as he needs them are statistics.

You seldom find a man who is more righteous than he must be to keep the respect of his neighbors.

Making smaller cars won't benefit traffic much. The drivers will feel just as big.

The hard part of the channel swim comes when the tide turns. In the case of the social swim, it comes when tradesmen demand cash.

A SUMMER DAY

Dreams are for a summer's day!
Truly rich the man who may
Let his cares and burdens shift
While his thoughts in fancy drift,
Drift and bear his soul afar
Where the long-lost splendors are.

Rich the man who for a day
Shuts the noisy world away,
Or indifferent to its urge,
Lies and sees the billows surge
On a peaceful, sunny shore,
Racing back to come once more.

Lost to fame and deaf to greed,
Feeling not the spur of need,
Freed from all the tyrants grim
Which have whipped and driven him;
There he sets his soul at large,
Drifting like a purpled barge.

Golden visions fill his eyes,
All the lust within him dies;
Beauty, from her lovely arms
Flinks to him a thousand charms,
Rich indeed the man who may
Dream away a summer day.

"Mussolini will appoint rulers in each Italian city and town". That is the latest. A Fascist decree is expected, forbidding elections that are pending, putting an end to woman suffrage, and establishing one-man government—the man being Mussolini.

* * *

In America we cling to the theory that men can govern themselves, with national congress, state legislatures, boards of aldermen, etc., the citizens voting—although it must be admitted that many of the poor things don't know why they are voting and what for. Are we right? Is Mussolini right? Who knows?

Krishnamurti is here, with "the voice of the Messiah", and walks ashore, hoping to revitalize faith in the United States.

There was talk, which fortunately came to nothing, about holding up the young Hindu on grounds of "moral turpitude". Aged 30, weighing only 100 pounds, he is as far from the average idea of turpitude as a new-blown buttercup.

* * *

Coming from India gives him special rights. The greatest Indian prince, the grand Nawab, has 300 wives in his Zenana, and considers himself intemperate — his father had 700. If he came, we wouldn't keep him out, turpitude or no turpitude. Explain that, and we tried to keep out Lady Cathcart, with no zenana at all.

* * *

Emanuel Silberstein, a neurotic youth, aged 19, killed his tutor, ager 63, beating him on the head with a hammer, and smiled as he told the judge, "I think it was funny to kill this fellow".

The boy, smiling after committing murder, was once a youthful prodigy, having made effective liberty bond speeches at the age of ten.

* * *

Alienists will examine him. Suppose they declare him sane, what will the state do?

The youth calls it "funny" to kill a man. The state calls it "just and necessary" to kill a murderer. One statement is as preposterous and insane as the other. The state, to discourage murder, proceeds to kill.

* * *

An unidentified man, presumably insane, killed himself and a bank official injured 120 in a Pittsburgh bank, by deliberately exploding a bomb with his foot. The bank officials had refused to give him $2,000.

Business men, worried, ask: "How can we protect ourselves against such a threat?" The answer is: "Nature protects you, exceptions occur, but generally you need not worry."

* * *

Three passions rule the human race. First, and strongest, self-preservation; second, reproduction, the family instinct; third, ambition, which moves the whole human family forward.

Men ordinarily will not kick explosive bombs when they cannot get $2,000, because they don't want to kick themselves out of life. Life is not too pleasant, when you need $2,000, but nature's powerful instinct makes you stay and struggle.

Take away the instinct of self-preservation and all life and civilized government would be impossible. We would be like wild beasts, hiding from each other.

DISCOURAGEMENT—

Soon gets to be a habit if you give it much encouragement.
Is merely a loss of faith in one's self.
Is a state of mind—not an unchangeable condition.
Is usually the result of an overdose of self-pity.
Is frequently caused by a distorted mental or spiritual vision.
Is certain if we center our attention on the fly and forget the ointment.

Bible Thought For Today

In Day's News

Eugene R. Grace, who reaches his 50th birthday anniversary today, is president of the Bethlehem Steel corporation and one of the outstanding figures in the steel industry. His career has been rather unusual inasmuch as his entire business life has been devoted to the Bethlehem company. On leaving college in 1899, with a degree as electrical engineer, he immediately took a job as operator of an electrical crane, from which point his advance was rapid, becoming president of the company in 1913, at the age of 36 years. He was born in Goshen, N. J. While his prominence in the financial world has been more or less obscured by the conspicuous figure of Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of directors of the Bethlehem corporation, Mr. Grace is recognized as one of the ablest men in the steel industry.

Speakin' o' history bein' bunk, it has jest come t' light, after fifty years, that Settin' Bull wuz a doctor an' out o' town on an operation th' day Gen. Custer an' his gallant command wuz wiped out. Toronto, with a population o' 600,000, has only three murders a year, an' you've got t' git your name in six months ahead if you want t' kill some one.

THE GREAT STONE LIZARD

A popular writer once described New York City as a great stone lizard.

He said its heart, Manhattan, had that shape as it lay with its head at the Battery and its tail extending to Spuyten Duvil.

A few facts about this city — which have been gathered from various statistics of the past year—will show the magnitude of its activities and give an inkling as to the reason for its soubriquet of "the wonder city of the world."

If the lamp posts were stretched out in a straight line instead of following the curves and angles of the streets they would reach to San Francisco.

In its public schools this one city is educating a million children.

If you began walking at a normal pace and walked for eight hours a day, it would take you from the Fourth of July to after New Year to simply cover all the miles of streets without walking on the same street twice.

There are more than four thousand miles of streets within the city limits. Over two thousand five hundred of these miles are paved.

This one city pays one-third of all the income tax of the whole nation.

In it twenty-two miles of babies are born each year.

There are 137,000 of them. Put shoulder to shoulder these infants would form a line that many miles long.

In one of its many fish markets enough pounds of fish are sold each twelve months to distribute a two-pound fish to every one of the 196,940,000 square miles that make up the surface of this earth.

Every square mile from "Greenland's icy mountains to India's coral strand" would get its fish and there would be some left over.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

WATER TRANSPORTATION.

When the Pessimists begin to worry about the possible future food supply of the world not being sufficient to keep up with the future population of the earth, the Optimists speak of Texas. Texas in territorial extent is greater than was the whole German empire prior to the War. Texas has not only fertile acres, but it also has very valuable minerals beneath its acres. Moreover, there are men of imagination and power living in Texas, devoting their lives to the development of it. The member of the Brotherhood of Elks attending the Convention of the Elks at Los Angeles in 1925, who amused the radio fans of the West by his description of Houston, Texas, was not so bombastic as it might seem. He described Texas as the State where any event was considered "usual"—if it rained, it was "usual"; if the sun shone, it was "usual"; if the cotton crop was a record breaker, it was "usual"; and if the cotton crop happened to be less than heretofore, it also was "usual". He described his native city of Houston as the city "where seventeen railroads met the sea". He did not take the trouble to describe how Houston, being an inland Texas city, "Met the Sea".

I mentioned at the time that Houston had a great ship canal, and in and out through that canal were passing the ships of the world, carrying out the produce of Texas, and carrying in many of the things needed for distribution throughout Texas. Therefore, the railroads.

Now I see that the Carnegie Steel Company having bought a sixty acre tract on the Houston ship canal, is about to begin work there immediately upon the building of a steel fabricating plant. That will enable the Carnegie Steel Company to save much by way of freights. It is a long cry from Andrew Carnegie and Pittsburgh, to Houston ship Canal, but it only goes to show how valuable is water transportation, and how the great industrial enterprises of the world are dependent upon water transportation.

In this connection the Westminster Gazette announces that work has already been begun at Tilbury on the Thames to build a lock of 1,000 feet, together with docks there, and a great floating concrete landing stage, which will deepen the ship canal in the Thames so much that the greatest liners now built or in contemplation of building may sail up the Thames to London's gates. The project will cost more than twenty million dollars.

The world is harnessing its rivers, and building canals wherever possible, and yet the great steel centers of Western Pennsylvania are not as yet connected with Lake Erie by canal. Some day, there will be a Lake Erie Canal.

The contractors have been advised of the situation and asked to remedy the condition.

POEMS HOVE BY CHARLES HANSON TOWNE

"Time, You Old Gipsy Man" by Ralph Hodgson.

This English poet has done some exquisite things; but this is' I imagine, his most popular poem. It has warm appeal and is beautifully wrought.

Time, you old gipsy man,
Will you not stay,
Put up your caravan,
Just for one day.

All things I'll give you
Will you be my guest,
Bells for your jennet
Of silver the best,
Goldsmith shall beat you
A great golden ring,
Ptacocks bow to you
Little boys sing,
Oh, and sweet girls will
Festoon you with may,
Time, you old gipsy,
Why hasten away?
Last week in Babylon,
Last night in Rome,
Morning, and in the crush
Under Paul's dome;
Under Paul's dial
You tighten your rein—
Only a moment,
And off once again;
Off to some city,
Now blind in the womb,
Aff to another
Ere that's in the tomb.
Time, you old gipsy man,
Will you not stay,
Put up your caravan

Company B Vets Hold Reunion At Home Of McCurdy

Three Members Of Conspiracy, One Aged 91 Are Present

Annual reunion of survivors of Company B, 134th Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, was an event of Thursday at the home of John McCurdy in Slippery Rock township, near Kennedy's Mills. There were approximately 100 persons present, including three survivors of the company, the other veterans of the civil war and the widows and descendants of the company. Mr. McCurdy is a son of a member of the company.

The three members of the company were James S. Munnell of Slippery Rock township, aged 91 years, and who resides in the vicinity of Herman Presbyterian church; William J. Stoner, aged 84, Queen's Junction, Butler county, who was shot and wounded in the front of the stone wall at the battle of Fredericksburg and remained on the battlefield from Saturday until Monday evening before being removed from the battlefield, and John E. Forbes, aged 82, who resides near the Boy Scout camp in Slippery Rock township

The meeting was also honored by the presence of Clark B. Hamilton of this city, commander of post No. 100, G. A. R. He is 81 years of age.

A bounteous dinner was served after which a business session was held. Following the business meeting, John Marks, a son-in-law of Mr. Munnell, gave a most interesting talk on how he came to realize the meaning of word comrade as understood and appreciated by the veterans of the civil war.

Attorney W. W. Stevenson of this city, secretary of the 134th Regimental association, by special request, then presented a history of the company. According to his statements, the company was organized in the vicinity of Princeton and Harlansburg. Captain McCune was the first officer in charge. He died shortly after the battles of Antietam and South Mountain as a result of exposure. He was succeeded by Captain Brant, who lost his life in the battle of Chancellorsville.

Isaac St. Clair was next in command, being brevited captain following the battle of Chancellorsville. He brought the company home following the close of the war.

While there were but three survivors of the company in attendance there are still a number of other survivors, who were unable to be present on account of health conditions or the distance from the scene of the reunion.

Swick-Blackburn Hearing Tonight

Hearings of Ben G. Swick and F. S. Blackburn of Ellwood City, charged with violation of the Snyder Act before Alderman William E. Marshall will be held this evening at the office of the latter.

The commonwealth asked for a further continuance of the case, on account of the fact that one of the witnesses of the commonwealth is away, but Alderman Marshall refused to continue the case any longer, having continued it on three other occasions at the request of the commonwealth.

Some Plutocrats Favor Cancellation Of Foreign Debts

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 27.—A number of very fine gentlemen who because of their possession of material things in plenty, are able to give their entire energy to public service, are agitating the cancellation by the United States of all foreign debts owing to us. They are filling the newspapers with their letters, and are trying to fill some halls with the echo of their voices on this argument. The businessmen and the workmen, however, who because of this money which we loaned to European nations, are still paying the price and carrying the burden, have but little sympathy with this talk. And the president and Secretary Mellon are being daily sustained in their campaign that people who borrow money should return it.

One of the gentlemen who is particularly active in this campaign for the cancellation of all the debts, has some millions of Liberty bonds. It has been suggested that considering how intensely he feels on this subject, that while perhaps the United States may lag in this great step which he believes should be taken, that he has an opportunity to personally follow his arguments with deeds. If his courage is the equal of his tongue, and if he will send to the treasury of the United States the five or six million dollars in Liberty bonds he possesses and ask that they be canceled, the officials there will be very happy to do it and apply the proceeds to the cancellation of that amount of the foreign debt.

Labor Vets Meet In Convention; Discuss Markets

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The 25th annual convention of the United Textile Workers of America, which opens here on September 13 and continues until September 18, will be a reunion of veterans of many labor battles. Among the delegates will be men who have played important roles in the latest great battle of labor with capital—representatives of the striking textile workers of the Passaic area.

Problems of the textile workers, ever increasing as women discard cotton for silk, will be discussed.

"We are as interested in the manufacturers in developing a market for cotton goods," Thomas F. McMahon, president of the U. T. W. said. "Unless there is a good demand for cotton goods, mills will close down and many workers will be thrown out of jobs.

"The present tendency of women to discard cotton for silk in the majority of garments has hurt the industry. We hope to encourage the use of cotton as a material for clothing."

The United Textile Workers are ranked among the most belligerent of the many unions of the American Federation of Labor.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, known as the "father of the U. T. W.", will be a guest of honor at the convention.

FAREWELL PARTY

Miss Virginia Yoho of 706 East Washington street, will this evening entertain a small group of friends at a farewell social event in honor of Miss Ruth Dean, who returns after a vacation stay here, to resume her duties in the nurses' training school of the West Penn hospital at Pittsburgh. Dancing and cards will be the diversion.

Dares 300 Foot Gulf Dangling At Rope End

Man Sinks To Waist In Water Before Cries Reach Palls On Cliff

Under the Incononzo Bridge, over the Sumpaz River, in Columbia, South America, is a black gulf 300 feet deep. A few feet below the bridge is a great boulder, which can be reached by going down the rocky sides of the ravine, and from which the river can be seen and heard as it dashes against the rocks. This abyss was explored some years ago.

Twelve strong men took their places around an opening in the rocks over the gulf. They fastened stout leather ropes to Jean Lopez, who was to make the descent, and arranged another rope for "telegraphic correspondence," by means of little pieces of paper, in case Jean's voice could not be heard.

They lowered him slowly, and soon he stod on a ledge beneath the great boulder. Thence he was lowered some 90 feet further, and stopped again to explore a cavern filled with owls. He captured a bird, and took a nest with some eggs. Thirty feet below, he explored another cavern, where the air was black with birds.

The floor of this cavern projected into the gulf, and below that Jean could not be seen from above. Now began the dangers of his undertaking. He hung like a spider on the end of a thread from above, and the "telegraph line" had been broken.

At the next cavern he was attacked by the owls. He defended himself against their sharp beaks and claws as best he could with his knife, and shouted to the men at the ropes to draw him up, but they continued to lower him.

He went down until his feet touched the water. He shouted and shouted, but still the rope was let out, and the water reached his waist. There was only one thing to do—cut the rope and swim out of the gulf, if he could, at the risk of being dashed against the rocks.

As he raised his knife to cut the rope he gave a last despairing cry. It was heard, and the men began drawing up the ropes.

A few minutes later Jean stood on the Icononzo boulder. He had been badly frightened, but was none the worse for his adventure.—Washington Star.

1925 Auto Roads Add 23,152 Miles

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—There is good news for America's millions of automobile drivers in the announcement of the Department of Agriculture that nearly 18,000 miles of road were surfaced last year. In addition, 5,316 miles of earth road was graded and drained according to engineering standards, making a total of 23,152 miles improved during the year, of which slightly more than 10,000 miles was constructed with federal aid.

At the end of the year the total surfaced mileage in the state systems has reached 145,508 miles, and there were 32,218 miles of earth road graded and drained.

The total of 270,654 miles included in the state systems embraces the important roads of the country which have been laid out to serve the needs of the states. It is upon these systems that the important through routes of the federal aid system and the United States highways have been almost entirely laid down.

The surfaced roads in the state systems at the close of 1925 were of the following types: Sand-clay, 12,677 miles; gravel, 64,408 miles; waterbound macadam, 4,804 miles; sheet asphalt, 839 miles; surface-treated macadam and gravel, 15,858 miles; bituminous macadam, 10,985 miles; bituminous concrete, 4,821 miles; cement concrete, 27,875 miles; brick, 3,111 miles; miscellaneous, 131 miles.

Dog Population Shows Increase

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 26.—Exclusive of the three large cities of the state, licenses have been issued for almost a half million dogs so far this year, indicating that the dog population of the state is much larger this year than last.

Figures made public today by the bureau of animal industry of the Department of Agriculture revealed that up until July, last, covering the first six months of 1926, that 444,939 licenses had been sold to dog owners.

Allegheny county, exclusive of Pittsburgh, led all other counties of the state with a total of 25,492 licenses. Westmoreland county with 19,499 and Luzerne county with 19,491 licenses issued were close contenders for second place. The least number, 381, were licensed in Cameron county.

Police officers of the state until August 1 reported 10,303 canines killed because they were unlicensed. During the same period 6686 prosecutions were brought against persons charged with harboring unlicensed dogs. Owners of poultry and livestock were awarded $37,744 for damages caused by dogs during the first seven months of the year.

First Frost Is Due On Sept. 15, Kane Man Says

KANE, Pa., Aug. 27.—W. O. Altman, Kane's famous weather prophet can see no relief in sight from the present rainy and disagreable weather. He says it is his prediction that rainy and generally cold weather will be the rule until the end of September with the first frost of the season due on September 15. Whether the frost will be of the "killing" variety he was not prepared to say. Mr. Altman does not issue his winter prediction until about the middle of September but he says present signs indicate a winter of almost unparelleled severity with much snow and wind and stretches of zero temperature. Mr. Altman's predictions made early last spring covering the summer season were almost uncannily accurate.

Ministers Of West Now Being Taught Business Methods

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Ministers of the middle west no longer have any excuse for not being as good business men as they are purveyors of the gospel. A six weeks' course on "Business Management for Preachers" is now in session at the Chicago Theological seminary.

"The Minister's Correspondence," "His Files and Records," "How to Avoid Unnecessary Interruptions," "Upkeep and Improvement of Church Property," "How to Run Clubs and Brotherhoods" and "The Relation of the Minister to the Women's Groups" are included in the list of topics discussed.

The ministers are also learning how to remember dates, faces and names as well as all about the latest thing in clothing for pulpit and general wear.

"The preacher must not be a sort of glorified errand boy, or forsake the major task of preaching and saving souls for that of organization and administration," President Ozora Davis of the seminary explained in telling the purpose of the new course.

Daugherty Gives Crime Wave Cure

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Public hanging of automobile bandits and deportation of confirmed criminals to a penal settlement were among the drastic methods of dealing with the American crime wave suggested by George S. Dougherty, former chief of the detective force of New York, in an interview given in London.

"I believe in the horrible example system which was in force in England a century or so ago, when people were hanged at the crossroads," Dougherty said. "In 95 cases out of 100 today when a hold-up robbery takes place, the resister is either killed or wounded.

"The bandit has a revolver with him and he intends to use it to kill if necessary. Therefore I say that if he is caught he should be at once strung up by the friends of the people who have been killed.

"Confirmed criminals, if of American birth, should be sent to a penal settlement and there sterilized, so that they can have no children to follow them. If they are of alien birth they should be deported to their country of origin.

"That will be a big punishment for them, for the money an alien carpenter or bricklayer earns in New York in a day would probably not be earned in a month in his country of origin. The chief causes of the crime wave in the United States, in my opinion, are the revolver, the stolen automobile, narcotics, bootleg whiskey, and the absolute disrespect for the law on account of prohibition.

"I am convinced that a removal of the ban on light wines and spirits in the United States would go far towards putting an end to the crime wave America is now experiencing.

Many Autos Enter Pike's Peak Climb

(International News Service)

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Aug. 27.—With indications pointing to the largest entry list in its history, the eighth annual Pike's Peak Hill climbing contest for automobiles will be staged on Labor Day, September 6 under the auspices of the Pike's Peak Automobile Highway association.

The thrilling race over the world's greatest highway to the summit of Pike's Peak is contested annually for the Spencer Penrose trophy and cash prizes totalling $2,000.

The Penrose trophy is awarded to the winner for one year. It is an immense antique silver cup secured by Penrose in England.

The course approximately 12 miles up the side of the mountain, around numerous "hairpin" curves is the most picturesque auto race track in the world. It is a double track boulevard 20 to 50 feet wide, smooth and even as a pavement.

The race is annually witnessed by thousands of spectators who can look down thousands of feet to the starting point and watch the speed demons climb the rock-walled peak and race on to its snow clad summit above the clouds.

The road this year is reported in better condition than ever.

The contest is conducted under the sanction and rules of the American Automobile association.

Among the early entries to be received is that of Charles H. Meyers who took first place last year in a Chandler. He will drive a Studebaker special this year.

Glen Shultz widely known western auto racer is also entered in his Stutz Special which won second place last year.

Answer Demanded Regarding Removal Of Railroad Tracks

City Solicitor White To Confer With P.-O. Electric Company

Robert McKinney White, legal advisor to city council today was directed by council, at Councilman Tyler's suggestion to demand an answer before Monday of the P-O railway company relative to the city's plan of moving tracks to create less hazard at Greenwood avenue when State street is paved.

White was instructed to confer with Manager of railways Graham, solons believing that he is the official who should make a definite answer so that State street can be paved this summer or fall.

Council says that the P-O railway should be moved to the side of the street and a single track crossing put in at Greenwood avenue. The company, it is reported, does not wish to stand the expense of track moving.

Solicitor Robert White also advised council to prepare to resurface Sampson street and also surface a portion which has not been paved.

He said that the N. C. & Sharon railway is in the hands of receivers and he wants the company to bear its proportionate share before the receivership is dissolved.

Another railroad matter which came before council this morning was the controversy between the P. and L. E., P-O and the city, and which developed from a horse's hoof being caught in West Washington street crossing. Damages have been asked and the P. & L. E. claims the liability rests with the P-O but the latter claims that the crossing is in good condition but the design of track is responsible for the alleged accident.

Solicitor White said today that the frog is designed in such a manner that any horse is apt to have its hoof caught and for that matter the P. & L. E. may be asked to install a different system of track.

Property owners in Water street having stairways lead to their business places have been ordered to remove the obstructions as the city proposes that sidewalks be laid for pedestrians.

Council granted a permit to Charles Leathers Plumbing company to excavate and lower a sewer in the 1800 block, East Washington street.

Ordinances were introduced providing for a change of grade in Fairmont and Elizabeth streets, between Audley and Delaware avenues.

City Engineer Miller certified to council that Woods & Golder are entitled to a $4,659.32, payment for resurfacing Liberty street and solons authorized the finance superintendent to sign a warrant for the amount.

Joseph O'Connor offered to sell a property to the city for $2,000, which council believes will be required by the extension of Atlantic avenue and State street project. Council will view the property this afternoon.

Three property owners petitioned council to pave 120 feet more of Fairfield avenue and will pay for their share of the improvement. Fairfield, between Highland and Carlisle is being paved.

The first baseball league was organized in New York in 1857.

By H. K. REYNOLDS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The Labor Party having barred the Communists from membership, is now up against a new campaign of "peaceful penetration" on the part of the Left Wingers.

Political and industrial organizations of the labor movement have been warned by the Labor Press Service, an official publication of the Labor Party, of the new tactics and maneuvers of the Communists, who have set out to obtain the direction and control of trade union activities.

"The Communist Party," the labor organ declared, "will stand in the background, and the Left Wing Movement is to occupy the stage. In addition to the now celebrated Communist 'nuclei,' about which much has been heard in recent years, there is a new development in the formation of 'fractions' in the ranks of the working class organizations."

"The Left Wing Movement, which the Communist Party is interested in," the Labor Press Service stated, "is to be the Communist Party, or a portion of it, under a less suspicious title. But its aims are clearly the same; to exploit if not provoke internal dissensions. It seeks to divide and penetrate the Labor movement in order to capture and control it—not for the purposes set out in the Constitution of the Labor Party, but for purposes alien to it."

At least a dozen members of the present Labor Party in the House of Commons are officially on record as welcoming the Communists to full membership.

The Left Wing program officially adopted by the Communist Party and which it wants the Labor Party to adopt contemplates the abolition of the Monarchy and the House of Lords, establishment of a "Democratic Republic," nationalization of the land, mines, railways, shipping and all manufacturing industries.

Suspects Are Refused Bail

Judge Parker Refuses To Grant Carpender And Stevens Liberty On Bond

(International News Service)

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 27.—Supreme Court Justice Charles W. Parker on Thursday refused to grant an application made for the release on bail of Henry De La B. Carpender and Willie Stevens, charged with the murders of the Rev. Dr. Edward Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, both of New Brunswick, N. J., in 1922.

The application was presented by Robert H. McCarter and Timothy N. Pfeiffer, counsel for the defendants. Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson opposed the application.

Immediately after the hearing was formally opened, Special Prosecutor Simpson arose and said that as a matter of fairness to the defense, he wanted to present evidence in addition to that which was offered by the state at the special hearing last week. Simpson said that a card bearing the fingerprints of one of the defendants was found near the bodies of the Rev. Dr. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills. The prosecutor did not indicate the identity of the fingerprints.

Seated on the bench with Justice Parker was County Judge Frank L. Cleary, before whom the special hearing which resulted in Carpender and Stevens being held without bail for the grand jury action was held.

Neither Carpender nor Stevens was present when the court convened.

New Automobile Gives Clue To Theft By Clerk

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 27.—Albert M. Abbott of 5449 Samson street, a clerk at the Federal Reserve Bank, was held in $2,000 bail by Commissioner Manley yesterday on the charge of stealing a $1,000 bank note. The theft is said to have been the first ever committed at the Philadelphia institution.

Abbott, who has a wife and two sons, wanted to own an automobile. The theft was ferreted out. Captain Houghton of the secret service explained, by a process of elimination. The money, which had been turned into the bank to be mutilated, became "lost".

Abbott had a new car. Asked about this, he said he bought it with the proceeds from the sale of a Liberty Bond which his wife owned. A check-up showed the bond had been purchased July 6. Confronted with this evidence, Abbott is said to have confessed.

Yesterday afternoon after he had been remanded to jail to await action of the federal grand jury, his wife appeared in the hallway of their apartment home in West Philadelphia and refused to say anything other than that she was a "nervous wreck". She is a slight woman, with hair turning gray at the temples. She seemed stunned. Her two boys were not at home.

"What are you going to do now?" was the question a woman neighbor asked. She knew the family, but not intimately. Until two years ago they kept roomers. Then they seemed to become prosperous. Recently they acquired an automobile.

Abbott had been with the bank four years. For the previous 20 years he had been in the Marine Corps.

MAN, 67, MAKES RECORD HIKE

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Charles A. Whiteshot, 67, six feet four inches tall and "strong as an ox," arrived at the third naval district headquarters here today. He reported to Lieut. Charles R. Sees Hope For China In Latent Resources

American Attache Believes Potential Wealth Will Save Celestial Republic

The hope of China lies in her latent resources, according to Julian Arnold, United States commercial attache at Peking. "China is rich in latent resources," he says. "The country is not land poor. Due to bad internal communications, six-sevenths of the population live in one-third of the area of the country. About 80 per cent of China's population is involved in feeding the nation. China is rich in coal, yet the per capita of coal production is one-sixteenth of a ton, compared with five tons for the annual per capita American production. China consumes but 1-180th as much iron and steel per capita as that of the United States.

"Through modern industrial organization, each American has at his command 20 to 25 mechanical slaves, an assest almost unknown to the average Chinese. Yet China's greatest potential asset in a productive sense is its wealth of an industrious man power, backed by the traditions and heritage of a rich civilization and well disseminated culture. So we may expect big things from the Chinese people during the 20th century and the Pacific regions will feel the effects of these stupendous developments.

"There is plenty of undeveloped land in Asia that will lend itself to development, but there must be railways and economic methods introduced. The 6,500 miles of railroads must be extended to 200,000 miles. Its few thousand miles of motor roads must be extended to many thousands Its 15,000 automobiles must be expanded into some millions of cars.

"The mass man power of Japan and China and India will contribute to the development of the world. Now that the industrial revolution has spread to that section of the earth, Asia is on the frontier in the sense of modern industrialization."

Sleep Walker Falls From Window, Three Stories, To Death

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 27.—Somnambulism is believed to be responsible for the death early today of Miss Mary Palmer, 18 years old, who fell from a third story window to a concrete walk in the rear of a rooming house.

Frank Haegele, a neighbor, was awakened by barking dogs, and upon investigation, found the body of Miss Palmer on the sidewalk. Before retiring last night she told other roomers that she was in the habit of walking in her sleep.

ALLEGED AUTO THIEF IS HELD

MEADVILLE, Pa., Aug. 27. —A young man giving his name as Arnold Daisley, residence Greenville, was brought to the city from Conneaut Lake Park and arraigned in police court for a hearing on a charge of theft, it being alleged that he stole an auto at the park on Sunday night. The accused was bound over to answer at September court of quarter sessions, and not being able to furnish $2,000 bail, was committed to jail.

DANS PLACE—PROGRESS CELEBRATION
CELEBRATING THE OPENING OF THREE NEW STORES WITH A FESTIVE DAY OF BARGAINS

$1,500,000 Increase In Business

Three new stores in three short months—a record growth for Dans Place Stores. It is difficult to understand the true greatness of this Progress unless one considers the increased volume these stores will bring to the Dans Place Chain. But when one considers the addition of $1,500,000 yearly business (which these three new stores will do) to a volume that is already the largest of its kind, things take on a broader view.

Growing By Comparison

Some merchants consider the policy of inviting comparison as bad practice, on the theory that it should not be suggested that any one looks elsewhere. Such an attitude, we think, betoken a certain lack of confidence in their own values, a reluctance to have them measured by concurrent opportunities. In as much as we are endeavoring to bring to public attention what we sincerely consider the genuine advantage of dealing at Dans Place, we do not hesitate to ask you to compare our values with any similar merchandise offered elsewhere. Look where you will—we only ask the favor of a visit here as well—this belief in our own values is born of chain store specialization advantages enjoyed by no other company.

ATLANTIC UNDERSELLING BASEMENT

Procrastination Is Claimed Chief Good Health Foe

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Every man and woman even every child ten years old, knows that in ordinary life emergencies arise which are urgent requiring instant attention. When the houseis on fire they know that action must be taken at once or with the least possible delay. They can see the fire; they know from experience that failure to act means loss of the house.

The same individuals who act so promptly, so intelligently in ordinary emergencies too often show utter lack of intelligence in their action when confroned with an emergency surgical condition in themselves or in the family.

They want to wait; they want to confer with a far away spouse or parent. In other words they defer. They use none of the intelligence displayed by the most ordinary individual in case of fire. They will wait till tomorrow or until after the wedding.

They question secretly the diagnosis of the most learned physicians and surgeons and place their own conclusions in opposition to those of the most skilful diagnosticians. They do not believe they have appendicitis or a perforation or an internal hemorrhage or intestinal obstruction; it doesn't feel quite like what they think such a condition ought to feel.

Hence procrastination in urgent surgical conditions accounts for a large percentage of the total mortality. In acute apendicitis the death rate should not be more than one in a thousand if the operation is done before the appendix ruptures. It is at least fifty in a thousand if rupture is allowed to occur.

Surgical skill cannot alter this discrepancy; it can be altered only by the patient accepting the operation at such time as will offer him the best results.

Those who have to do the work who have to sign the death certificate are unanimous in their opinion that the laymen should use the same rule of action here as in case of fire and make up his mind beforehand that when these surgical emergencies arise he will act with the same promptness exercised in ordinary emergencies. In the one instance he loses a house that can be rebuilt; in the other his life.

Briton Thinks Blondes Are Not 'Preferred'

Says 78 Per Cent Of Dark Haired Women Wed And 68 Per Cent Of Fair

Some years ago an English doctor discovered that among nearly a thousand women 78 per cent of the dark-haired were married and that only 68 per cent of the fair were wives, says January Mortimer in The London Mail.

It would seem from these figures that brunettes are considered more charming than blondes. In old England "fair" is an adjective meaning beautiful, and it is curious to note that a number of celebrated "fair women" were actually dark in coloring. The typical British beauties have mostly been "robed in the long night of deep hair". Byron had a strong preference for black tresses, and Tom Moore disliked blue eyes. The Greeks and the Romans admired fair-haired women, but among modern civilized peoples the notable bells have been chiefly brunetts. Dark eyes here always aroused admiration, and Burton, quoting examples, says: "Of all eyes black are most amiable."

Among the highly praised lovely women of our own country none has been remarkably fair. Lady Venetia Stanley, who married Sir Kenelm Digby, had brown hair and eyebrows. The Gunnings, in the 18th century, were dark blondes, and Lady Hamilton was a brunette. Mrs. Overall, known as the greatest beauty in Britain in the 17th century, had very dark hair and eyes.

Baudelaire was so great an admirer of dark-complexioned women that he fell in love with a mulatto. All the charming women in Thackeray's novels were of the brunette type. English women in the majority have darker hair and eyes than men. Brunettes have greater vitality than blondes, and the number of fair people in Europe is stated to be steadily diminishing. It is interesting to learn from statistics that women seem to prefer fair men as husbands, for the greater number of bachelors are dark.

May cut the army and navy. Before long there will be only a soldier paddling a canoe.

Dawes is growling at the senate, which would like to fire him and keep a bulldog in his place.

Mrs. Irving Berlin, wife of the international song writer of latter-day songs, and daughter of Clarence H. Mackay, recently returned from Europe with her husband in order that her expected child might be born in America. While the Berlins are seeking the utmost privacy it is considered probable that the child will be born in or near New York City, where the romance of the "singing writer" and the "Postal Telegraph heiress" began.

Many Swedish Farms Have Electric Power

North Country People Use Falls And Conserve Their Growing Forests

One of the funniest things I saw in Sweden when I was over there recently was the use of electrical cookstoves in forest cottages. Sweden is short on coal and oil, but long on wood and water, writes Dr. Edwin E. Slosson in the Scientific Monthly.

The Swedes are growing trees faster than they are cutting them, the reverse of the policy that prevails in America. Consequently they have wood to burn, but they prefer to cook with water instead. The water falls down faster than the trees can grow up. So they turn it into turbines and with them grind the wood into pulp, and ship it over to America to be made into the yellow journals and silk stockings that are so conspicuous in our country.

Electricity is cheap over there and besides they have an ingenious kind of cooking contrivance that keeps in the heat and steam, so a few watts will cook a lot of food, and it takes a lot of food to satisfy a Swede.

About 45 per cent of the farms of Sweden are using electricity for lighting and light power. In the United States "not more than three per cent of the farms are receiving electric current from power lines," according to G. E. Tripp, chairman of the Westinghouse.

California, of course, claims the lead with 554,000,000 horsepower-hours of electric power used in agriculture during the year 1923, but 8 per cent of that is employed in pumping water for irrigation. The number of electric power consumers on farms in California is reported as 26,915. Ohio has 17,000 farms supplied with rural electric service and Iowa and Pennsylvania have about 12,000 each.

New oil well in Mexico produces 5000 barrels a day, this being pretty good as a hole.

Speakers Chosen For Labor Day

Hon. George T. Weingartner And James P. Nooman Secured

Prograss is being made in the preparations for the annual Labor Day celebration of this city, which will be held Monday, September 6, at Cascade Park, under the auspices of the New Castle Building Trades Council.

At a meeting held this week by the general committee in charge of the celebration, final plans were worked out and are now being put into effect. Additional committees have been appointed to look after the various phases of the celebration, which will be one of the largest and best in the history of organized labor in this city.

The speakers of the day will be the Hon. George T. Weingartner, state senator from the Lawrence-Beaver district and James P. Nooman, president of the International Organization of Electrical Workers, which organization has a membership of 200,000.

Official program of the Labor Day Celebration has been issued and is now being distributed among the advertisers and the thousands of union workmen of the city.

It is a fine program and includes much useful information, concerning union labor organizations of the city and the city in general.

There will be something doing every minute of the day and indications are that there will be thousands of visitors from Youngstown, the Beaver Valley and other points at the park to take part in the celebration.

SAYS DYAR SHOULD HAVE BEEN A PREACHER OR PRIEST

Prominent Business Man Interested in Health Evangelist Says He Surely Missed His Calling

MADE FINE TALK ON CHURCHES AND LODGES

Big Minstrels To Give Another Performance This Evening And Promise Surprising Entertainment

As one of our most prominent citizens who has been taking a keen interest in the lectures of Health Evangelist Dyar put it, "This man surely missed his calling. He should have been a preacher or priest."

This and similar statements were heard about town today during the many favorable comments, that are being made on the talk Mr. Dyar gave last night on the subject of religion in general with some interesting sidelights on lodge work.

"The trouble with most people," he said, "is that they do not stop to think about the purpose of religion and the wonderful good that the churches of all denominations are doing. Some condemn the Catholics and some condemn the Protestants. There is too much of this and not enough of the worktogether spirit. All the churches are doing a wonderful amount of good in the world and this would be a sad place if it were not for the churches. What would our soldiers have done had it not been for the great work of the Salvation Army in the World War?"

A round of applause that could be heard for blocks greeted Mr. Dyar's assertion that priests and preachers of all religions were shamefully underpaid and that even a horse trainer can make twice the wages of any of them.

"And don't you forget the good our lodges and secret orders are doing," he shouted. "Why don't you take more of an interest in them? The chances are that some of you people right here now belong to lodges that are meeting tonight. You should be at those meetings, take an active part in them instead of coming to this entertainment. I don't want people who neglect their lodges or their churches to come here. Your lodge and your churches need both your services and your money. Give to them freely and regularly and sincerely."

In other places where Mr. Dyar has lectured he has been asked to preach a sermon in some of the churches and it is probable that he will do so during his stay in our city, though nothing definite has as yet been arranged.

All in all, this man is entirely unlike any other showman that has ever appeared in our midst. He is a peculiar combination of lecturer, actor and preacher, truly a health evangelist and is unquestionably doing a lot of good work.

The World's Minstrels' entertainment will change their program again tonight and are promising a surprise to those who attend the free show. The wonder is where these entertainers manage to find so much material for their constantly changing programs each one of which seems to be better than the preceding. Free Minstrel show starts at 8 p. m. every night for the next three weeks at the B. & O. Ground, New Castle.

Poetic Imagery That Fixes Idea Of Places

A memorial to Milton has been unveilled in the place which he made famous by his words "Thick as autumnal leaves that strew the brooks in Vallombrosa."

Today the trees of Vallombrosa are mainly pines and the "autumnal leaves" that fall from the few beeches and chestnuts scarcely seem sufficiently numerous to carry out the Miltonic idea of multitude. But the quotation is not likely to become any less popular on that account and in the minds of all lovers of poetry the woods of Vallombrosa will remain thick carpeted with leaves. It would also be of interest to trace the influence of the poets on our ideas of places. Thanks to Byron, Chillon is forever associated with a dungeon; and a famous sonnet of Keats has linked Darien with a sea view from a mountain. "Maxwelton braes" will always be bonnie and the name of Afton will conjure up the vision of a peaceful stream gliding softly among green hills. These ideas may be truthful or the reverse—it doesn't matter. We shall never be able to rid ourselves of them.

Orders To Arrest Dealer Tag Violators

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 27. — Members of the highway motor patrol and the state police have been instructed to enforce the state laws [illegible] illegal use of automobile dealers' license tags, W. H. Connell, acting secretary of highways, announced today.

Dealers' tags are being used on passenger cars by others than dealers and on trucks which appear to be in commercial service, Mr. Connell said, and an investigation has shown that there are many violations of the law.

The first translation of the Bible into English took three years, 1607-1611.

50,000 Cleveland Negroes Planning To Build Hospital

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 27.—The 50,000 negro residents of Cleveland are planning to set an example in charity to the rest of the city's 900,000 population.

Although there are about 40 colored physicians in this city and 15 colored nurses not in one of the city's 60 hospitals can a negro physician treat his or her patients except they be pay patients in private rooms. Likewise beds for colored patients are of restricted numbers and many hospitals will not admit negroes.

The colored citizens of Cleveland have launched a drive to raise funds for a negro hospital here.

Norman L. McGhee chairman of the publicity committee of the Mercy Hospital association as the new hospital will be known announced that the negro hospital will "administer to the needs of every citizen regardless of color and will have no restricted wards for any group, race or creed."

Weather Bureau Wants Accurate Lightning Data

Although many accounts have been written of the effects produced by lightning, important details are usually omitted, making a scientific analysis of the available information difficult. It is desirable that there be placed on record in an appropriate institution such as the weather bureau, advises the department of agriculture, any facts relating to lightning stroke.

It is necessary in making such observations to note carefully many phenomena that often escape attention. Assuming that the object struck is a tree, a plan of the surroundings showing the location of their heights and the position of fallen pieces should be made. If possible photographs should be taken from different positions, showing the nature of the damages.

All holes, furrows and other irregularities on adjacent ground should be noted and their size included. If the tree is splintered the positions of the most distant splinters as well as of all the large ones should be indicated. The nature of splintering should be recorded, as an indication of the path of the lightning. Punctures of the bark should be searched for, even if they are small. They often show whether the tree was affected by a mechanical force acting from within outward or the reverse.

The nature and location of all damage to the bark and sapwood should be noted. Nothing should be moved until everything of interest regarding the original effect of the stroke has been recorded. Then if practical, the tree may be thrown so that the roots may be examined and the nature and extent of injury to them, if any, observed.

Parents' Efforts Fail To Save Drowning Son

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 27.—Valiant efforts of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Heasley of Monaka, Pa., to save their 16-year-old son, Henry, from drowning on an unprotected section of the Ventnor beach not only proved unavailing, but almost resulted in a triple tragedy.

But for the prompt action of Miss Daisy Clark, of South Marion avenue, Ventnor, hotel, who ran to summon lifeguards from Beach No. 1, the parents might also have drowned.

The boy, with his father, had wandered out beyond other bathers, and the strong undertow started to carry him out to sea, when the father went to his rescue. Both were soon in difficulty, and Mrs. Heasley started out to them, only to become helpless herself.

The father was forced to let go his hold on the boy, and Henry vanished. The parents were sinking when Lifeguards Lawson, Penrose and Fiedler reached the scene and rescued the parents. Search for the body throughout the afternoon proved futile.

Visits London For 40 Years To Get Sleep

DONDON, Aug. 27.—An American, Francis Hyde, retired New York banker, 85 years old and President of the American Bible Society, has come to London "to sleep" for more than forty years.

"I've caught a cold in a Cairo night. I've tossed about in fever heat in Paris and Berlin, and as for New York . . . "words failed him when he tried to describe New York's hummers.

"But you can sleep in London," he went on, "and that is more than you can do in summer in most places. London night temperatures always permit the use of a blanket and an old man can have the sleep he needs without risk of catching cold."

Hyde knows what he is talking about. For forty years he has been met each summer at the London terminus by William Hill, the oldest porter at Claridge's, and William's first job for forty years has been to hang Hyde's thermometer outside the window. The banker has also studied the weather reports at the Kew Meteorological Station for four decades.

The charm of London summers has brought him across the Atlantic 162 times, to the same room in Claridge's which he first occupied in 1899. He arrives regularly in June, goes back to New York in July to look at his mail, and returns to London by the very next boat for the remainder of the summer.

British Unions Ask To Have Part In Settling Strikes

By CHARLES A. SMITH,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 27.—A General Council of the Trades Union Congress, as representing the whole English trade union movement, considers it should be entitled to a voice in any strike negotiations, and a hand in the direction of a strike."

This, in effect, is the reply of the Trades Union Council, ruling body of English trades unionism, to the legislative proposals which the Baldwin government have decided to adopt to curtail the activities of trade unions in the event of another general strike.

The main heads of these proposals are: Breach of contract cases to be heard in police courts. Trade union benefit funds to be separated from strike funds. Contracts between miners and employers to be enforceable by law. Peaceful picketing to be further restricted. Enforcement of secret balloting before strike action is taken.

"It is the natural evolution of union policy that authority to call a strike should be invested in a governing body," runs the T. U. C. statement, "and corresponds to the concentration of the employers into groups and associations. We shall go forward to try to secure this authority from the trade unions at the annual congress at Bournemouth in September, irrespective of any attacks which the government may have in contemplation.

"We knew the attack was coming, and there is to be combined resistance from the political and industrial labor bodies. Emergency resolutions dealing with the matter will be introduced at the Bournemouth conference, and at the Labor Party meeting in October."

At present the general council has no authority to call a strike; nor can that authority be vested in the council by the annual congress unless there is a change in the constitutions of all the affiliated unions. Several attempts have been made to secure dictatorial powers for the council, but the opposition from within the trade union movement has always been too great.

Bushmen Hold Boomerang Secret

The bushman, lowest in the order of human intelligence, unlike any other race on earth, owns the secret of the boomerang. Who can explain the scientific principle behind that weapon? Why are there no examples of Australian animal life on the other continents? Their birds, plants, trees—all are different. A continent drying out—what mysteries does its interior hold? They haven't touched the edge of what lies back of the turtle-infested shores of the Bay of Carpentaria, the bush of Queensland. —Geo. B. Alexander in Adventure Magazine.

Start Hearings On Sunday Opening Of Sesqui Exhibitions

(International News Service)

Austin, director of the Sesqui-Centennial, in Philadelphia, was the first witness called in the quo-warranto hearing instituted by the State against the exposition association relative to Sunday opening of concessions when the hearing was begun in the Dauphin county court Thursday.

Austin testified as to the management of the concession on Sunday declaring that the manner in which they were handled was not in violation of the 1794 "blue laws."

Woman "Dies" Twice Within Thirty Days

LONDON, Aug. 27.—"Death by misadventure" was a coroner's verdict here recently upon the final demise of a woman who was brought back to life after "dying" once and who had lived in a coma for nearly thirty hours.

The woman was admitted to a local hospital and attending surgeons decided to operate upon her immediately. While the anaesthetic was being administered her heart ceased to beat and she had every appearance of being dead.

Artificial respiration was resorted to and after more than 15 minutes of massaging her heart, the woman regained a life-like appearance. She remained in this state, barely breathing, more than a day before she finally "died."

While a London scientist finds the human race is growing taller perhaps he has a young son.

He is survived by his widow and several children. He was in the life insurance business.

Census Bureau Report Shows Indebtedness Of $2,480,611

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. — A summary of the financial statistics of New Castle, Pa., issued today by the census bureau shows that the city government cost $23.07 per capita for the fiscal year ended January 4, 1926.

To put the city on a basis comparable with those in which the schools are a part of the city corporation, the figures as given include the transactions of the board of education of New Castle for the fiscal year ended July 6, 1925. The statement says:

The Running Cost

The payments for maintenance and operation of the general department of New Castle, Pa., for the fiscal year ending January 4, 1926, amounted to $1,149,615, or $23.07 per capita. In 1924 the comparative per capita for maintenance and operation of general department was $21.59, and for 1917, $11.11. The interest on debt amounted to $139,021; and outlays for permanent improvements, therefore, for expenses of general departments, interest, and outlays, including schools, were $1,789,427. The total payments for the schools amounted to $896,521. Of this amount $729,002 represents the expense for school maintenance; $77,312, interest on debt; and $90,207, school outlays. The totals include all payments for the year, whether made from current revenues or from the proceeds of bond issues.

Revenues

The total revenue receipts of New Castle for 1925, including schools, were $1,561,133, or $31.32 per capita. This was $282,497 more than the total payments of the year, exclusive of the payments for permanent improvements, but $228,294 less than the total payments including those for permanent improvements. These payments in excess of revenue receipts were met from the proceeds of debt obligations. The revenue receipts for the school district amounted to $859,622. Property taxes represented 67.6 per cent for 1917. The increase in the amount of property taxes collected was 102.2 per cent from 1917 to 1924, and 1.9 per cent from 1924 to 1925. The per capita property taxes were $21.17 in 1925, $21.15 in 1924, and $11.98 in 1917.

Indebtedness

The net indebtedness (funded or fixed debt less sinking fund assets) of New Castle, January 4, 1926, was $2,480,611, or $49.77 per capita. Of the total net indebtedness $1,531,009, was for the schools. In 1924 the per capita debt was 45.41, and in 1917, $18.25. The increase in 1925 was due to a bond issue for sewage disposal plant.

Crash Fires "Gas," One Autoist Burns; Two Cars Consumed

OIL CITY, Pa., Aug. 27.—Kenneth Wagner of this city is in a serious condition in a local hospital after a smashup on the McKinney highway today. William Hamilton, driver of the car, is held in $1,000 bail. Wagner had picked up a ride in Hamilton's car which crashed into the rear end of a machine driven by Merle Hower.

The blow smashed the gasoline tank of one car, and the fluid ignited enveloping both machines in flames. Wagner was found unconscious in the midst of the burning gasoline. Hower jumped into the flames and pulled Wagner to safety, but not before his clothing had been burned almost away.

Sewage Unit Is Near Completion

SHARON, Pa., Aug. 27. — The first unit of the new city sewage disposal system will probably be placed in operation late this year, it was said, this afternoon by Colonel Burnside, city engineer. Final construction work will be completed by next spring. The work is being done by the Lloyd Contracting Company of Xenia, O.

The unit now under construction, which will be known as the south plant, consists of settling tanks, digesting tanks, pumps and drying bed. The plant will have a capacity of 4,050,000 gallons a day.

Plans are already being considered for construction of a second unit north of the business district, probably on Carnegie Steel company land, which city officials are considering buying for the purpose.

Oil City Man Hurt In Auto Crash

OIL CITY, Pa., Aug. 27. — Kenneth Wagner of this city is in a serious condition at the local hospital as a result of an accident on the McKinney highway near here today. William Hamilton, driver of the car, was arrested and released on $1,000 bail. Hamilton's machine crashed into the rear end of a machine traveling in the same direction on the highway, which was driven by Merle Hower.

Great Wall Of Stone Is Marvel Of Nature

Freak Formation In Colorado Is Column 200 Feet In Height

At the foot of and overshadowed by the mighty Sangre de Cristo range is beautiful Stonewall gap and park. The Stonewall is a mighty wall of stone rising to a height of 200-feet, with a width of about twenty-five feet. This freak formation of nature extends practically the length of the entire country starting from old Mexico and running all the way to Alaska, disappearing at times, then cropping out again, says the Rocky Mountain News.

Following the Stonewall highway from Trinidad, Col., the tourist comes to the gap, the best defined and most picturesque opening or passageway in the entire formation.

As the tourist stands looking up at the massive walls it is easy to imagine that in the formation period, when the world was young, nature is her boisterous moods grasped the mountain peaks in her bare hands and plunged the fragments down in the earth edgeways, saying to the mighty range; "Go no farther." The wall is tinted with every color of the spectrum—an artist could mix no finer—starting with a drab orange, it shades down through red, yellow, blue-violet and a wonderfully coppery green.

In recent years the Stonewall country has become one of the major scenic attractions of the Rocky Mountain region. Here where myriad clear,, sparkling streams trickle from lofty mountain sides to form creeks, here where vistas are painted with the colors of the Great Master is a wonder area which is a lure to motor tourists who by thousands visit Trinidad every year. A western poet who once spent a few days within the solitudes of Stonewall described it as:

Reporters Find Notables In 3d Class

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Ship reporters no longer confine their quest for travelling notables to the first class passenger lists. Third class or "tourist" cabins now carry persons who figure in the day's news.

Professor Raymend M. Weaver, assistant professor of English at Columbia University in New York was discovered in a third class cabin of the White Star liner Homeric when it sailed for Europe recently. "I'm saving money this way so that I may take an automobile tour while abroad," Professor Weaver explained.

PLAN TABLET WHERE LINCOLN SLEPT

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Aug. 27. — Announcement of a drive for funds for the placing of a large bronze tablet on the Wills Building in Center Square, where President Lincoln spent the night of November 18, 1863, the night preceding his address at the dedication of the National Cemetery, was made today by a committee of the local camp of the Sons of Veterans. The goal of the drive is $600.

NO FAMILY SHOULD BE WITHOUT PLANT JUICE

John F. Rupp

"Dillingham's Plant Juice is nothing short of a blessing to mankind and no family ought to be without it," said John F. Rupp, well-known mechanic, residing at 4 N. Ninth St., Harrisburg, Pa.

"Four years ago I was a great sufferer from indigestion, nervous headaches and neuritis. Indigestion just had my stomach feeling like it was upside down. My appetite fell away off and what little I did eat would cause me to bloat all up and give me a miserable sick feeling.

"I was subject also to such splitting headaches that at times I'd feel like my head would burst and nervousness kept me awake at night a great deal. I'd just roll and toss and get up mornings feeling all tired out. Neuritis had me so I could hardly raise my right hand above my shoulder and the pains were good and sharp, too.

"Then I got hold of Plant Juice and it certainly made a difference in my condition. My appetite came back to me and I got so I could eat anything I wanted without a particle of trouble afterwards—no gas bloating or sick feeling. My nerves steadied down, the headaches disappeared and the neuritis just passed right out of my system.

"I got so I could sleep fine and improved so much that I gained 20 pounds in weight and just felt made over completely. That's what this medicine did for me four years ago and if I get a headache now, I just reach for my Plant Juice knowing that it will rid me of it."

Plant Juice is sold in New Castle by Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., and is sold by all leading druggists everywhere.

Life Drama, Begun In 1863, Outdoes Enoch Arden Tale

SPARTA, Wis., Aug. 27.—Separated 63 years since they lost each other during the Civil war, Thomas Mann, 83, and his wife Nancy, 80, have been reunited.

In the meantime Nancy has had two husbands and Mann has had another wife. Mann's second wife died several years ago, and Mrs. Mann's third husband last March.

Enoch Arden's long voyage was just a walk around the block compared with Mann's absence from his bride. They were married in 1863. Mann enlisted in the Union army and served 100 days with the 139th Indiana infantry. Discharged, he took his bride to a farm near Ironton, Wis., re-enlisted in the Thirty-eighth Wisconsin infantry and served until the war ended in 1865.

Became Mother of Four.

After some years, assuming her husband dead, Nancy married William Burns of Indianapolis, and became the mother of four children, among them Rev. William Burns, who has occupied Wesleyan Methodist pulpits in Indianapolis and Marion. Burns died in 1890 and his widow wedded James Tracy of Grand Rapids, Mich. He died five months ago.

Mann, meanwhile, gave up the search for his bride and married Mrs. Maria Young, a widow of Onalaska, Wis. They had five children—Dorothy, now of Santa Cruz, Cal.; Millie of Minneapolis, Mrs. Pearl Kriskie of Milwaukee, Mrs. Jennie Mann Davis of Beloit, Wis., and Amos Mann of Sparta. The second Mrs. Mann died some years ago.

Several months ago Mrs. Mann asked the federal pension bureau to allot her the pension of Thomas Mann. The bureau notified her that a Thomas Mann was a resident of Sparta, and that he was drawing his own pension. She wrote Mann and discovered him to be her husband.

They were reunited at Sparta, and attorneys held that no marriage ceremony was necessary. "This time I'll keep track of her," Mann declared.

Lost Wife Found After 63 Years

Civil War Veteran And Bride, Believing Each Other Dead, Had Remarried

SPARTA, Wis., Aug. 27.—Separated 63 years since they lost each other during the Civil war, Thomas Mann, 83, and his wife Nancy, 80, have been reunited.

In the meantime Nancy has had two husbands and Mann has had another wife. Mann's second wife died several years ago and Mrs. Mann's third husband last March.

Enoch Arden's long voyage was just a walk around the block compared with Mann's absence from his bride. They were married in 1863. Mann enlisted in he Union army, serving a hundred days with the 139th Indiana Infantry. Discharged he took his bride to a farm near Ironton, Wis., and re-enlisted in the 36th Wisconsin Infantry.

He served until the war ended in 1865. When he got home his wife had left for the home of her parents in Indiana. Both sought each other for several years without success.

After some years, assuming her husband dead, Nancy married William Burns of Indianapolis and became the mother of four children, among them the Rev. William Burns who has occupied Wesleyan Methodist pulpits in Indianapolis and Marion. Burns died in 1890 and his widow married James Tracy of Grand Rapids, Mich. He died five months ago.

Mann, meanwhile gave up the search for his bride and married Mrs. Maria Young a widow of Onalaska, Wis. They had five children. The second Mrs. Mann died some years ago.

Several months ago Mrs. Mann asked the Federal Pension board to allot her the pension of Thomas Mann. The bureau notified her that a Thomas Mann was a resident of Sparata and that he was drawing his own pension. She wrote Mann and discovered him to be her husband.

They were reunited at Sparta and attorneys held that no marriage ceremony was necessary.

Believe Bomb Is Cause Of Blaze In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 27.—An explosion followed by fire sent two families scurrying for safety here Thursday when the blast wrecked the confectionery store on the first floor of the three-story building.

Origin of the explosion which did $1,000 damage in the confectionery store, owned by Mrs. Amelia Benson was being investigated by detectives on the theory that a bomb may have been set off in the building.

No one was injured. The store had not yet been opened for business when the explosion occurred.

Freight Barges To Ply Mississippi

(International News Service)

QUINCY, Ill., Aug. 27.—Experiments in barge operation on the Mississippi river between Winona, Minn., and St. Louis, Mo., have proved such a success that it has been decided to place other boats in commission next spring.

The down river trip requires five days and the up-river trip 10 days between the two terminals. Stops are made at intremediate points for freight.

At present only one large barge, built of steel and driven by a 150 horsepower motor is in service operated by the federal government in connection with the line between St. Louis and New Orleans, launched during the World War.

When traffic is opened in the spring a number of barges the exact number to be determined by the volume of business will be placed in operation.

Jury Sessions Are Secret In Canton Murder

(International News Service)

CANTON, O., Aug. 27.—The fires of civic turmoil raging since the slaying of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, smouldered peacefully Thursday as the Stark county grand jury surrounded by the greatest secrecy, continued its investigation of the murder.

The "clean up" forces have placed responsibility squarely on the shoulders of Prosecutor C. B. McClintock and appear content to await the expected indictments.

With at least 60 witnesses to be heard before the grand jury a finding is not expected before a week or ten days.

Turn Deaf Ears On Plea For New Tax Reduction

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The treasury department Thursday turned a deaf ear on pleas from Republican leaders for another federal tax reduction in 1928.

Cold water was thown on the proposal by Acting Secretary of the Treasury Winston. Speaking in the absence of Secretary Mellon, Winston said the treasury would not consider further tax reduction until after the public debt has been materially reduced. He declared tax receipts this year would be based on a "high tide of prosperity" while conditions in 1928 will be problematical.

Listed As Dead Soldier, Son Goes Back To Homestead

(International News Service)

HOMESTEAD, Aug. 27.—A mother was happy here Thursday in the company of a son who had returned as from the dead.

Listed as killed in action during the World War Fred Hoffman, member of the 87th division, U. S. army, was mourned by Mrs. Margaret Hoffman, his mother, for seven years.

Today he returned to her with the explanation that when she had moved to Chicago for a time while he was in the service he had addressed her there and his letters were undelivered.

Hoffman was wounded four times in battle, gassed and listed as dead. Immediately after his release from the hospital and the service he began his seven year search for his mother, and finally traced her through Pittsburgh relatives.

Bathing Costumes Banned For Street Wear In Paris

(International News Service)

PARIS, Aug. 27.—No more bathing costumes on the street, in cafes and hotels. The mayor of Parame on the Finistere coast, the center of many smart bathing resorts has just made a proclamation to the effect that a bathing costume is not the same as a street one. It reads:

"It is henceforth strictly forbidden for holiday makers and all others to station themselves on the dykes, in public streets, hotels and cafes while dressed in bathing suits.

"It is equally forbidden to circulate in the public streets. Whenever the bathing suit is worn it must be completely covered by a closed dressing gown reaching to the calf of the leg at least.

Wed In Parked Car By Tonneau Lights

HARTFORD, Aug. 27.—Margaret E. Sampson of Windsor and Clifford E. Young of West Hartford were married seated in the rear seat of an automobile, while the officiating clergyman, the Rev. E. M. Bussey of the Windsor Locks Methodist church sat in the front seat.

Their marriage license was obtained from the Windsor town clerk but no Windsor clergyman could be found to perform the marriage in the town in which the license was issued as required by Connecticut law. The Rev. Mr. Bussey agreed over the telephone to perform the marriage and Young and his fiancee drove to Windsor Locks, brought the minister back to the corner of Phelps and Brown streets in Windsor, where the car was parked alongside the highway and the tonneau light switched on for the unusual roadside ceremony.

A Baby in the Home

NO KING on his golden throne demands and receives more homage from his willing subjects than a baby in the home.

The smallest member of the family requires a great deal of attention. Sometimes, in caring for her child, a mother overtaxes her own strength. Particularly when there are other children to work for, she must learn to preserve her health.

Then her home becomes a place of order and happiness. She finds time to play with her children and the whole family enjoys the dimpled baby as he grows from day to day.

Many young mothers have learned that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps them to find the strength they need.

Before her marriage, Mrs. R. N. Frankum of 3947 Gold St., Omaha, Nebr., was a working girl. Like many girls, she sometimes had to stay at home from her work. A friend told her of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she found that it relieved her trouble.

She was in good health until her second baby came. "I began to take the Vegetable Compound again," she writes, "and was soon able to do my housework. Now I can say I never felt better in my life. Women ask me what I have been doing and I tell them about your medicine. I feel that I owe a lot to it."

"Sheik's" Casket Is Closed Up

Seal Valentino Casket, To Be Opened Again Only To His Brother

BURIAL IS SOUGHT IN HOLLYWOOD

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 27—Rudolph Valentino's casket, lying in the "Gold Room" of Campbell's funeral church in Broadway, was sealed today and will not be reopened for anyone but the dead screen star's brother Alberto Guglielmi, who is due here on the liner Homeric on Tuesday.

Guglielmi has expressed the desire that Valentino's manager, S. George Ullman, postpone the funeral, which is scheduled to be held at St. Malachi's Catholic church on Monday, until he arrives in New York, Ullman so far, has been unable to postpone it. He has, however, taken up with the Health Department a request that the burial time limit be extended.

Indications today were that the body would be buried in Hollywood. Practically all of Valentino's friends in the motion picture industry are hoping that the body will be taken to Hollywood rather than back to Italy.

Ullman himself is in favor of Hollywood as the burial place. He believes that Guglielmi will appreciate the appropriateness of burial in Hollywood because he had spent seven months in the "movie capital" with his brother. Yet Guglielmi does not wish to give a definite decision until he has received a reply to a wire he has sent to his sister in Turin.

She Nabbed Big Hawk With Hands

ELM FLATS, Aug. 27.—A large hawk swooped down into C. M. Hodges' door yard and got hold of a chicken. Mrs. Hodges who happened to be near the scene grabbed hold of the hawk, rescued the chicken which was slightly wounded and with the hawk in her hands ran screaming toward the house.

Mr. Hodges hearing her screams met her and with his cane clubbed the hawk to death. The hawks in this vicinity seem to be getting more bold every day.

WILLIAM G. McADOO — AL SMITH

VIC DONAHEY — JAMES A. REED

Friends of these four men are urging their nomination as the Democratic standard bearer in the next Presidential election. William G. McAdoo and Al Smith were chief contenders four years ago. Vic Donahey is Governor of Ohio, and James Reed is the aggressive Missouri Senator.

Here Is Reason When Men Must Die

Is death a necessity for individual living beings? This is the question that H. Munro Fox asks and answers in his paper called "Is Death Inevitable?" in the September Forum. Modern biological science has proved the very remarkable fact that the cells of our bodies die only because they are not in the right environment to go on living. Cells have been taken out of the bodies of living animals, and, in the laboratory, have been kept alive under conditions better than those which the animal's body had offered to them. For instance: Some living cells taken from the body of a chicken were kept alive in the laboratory in a liquid which had the same chemical make-up as the blood serum of the chick. The cells divided actively and increased in number. Whenever the cells became too crowded some were removed, and from time to time the liquid was renewed, for it became full of poisonous waste products thrown out by the growing cells. In this experiment the cells continued to grow and divide for twelve years (a considerably longer period than the maximum life of any fowl) without ever showing signs of diminished vigor. If we take from the chick some connective tissue (the living tissue which holds together all the muscles, nerves, etc.) and also a piece of kidney tissue and grow each tissue separately in a tube, the growth continues vigorous and undiminished for an indefinite time. But if both of these tissues are grown together in the same tube, although cell multiplication is at first vigorous, it soon falls off and finally ceases. After that the cells all die. Each type of cell in the presence of its neighbor is mortal. Evidently each kind of cell gives off waste products which are poisonous for its neighbor. In short, the living organism is a mortal whole, made up if immortal parts. Only its eggs of spermatozoa have the chance of avoiding death. Cancer cells are examples of emancipated cells which multiply rapidly, invade the domains of the other cells, and finally disorganize the whole machine. They are like the cultures of isolated kinds of cells in the laboratory test-tubes. Just like these tissue-culture cells, cancer cells are potentially immortal. A tumor can be transplanted from an aged mouse into a young one. When this mouse in turn grows old the tumor can be removed and implanted in another young mouse, and so on. Cancer tissue is an instance of "tissue-culture" taking place inside a living organism. When the study of laboratory tissue-culture will have shown us what really is the product of one kind of cell which restrains the growth of another kind, we may be near to successfully combating cancer.

President Clark's Report At London Endeavor Meeting

Local members of the Christian Endeavor will be interested in President Clark's address at the London convention. He said:

"At this, the seventh convention of the Christian Endeavor societies of the world, it is appropriate that, as president of the World's Christian Endeavor Union, I should give some report of the activities in which our societies are engaged, though this is a well-nigh impossible task, so many and varied are they.

"Even to mention the countries in which these societies exist would take too much time. It would be much simpler to name the countries which have no societies. But neither is this safe to attempt, for I do not know of any such lands, and when I have occasionally ventured to name such a country in print, I have soon been reminded that I was mistaken, and that the country specified was not without at least a small contingent of enthusiastic Christian Endeavorers.

"It is certainly no exaggeration to say that our society is obsolutely world-wide, and that it was never so large or so blessed of God in all the world as today.

"In the United States more than 5,000 new societies have been formed within a year, and from almost every nation and denomination comes news of increase in numbers and activities.

"But this increase of numbers is not by any means the most important matter I have to report. It is of far greater significance to mention some of our regular activities. During the past 12 months groups of young people in all the world, called Christian Endeavor societies, have met together for no less than 4,000,000 of meetings for prayer and praise, and for testimony to their desire to serve the Lord Christ; there have been held under Christian Endeavor auspices more than 6,000 union meetings of young people, representing a hundred different denominations, thus greatly promoting universal Christian fellowship; 250,000 committees of young people to whom some definite Christian service has been committed have been at work for God and their fellow-men, and during the five and forty years that mark the limits of our movement, at least 18,000,000 of young men and women and boys and girls have made in substance this promise, involved in the Christian Endeavor pledge: 'Trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for strength, I will strive to do whatever He would like to have me do.'

"But enough of figures. They are useful for our encouragement and stimulus, but today we are looking forward and not backward, outward and not inward, upward and not downward, and we are joining hearts and hands in all the world for still better years of service for the Lord and Master, 'whom, having not seen, we love'."

Illinois Farmers War On Poisonous Weeds

(International News Service)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 27.—War has been opened by Dr. F. A. Laird, state veterainarian, and the state department of agriculture on snakeroot weed, which this year is claiming its usual number of cattle as victims.

Death of eight cattle on one farm near here brought a warning to farmers from the state to destroy this weed whenever found.

British Weather Man Forecasts Whole Year

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The ability to make accurate weather predictions a year in advance is claimed by Ernest Huggett of Beaconsfield.

Huggett says that the weather on the earth is governed entirely by the action of other planets. By observing the movements of these he is able to predict the weather for any given date or period.

"Each planet as it circles throws a ring on the earth," says Huggett. "It is the intersection of these rings which are responsible for weather changes."

Government meteorogical authorities have been asked to investigate Huggett's system with a view to adopting it for the official forecasts.

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., Aug. 27.—O11! This magic word is on the lips of every man in Morgan county, following the successful bringing in of a well north of this city. The well is located on the farm of O. F. Conklin. Paul C. Irwin, veteran oil man, is the prime mover back of the project and he stuck to his task of promoting and drilling the well despite the discouragement of business men of this county.

Recently natural gas in tremendous quantities was found near this city, the two forming links in what may prove a broad field for oil and gas operations.

The well, it is estimated, will produce 25 barrels of oil per day. Some estimate that the output will be double this figure.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Stocks of the railroad companies were carried to higher price levels in a wave of aggressive investment and speculative buying in the early trading today. The North-western Rails continued to dominate the list, but the dividend rails in all sections of the market moved upward a point or more to the accompaniment of a series of favorable July earnings statements.

The weekly reserve bank reports showed a falling off in rediscounts at this center, but a gain of about $35,000,000 for the system as a whole. Reserves were practically unchanged, and all the evidences pointed to a healthy money situation. Bearish professionals appeared to be more cautious in their offerings of the industrial stocks, and the trend of prices was moderately upward, with General Motors selling above 211, the highest price of the week.

Speculative interest was displayed in a number of the specialty stocks, with Warner Brothers Pictures A still in the center of the stage, though price changes were more moderate than in the last sessions. Yellow truck was bought in large volume around 34 on reports of anticipate buying of buses for New York City street traffic.

Florence Vidor In Smashing Success At Penn Theatre

FLORENCE VIDOR

An unusual, exceptionally fine motion picture came to the Penn yesterday, when the initial presentation of "You Never Know Women," delighted a large audience.

This production, starring Florence Vidor, may well be called "different." It combines spectacle with drama, vaudeville with lavishness, and musical comedy with picturesqueness. All are logically introduced into the story's theme, centering as it does, around the principals of a Variety Company.

The Penn also offers "Excess Baggage" a fine comedy and our old friend Felir the Cat in "The Tale of Two Kitties". It is one of the finest programs the Penn has offered this summer.

Cancer Kills Huge Number In France Figures Reveal

(International News Service)

PARIS, Aug. 27.—Cancer kills 40,000 people in France every year.

These alarming statistics recently published have brought forth the foundation of an institute for the study and treatment of cancer, created by the department of the Seine and the Faculty of Medicine, upon the instigation of Professor Roussy and Jean Varenne, general councillor of the Seine department.

If the deep causes of cancer still remain obscure, say these professors, the laws of its fast development are becoming better and better known. Everyone knows that cancer remains a local malady during a long time and during this period, it can very often be cured. There is a "therapeutic hour" for cancer, according to Dr. Charles Granelaude writing in "L'Illustration". Numerous experiences show that it can be cured at this time.

The new institute intends to coordinate and centralize all the work undertaken for the study of cancer, to facilitate research work and to establish suitable hospitals for cancer patients.

Radio Fans Start Preparing "Horns" For Series Games

(International News Service)

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 27.—Des Moines dealers in radio batteries do not need the sport scribes to tell them that a world series is coming. The increased orders for batteries, they say, are coming in as an indication that thousands of idle radios are going to be repaired and tuned up for the big diamond event.

"Many people who pay little attention to their radio for the greater part of the year get them out for the world series", one dealer declared. "Many others get new batteries in order that they may get the best possible reception."

Entire Klan Group Under Investigation

(International News Service)

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 27.—"Every member of the Ku Klux Klan at Palatka has been investigated by our secret operatives, and we have proof showing our members had absolutely nothing to do with the whipping and murders near that city recently," W. R. Scott, chief of staff for the Florida realm of the Klan, said here today in explaining his offer for $100 reward for the arrest and conviction of the men who shot two negroes to death at Palatka on the night of August 14.

Gossip of Staff Correspondents at World Centers of Population

By THOMAS R. CURRAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 27.—F. W. Murnau, the red-haired German director of "The Last Laugh", who has been imported to Holywood for one American picture, believes that films without titles show the cinema at its best.

There were no titles, the explanatory notes and bits of conversation flashed on the screen between scenes in "The Last Laugh". The action of the picture carried the story.

"Titles are artificial supports; in a titleless photoplay the producer relies alone on his proper essence —the picture itself," Murnau explained.

After he makes "The Song of Two Humans" for Fox, the director will return to Europe to keep obligations in Germany.

Harry Langdon, the pantomime comedy star of First National, is another believer in the passing of the title.

"An element of the present comedy which the future will see eradicated is the 'gag'," Langdon declared. "Comedies will not have to rely on funny bits of business for laughter. Pantomime, the story, and the situation will be the means of laugh-making. In five years the comedy which is just a string of irrelevant gags, will be unknown."

Now that the army, the navy, the marine corps and the city fire department have been "glorified" in motion pictures, producers have taken up the coast guard and the American flappers. Harry Rapf will produce "The Surfmen" for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, which will endow with heroic glamour the work of coast patrols; and Erich von Stroheim will direct Gilda Gray, the original muscle-dancer, in a picture called "Glorifying the American Girl".

Athletes aren't the only persons who go "stale". To avoid such a possibility, Reginald Denny, Universal star, and William Seiter, director for Denny's last five comedies, have decided to part company, at least temporarily, after they finish "The Cheerful Fraud".

Gertrude Olmstead, who entered the films with Universal six years ago when she won an Elks' beauty contest in Chicago, was borrowed from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for Denny's leading lady. Miss Olmstead was recently married to Robert Z. Leonard, M-G-M director, the divorced husband of Mae Murray.

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., the son of the original "Doug", is fast becoming one of the most sought-after juvenile leading men in Hollywood, proving that he is "a chip of the old block." Following his work in "Padlocked," young Fairbanks signed with Metropolitan Pictures to play with Marie Prevost in "Manbait".

Francis X. Bushman Jr., the son of Beverly Bayne and Francis X. Bushman Sr., is also coming along in pictures. Young Bushman recently signed a long-term contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Universal executive finally decided that "Oh, Promise Me" was a little bit too wishy-washy for such a rugged young man as Hoot Gibson. They thereupon changed the title of the cowboy's star's next picture to "The Buckaroo Kid".

Constance Howard, the sister-in-law of Sam Goldwyn, motion picture producer, has just completed her first picture in the movies. She played leading lady for Doug MacLean in "Here He Comes".

What is distance when love is concerned?

Robert Agnew, playing the leading role in King Baggott's "Down The Stretch", a race story now being filmed at Riverside, travels 140 miles a day to keep an engagement in Hollywood each evening with tiny May McAvoy, movie actress.

Riviera City Fights Independent Casino For Money Of Tourists

(International News Service)

NICE, Aug. 27.—Open warfare has been declared between the Jetee Promenade Casino and municipal authorities. The conflict grew out of rivalry between the Jetee Casino, an independent proposition, and the Municipal Casino.

In order to cope with the ever increasing number of American and English visitors the Jetee Casino recently decided to make an extension to their building costing approximately $25,000.

Municipal authorities granted a permit for the extension but later, through pressure brought to bear, it is believed, by officials of the Municipal Casino, the general council of the Alpes Maritimes department ordered the extension stopped.

Work on the extension had already begun. The direction of the Jetee Promenade Casino refused to stop the work and building is continuing, despite 20 summonses from the authorities. Outsiders are waiting eagerly for the next move of the municipality.

The reduced net rate will be $1.00 customer cost per month, plus 5 cents for each unit of consumption, with a monthly minimum of $1.00. Schedules of rates for other services are in preparation and will soon be announced.

Sword Of Napoleon Stolen From Museum

MILAN, Italy, Aug. 27.—A sword given by Napoleon to the opera singer, Giuditta Pasta, and other precious relics have been stolen from the theatrical museum adjoining the Scala Opera House that contains priceless objects and documents referring to ancient and modern dramatic art.

The thief, who is believed to have been hiding in the museum after the closing hour for visitors yesterday, took Napoleon's sword that was set with gems, a medal that once belonged to the celebrated Italian dramatist, Count Vittorio Alfieri, and a golden crown owned by the famous dancer, Marchionnini.

PENNZOIL WITH ETHYL ANTI-KNOCK COMPOUND ETHYL GASOLINE CORPORATION NEW YORK, U.S.A. GASOLINE

Knocks out that "knock"

To motorists who went driving last Sunday

IF YOU did not use Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline, you missed a bet in motoring pleasure.

It would have stopped the "knocking" of your engine; it would have given you more power on hills and quicker response in traffic; it would have turned your carbon into power.

Sunday is over but today is today — the day you should start using this new fuel.

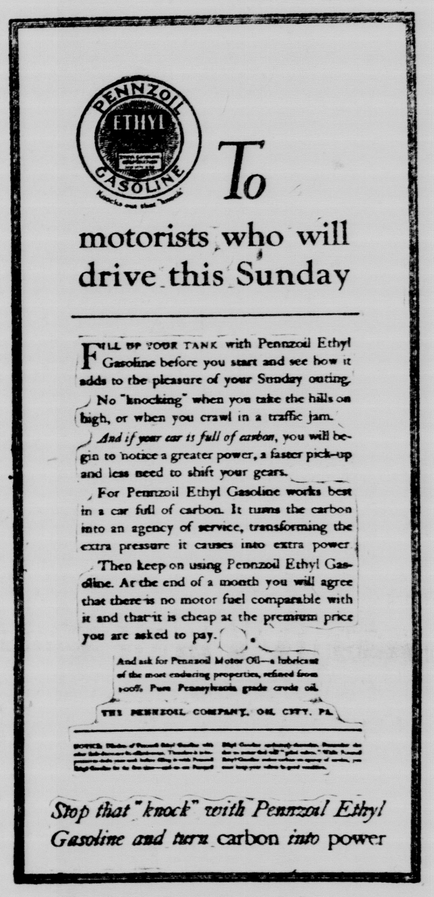
Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline is automotive science's answer to the need for a fuel which will prevent "knocking" and power loss under all driving conditions. And since it is unaffected by carbon, the increased pressure which carbon causes becomes increased power.

The first tankful of Pennzoil Ethyl will convince you of its magic qualities. Drive to a Pennzoil Dealer and fill your tank today.

And don't take a chance with "just oil." Ask for Pennzoil Motor Oil. Pennzoil contains only the inherent lubricating qualities of Pure Pennsylvania crude oil, and it will save you the trouble and expense that come from faulty lubrication.



From last Saturday's newspapers

THE PENNZOIL COMPANY; OIL CITY, PA.

NOTICE: Dilution of Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline with other fuels decreases its effectiveness. Therefore it is important to drain your tank before filling it with Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline for the first time—and to use Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline exclusively thereafter. Remember also that no motor fuel will "grind valves." While Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline makes carbon an agency of service, you must keep your valves in good condition.

Stop that "knock" with Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline and turn carbon into power

Brawny Workers Lack Leisure To Use Brains

Workers don't need culture half as much as enough food to eat and clothes to wear, a decent place to live in and enough money to give their children opportunities for education before their minds are dulled and their bodies stunted in mill, mine or shop. So says Philip Ziegler, editor of the "Railway Clerk," (which is affilated with the American Federation of Labor,) writing in the Forum Rostrum for September. He answers Hendrik Willem van Loon, who states in this same issue that the worker is a lowbrow. Let the liberal gentry who lead the civilized lives Mr. Van Loon talks about live the life of a coal miner, a steel worker, an iron puddler, a common laborer or even a railroad clerk; let them work eight, nine or ten hours a day at a nerve-wracking, body-breaking job at starvation wages; let them stand on the picket line and get their skulls cracked for demanding recognition of their union or a nickel an hour increase in wages and they will understand why the mass of workers are so little interested in music, art, and literature, says Mr. Ziegler.

The exactions of industry and the restrictions that inadequate wages place upon the workers destroy the desire for the few good things of life that are available to the wage earner. Let the liberals get down to earth and help the workers in a practical way to develop the kind of education that will aid them in solving the problems which grow out of the economic world in which they live and move and have their being, increase their wages so they can improve their environment, shorten their hours of labor so they may have leisure and energy to study, and the good life will follow and we'll have fewer disappointed liberals, is Mr. Ziegler's advice to the tired radicals.

Lutheran Synod Opens Sessions In Columbus, O.

Church Officials Take Up Matter Of Proposed Merger

(International News Service)
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 27.—Facing continued reports of the committees on home, inner, Brazilian, foreign, colored, and Mexican missions, before again resuming discussion of the proposed merging of the Ohio and Iowa Synods, 300 delegates and laymen attending the 48th annual convention of the Evangelical Lutheran joint synod of Ohio and other states reassembled this morning.

The committees were expected to finish their work before the noon recess and then the time will be devoted to hearing further addresses on the organic union of the two bodies. The Iowa synod has voted almost unanimously advocating the linking up of the organizations and Ohio started the movement.

It was freely predicted today that the final arrangements would be completed before the end of the week, although the unionizing of the bodies will not be completed for over a year.

The merging of the Iowa and Ohio synods will make a solid organization west of the Ohio river, bringing together approximately two million members of the church. It will also mean the reorganization of many publications issued by the separate organizations coordination of Lutheran Colleges and Seminaries, selection of new officers and redistribution of synodical funds.

Dr. Edward Pfeiffer, president of Capitol University here delivered the principal address at this morning's session.

At "Crossroads" In Religious Matters

"At the present moment an enormous number of people stand at the crossroads," says the Reverend Herbert Parrish, rector of an ancient New Jersey church. "They have scrapped the authority of churches, they have no regard for ecclesiastical organization. But neither have they any actual spiritual experience to supply the empty soul. They want something to take the place of that which they have lost. Interest in religion was never greater." But it is only peasants and the undeveloped mind of childhood that can any longer be imposed upon by ecclesiastical tyranny. Dr. Parrish sees Christianity as perhaps becoming but one of the great world religions—the best, but possibly not the final one. The transition is slow but it moves. —Atlantic Monthly.

Chicago Maniac Is Slain After Killing Of Man

Two Are Dead, Two Dying, One Seriously Wounded In Chicago Station

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Aug. 27. — Two men are dead, two dying, and another seriously wounded today, as the result of a maniac's charge through the Illinois Central Station here last night.

Joe Mazza, a Sicilian, was the demented man who ran amuck. He was shot to death by Charles Danloff, a World War veteran, after he had killed Louis Kigazas, a waiter in a restaurant and had wounded three men, two probably fatally.

Mazza was standing in the crowded station. He carried a single-shot gun and had a bag of shells strung around his neck.

Penna. Drivers Must Secure A State License

While Pennsylvania desires to reciprocate with other states in so far as the use of automobile licenses are concerned there is a limit to such reciprocity when legitimate citizens of Pennsylvania attempt to use a Florida or Ohio license for weeks or months in this state. This is indicated by an order received by the locale detachment of the state highway patrol yesterday.

It seems that there are many Pennsylvanians, persons who vote in this state, but are property owners in Florida and some spend their winters there. They secure Florida licenses the first of the year believing that they are entitled to operate their automobiles in Pennsylvania the remainder of the year on the Florida license. This is not allowed and the same applies to Ohio and other nearby licenses, the order indicates.

The state highway department does not wish to work any hardship on drivers, believing that many of them think they have lived up to the law, but has directed the patrolmen to open a drive on these car owners.

Warn them first and if they fail to secure the proper license, to prosecute them. This means the minimum fine of $10 and costs for the first offense. If a driver offends a second time patrolmen will recommend the maximum fine of $25 and costs.

Show Appreciation Of Coolidge Stand

(International News Service)
MEXICO CITY, Aug. 27.—The supreme council of 32nd degree Masons has cabled its felicitations and thanks to President Coolidge for his attitude of non-interference in the conflict between the Catholic church and the Mexican government over the latter's religious regulations. The council expressed the hope that the president will hold firmly to that policy.

The message was signed by Luis Manuel Rojas, grand master of Mexican Masons, who was a cabinet member in several Mexican administrations and president of the constitutional assembly of 1917.

Magnesia Best For Gassy Stomach

Bisurated Magnesia Promptly Ends Gas Sourness and Acid Indigestion.

If everything you eat turns to gas and your stomach is a constant ferment of sourness and Acid Indigestion, try taking a little pure Bisurated Magnesia after meals for a while and get the immediate relief from stomach trouble this simple prescription unfailingly gives.

It is a serious mistake to seek relief from Indigestion or a bad stomach by using pepsin or other artificial digestants. You get relief but weaken the stomach and do not reach the cause which, nine times in ten, is simply "too much acid" in the stomach. Bisurated Magnesia, taken after meals, dissolves or neutralizes this acid, sweetens and cleans up the stomach, drives out gas and bloat and lets the stomach digest your food as nature intended without a particle of trouble.

Reliable druggists everywhere supply the genuine Bisurated Magnesia in both powder and tablets in sealed packages. Do not confuse with ordinary citrate, milk or lump magnesia. Be sure to get Bisurated, which is not a laxative and is especially prepared for stomach trouble.

PETER'S ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

BY MRS FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

MOTHER LOVE.

"Come, come this will never do!" trumpeted Mrs. Elephant shrilly. "Pleny of time for loving when we get safe home. I must help you out of the deep ravine, sonny before darkness arrives. Climbing up the mountain side in broad daylight is one thing! Fumbling in the dusk for a foothold is quite another!"

"How're you going to get me out mother? How're you going to get me out?" demanded the little Tusker.

"Be still sonny! I must think!" With the tip of her trunk Mother Elephant thoughtfully rubbed her forehead.

"There is only one way!" squealed she at last. "And a hard way it is too, sonny. You must do just exactly as I tell you or it is a way that will not succeed."

The little Tusker solemnly raised his trunk.

"I'll mind you mummy. Truly I will. Just try me and see if I don't.

"Very well, sonny. You have promised, and no Elephant, even a very small one, ever breaks his word. Turn your back to me, so! Stand up on your hind legs. Careful, baby. That's right! You and I shall climb the mountain side together—you first and I close behind you to push you up. Watch your step sonny Be sure your foothold's firm before you trust your weight upon it. Ready, now! Up we go.

"Up we go! Up we go," squealed the litle Tusker, so excited he almost forgot his fear. "This is lots of fun, mummy. I like to climb a mountain, don't you?"

Mrs. Elephant made no reply but Peter knew she didn't like to climb such a steep ledge at all!

Then the little Tusker slipped, lost his balance, slid far over to one side, almost rolled down to the rocks below. But beneath him was that broad, kind head; supporting him was that mother love that would not let him fall.

Next: "Stepping Up."

UP WE GO" SQUEALED THE LITTLE TUSKER—BENEATH HIM WAS THAT BROAD KIND HEAD

When The First Gas Stove Was Shown

At the centennial exhibition held in Philadelphia in 1876 the first gas stove on record was used by a baking powder company to demonstrate cake baking.

At that time the gasoline stove was in general use.

But it was not until 1893, at the World's Fair, says Good Hardware, that the first elaborate display of gas stoves took place. And later, in 1901, the first all-steel stove was put on the market. In 1910 began the use of white porcelain enamel, which has taken the gas stove from the category of a mere utility to an article of cleanliness and beauty for the kitchen.

World Famine In Wheat Problem Of Agriculture

Multiplying Of Peoples Gives Rise To Fear For Future Supply

Famous Authority Shows British Association How Shortage May Come

By CHARLES A. SMITH.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The spectre of a world wheat famine and the coming of time when the wheat fields of the world will be unable to supply the multiplying peoples of the five continents was raised before the meeting of the British Association at Oxford by Sir Daniel Hall a world famous authority on agriculture.

Pressure on the wheat resources of the world was sooner or later inevitable, he told assembled agriculturalists, adding that one of the biggest problems before the world at present was to prevent that pressure developing suddenly or becoming unbearable.

"The white peoples of the world may yet be forced into teetoalism and vegetarianism" Sir Daniel declared. "Good wheat land is already running short and yet the wheat consuming population of the globe is increasing at the rate of five millions a year.

Vegetarianism Necessary.

"If the maximum of population supported by a given area of land is the objective, vegetarianism becomes increasingly necessary as we see among the crowded populations of China," he added. "An item of waste which would have to be eliminated in case of stern necessity is the conversion of potential food into alcoholic drink. Britain ferments the equivalent of one and a half million acres of barley. France devotes four million acres ot vineyards.

"Without going so far as to say that beer or wine posseses no food value it is certainly not half of that which could have been grown from the land thus used for the production of drink. All over the world it astonishes the traveler to see what bad lands the new settler is trying to farm. Evidently the good, easy, virgin land is no longer easy to find. In the United States we see continued attempts to win new land by forcing into cultivation the arid lands of alkali soils which the earlier settlers rejected. Vast irrigation schemes are being carried out though they show little signs of paying interest on their construction.

Canada Wheat Welcomed.

"It is significant that in Canada new wheats are being acclaimed because they extend settlement into regions where killing frosts may be expected in August and that dairy farming with a crop only in alternate years has to be resorted to in Australia and South Africa. These facts would seem to show that land is getting short in the world; at a any rate the naturally productive land on which the great expansion of the 19th century proceeded."

Producing statistics to support his contention Sir Daniel said that as it takes two and a half acres to support each person the yearly growth of the world's population demands that 12 million acres of new land must be found every year. "But no process of this kind is going on" he said. "Indeed for many crops there has been a shrinking of the acreage since the World War. Agriculture is losing its best brains and its best men. The lure of the cities is proverbial but the fundamental factor is economic.

"A flight from the land is going on everywhere. Over population and unemployment have become terrible realities in Britain and other countries."

Sir Daniel suggested that the mankind's chief hope of averting a wheat shortage was to intensify the cultivation of its land by scientific methods.

Science Asked To Investigate Quake Decline

COMRIE, Scotland, Aug. 27. — This town which firmly believes that it holds the world's record for earthquake shocks, has been visited by experts from the British Association for the Advancement of Science to investigate why the quakes have ceased.

Dr. Harold Jeffreys, the leading seismologist in Great Britain, headed the party.

"When you realize that more than 68 shocks were definitely recorded in Comrie between the few years, 1788-1804," he said, "and on top of that more than 300 shocks in the eleven years between 1839-1849, you realize that Comrie is an unusually interesting place. It is in fact, distinctly proud of its extraordinary record for earthquakes.

"However, it suffered the mortification of fifteen absolutely blank years then it had only fifteen earthquakes in the years 1864-1898, followed by more blanks, with a couple of good earthquakes in 1920, then silence culminating in two lively quakes on February 22 and 23 of this year."

Dr. Jeffreys refused to advance any theories as to the seismic decline of Comrie.

MAIL CARRIER

Official announcement of the appointment of E. M. Newton as mail carrier has been made. While it has been generally supposed for some time that Mr. Newton would be the appointee, no statement has been made of it, on account of the lack of official announcement. Everything is in readiness, and mail delivery will begin with the first of September. The request is made by Postmaster White that any who have not yet put up house numbers, or secured mail boxes, get them at once. It is not obligatory on the part of the mail carrier to deliver mail unless number is on your house and a small box is put up.

Officers elected for next year are: Pres., K. W. McFarland; Sec., Roy B. McFarland; Treas., Clyde Campbell. The next reunion will be held at the home place, the third Thursday of August 1927.

Mother Roasts Child To Death

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. — Maternal love gave way to insanity today when Mrs. Rosina Raio, 26, mother of four children and a patient in an insane asylum, placed her youngest son Frank, aged sixteen months, in a large pot and cooked him to death.

The woman then rushed upstairs to the apartment of her sister, Mrs. Rosalina Conagbien, mother of three children, and shouted:

"I've just cooked Frankie. Let's cook your baby, too and we'll take them over to the butcher and have them cut up for soup."

Feigning agreement, the sister seized her infant daughter and rushed to the street, where she screamed for help. Police entered the house and found Mrs. Raio gibbering in the cellar. The child's body was found in the steaming pot.

Science Shows Great Advance In Cancer Study

British Empire Campaign Offers Hope Of Final Victory Over Scourge

Report Discloses Effects Of Treatment On Animals In New Experiments

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 27.—"To predict the time when the problem of cancer will be solved is as yet impossible, but it is not too much to hope that with a combination of the present efforts a solution of this great problem is attainable."

That, in effect, is the genesis of the report issued by the British Empire cancer campaign after its annual meeting at the House of Lords here. The campaign was instituted two or three years back to assist research into the causes and means of combatting the scourge.

"It would be dangerous to raise false hopes at this stage," writes Lord Cave, chairman of the Grand Council, in his introduction to the report, "but we all know that even difficult problems yield in the end to continuous effort and careful organization."

The report discloses that important advances have been made by the scientists subsidized by the campaign during the past year. It is shown that Dr. Thomas Lumsden, working at the Lister Institute, has found that anti-human cancer serum kills mouse cancer cells out of the body almost as rapidly as an anti-serum made to mouse cancer itself.

This effect is so selective that when a fragment of mouse cancer and of mouse heart and kidney are grown in the same drop of serum application of the anti-human cancer serum selects and kills every malignant cell without damaging the normal mouse tissues in the slightest degree. The heart fragment continues beating and its cells actively divide and multiply.

"This observation," says Dr. Lumsden in the report, "opens up a large field for further investigation, and if an anti-serum made against mouse or rat cancer is found similarly to select and kill human cancer cells, then as far as in outward work goes an almost perfect re-agent would seem to have been found.

Unusual Experiments

"Nevertheless, it would only be harmful to the progress of this inquiry to attempt the treatment to human sufferers, and no such attempt is at present contemplated or even possible at this stage."

The report states that further experiments have been made into the cancer-producing properties of tar products and of mineral oils used in industrial processes. The general opinion and conclusion of the Research Institute of the campaign is that all mineral oils are under suspicion of being dangerous.

Hospitals associated with the campaign are still examining the theory put forward by Dr. Gye and Barnard. The report intimates that up till the end of 1925 the hospital experiments had yielded no support for the virus theory.

The theory that cockroaches are one of the causative agents of cancer is entirely negatived by experiments conducted by the campaign, according to the report.

British Astronomers To Study Eclipse Of Sun June 27 Next

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 27.—British astronomers are already making the fullest possible arrangements for dealing with the total eclipse of the sun timed to occur in the early morning of June 27 in the northern part of England next year.

As this will be the first eclipse witnessed in England for nearly two centuries, the event is being regarded with considerable importance here, and plans are being made to run special trains to the line of the eclipse in order to give amateur astronomers the opportunity of witnessing it.

The belt of complete totality will stretch 28 miles broad from Stockport to West Hartlepool, but in order to combat the possibility of cloudy weather the official astronomical bodies here are arranging to send representatives to Norway to witness and record the eclipse from that part.

The famous observatory at Greenwich, London, will send a squad of observers to the approximate center of the English belt equipped with most of the portable telescopes and cameras available. Arrangements have been made for transporting the mammoth 50-foot Greenwich telescope which is equipped with the Coelostat mirror attachment, enabling observers to work in an horizontal position.

Many American and other astronomers are expected here and in Norway to record the event.

The number of unemployed in Great Britain on July 26 was 1,605,500, according to official figures. This was 407,869 more than a year ago. The figures do not take into account the unemployed miners.

WHO'S WHO IN THE DAYS NEWS

BISHOP PASCUAL DIAZ.

Second only in importance to Archbishop del Rio among the leaders of the Catholic church who are playing prominent roles in the present religious drama in Mexico is Bishop Pascual Diaz.

There is not a man who is opposing the crisis but who admits the great ability of this man. For 28 of his 52 years he has been a priest and he became a bishop in 1922.

Bishop Diaz has none but Indian blood in his veins. He is tall, muscular, always smiling and his loyal followers call him the Church's most eloquent pulpit speaker. His reputation is that of a fighter who says he wants to say regardless of consequences to himself. He knows personally many of the principal Catholic prelates in the United States.

Bishop Diaz now living in a private home in the fashionable residential section of Mexico City, wears the regalia of his office. He receives reports from all over the republic and is the spokesman to the press for the church. Outside the house, conforming to law he appears in civilian garb. He reminds one of an American Indian—clean shaven, hair black as ebony and slightly sprinkled with gray, eyes that sparkle with humor, the stride of a warrior, the manners of a Chesterfield.

CANTON PLAYS NEW CASTLE HERE SATURDAY

Locals Hope To Secure Victory

GAME CALLED FOR 3:30 O'CLOCK

By "BUGS" WALTHER

The Canton Hooper Coals will be the attraction at Centennial field Saturday afternoon against the New Castle O. & P. team. The game is called for 3:30 daylight savings time.

The Canton team has been playing a snappy brand of baseball in their past few games and are out to defeat the New Castle team here Saturday. New Castle and Canton recently divided a double bill in the city made famous by the henious slaying of Don Mellett, newspaper publisher.

The New Castle team, with a revamped line-up and with either Hospidore or Cebula on the mound are out to take a victory, and if the boys continue to play ball like they did here last night against the Grays, many of the league teams are going to find the "sledding" mighty tough.

When Patterson, the new infielder from Ambridge, failed to show up for last night's game, "Sankey" McCullough, former third sacker, and more lately an outfielder, was shoved into the breach at shortstop berth and the Coaltown youth came through in fine style, taking care of two hard chances without a slip-up and handling the position with the grace of a tried veteran.

The locals are buried deep in the confines of the league basement, but that is no reason why they shouldn't be supported by the fans. The team is up and going now, and Manager Steen has instilled a new spirit into the team's playing.

Last Night's Fights

AT NEW YORK—Harry Persson of Sweden won from Johnny Risko, Cleveland 10 rounds. Big Sandy Seifert, Pittsburgh, lost to Fighting Bob Lawson, negro, of Alabama, 10 rounds. Monte Munn of Nebraska knocked out Jim Sigmund of Brooklyn in the first of a scheduled six-round bout. Billy Wiley, Yonkers, won from Erd Hall of Germany, six rounds. Jake Warren, Chicago, won from Rollo Seguero of Cuba, four rounds. Knute Hansen, Racine, Wis., knocked out Alfredo Porzio of Argentina in the second of a scheduled six-round bout.

IT WON'T WORK

Rover—They are talking of reviving the old-fashioned whiskers.

Rover. Why not?

Plan Meeting For Tonight

Officials of the New Castle team of the O. & P. League and officials of the Lawrence County League, also representatives of the Ellwood City and Neshannock teams, will meet tonight at eight o'clock in the New Castle News office for the purpose of arranging a series of games between the winners of the Lawrence County League and the New Castle team.

It is urged that officials of all teams mentioned be at the News office promptly at the time scheduled.

The series when staged will be the official championship of Lawrence county. Already considerable interest has been manifested in the proposition.

Junior Team Notes

This Column is Devoted Exclusively To Junior Baseball Briefs

The Dad's Palace A. C. defeated the Lutton Street Midgets 17 to 12, in a game played Thursday morning on the Lehigh field. The pitching of McConahey and E. Doran featured the game, while the hitting of Boughton and Newell was sensational.

The North End Midgets downed the Square Guys 14 to 6, in a game played Thursday afternoon on the North End field. Donaldson on the hill for the North End Midgets pitched fine ball, while heavy hitting by Spiker, Keller and McGaffic brought victory to the Midgets.

The Red Tops defeated the Dad's Palace A. C. team 13 to 7, in a game played on the Lehigh grounds on Wednesday morning. The Red Tops took the lead in the first inning and held it throughout. The hitting of Campbell featured the game.

The Red Tops would like to arrange games with all midget teams in the city or county. For information concerning the games call 2476-J and ask for "Art", between 5 and 5:30 o'clock.

Croton To Play Benefit Game

The Croton A. C. and Bessemer Gas Engine team of Grove City, will play a Christy Mathewson benefit game on the Marshall Field at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, it was announced today.

Teams all over this section are playing benefit games on Saturday for the Mathewson Fund. The cause is a worthy one, and the fans are asked to donate whatever they can.

Mathewson in his prime was probably the greatest pitcher that ever donned a uniform, and the vetran has since been called by the Grim Reaper.

High Football Team Ready To Open Camp

By "BUGS" WALTHER

With forty candidates eagerly awaiting the word to entrain for Muddy Creek Falls, the New Castle High School 1926 training camp will open on Monday morning, August 30, for one week of intensive study under Head Coach Phil. H. Bridenbaugh, and his assistants Thomas and Klee. Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner and Student Manager Merritt Hoag will also be on hand to attend the many cares relative to such an undertaking.

The first step toward the season was taken in the Ben Franklin High Stadium on Thursday night when Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner and Student Manager Hoag handed out forty uniforms to the youngsters and informed them that the training schedule would get under way at 10 o'clock Monday morning and that every mother's son should be in camp either on Sunday night or early Monday morning. Coach Bridenbaugh also made this point emphatic.

Nine Veterans

Included in the forty gridders who will spend a week at the Ne-Ca-Hi Football Camp are nine letter-men from last year as follows: Captain Harry Robinson, George "Peg" Thomas, Clarence Klaber, Robert Millison, "Tip" Richards, Earl Turk, C. Ulrich, Jack Christman and Dickson.

Five members of the second team from last year will go to camp they are as follows: William Kirk, Haydon, W. Mott, Johnny Melder and Sandifer.

The new comers to football circles at the High School who will battle for places on the eam this year and who will make the trip to camp were announced last night as follows: Manos, Harper, McGrath, Hammond, Hoffmeister, Dinsmore, Farrow, W. Smith, Funkhouser, Hawley, Ostrosky, Delaney, Mike, Burns, Sillman, Sage, C. Mott, Marino, McIntosh, H. Smith, Sherer, Jones, Mooney, DiThomas and Marcella.

That New Castle High is going to have a team this year that will average well into the pounds was evident to the writer last evening as the boys filed into the locker room to secure their equipment of uniforms, head-gears, etc. While none of the boys tip the scales over the 200 pound class, several of them come close to it, Christman weighing in at 193, and Dinsmore a rookie at 194. Robert Millison weighed 180, and young "Red" McIntosh displayed 172 pounds of beef.

Camp Is Ready

Camp Ne-Ca-Hi awaits the gridders, Gardner and Hoag together with a corps of assistants have been hard at work on the camp site for the past several weeks and all is in readiness for the opening of the camp on Monday morning.

Coach Bridenbaugh was not very communicative last evening when asked concerning the chances of New Castle High on the gridiron this year, the coach only shook his head to several questions, and when Bridenbaugh is that quiet it breeds ill for the opponents of New Castle High, this being used as a warning signal similar to the storm warnings issued by the government.

Following their one week at the training camp the Red and Black gridders will return to New Castle for the opening of school on Tuesday morning, September 7, and from that time on to the opening date the boys will undergo training at the Ben Franklin High Field.

The opening game will bring Mars High here on Saturday, September 18, which is not more than a month away and this means litterly speaking that the boys have a lot of hard work ahead of them if they hope to get in condition by the time the lid is ready to be taken off.

Three County League Tilts

Mahoning Will Play At Neshannocks And Ellwood Travels To Bessemer

ENERGY TO PLAY AGAINST WAMPUM

Ellwood at Bessemer.
Energy at Wampum.
Mahoning at Neshannocks.

Three good games are carded for Lawrence county league fans Saturday afternoon and it is likely that Bessemer will strive their best to put a check to Ellwood City's winning streak not because it will put Ellwood out of first place or knock the Tubers out of the flag race, but simply to hold the honor of being the only team in the circuit to defeat Wardman's aggregation.

While these two teams are struggling Energy will play Wampum at Wampum and as the teams are evenly matched there should be an airtight game.

The best loking game of the day will be played at Coaltown when Mahoning tangles with the "Nocks." Mahoning lost a few days ago but would like to displace the "Nocks" but they are several games behind second place and it is not probable they can owing to the season being about over and only a few games left on the card.

The Lawrence County league teams hope to end the season with a series of high class games and it looks as though three good ones are carded.

New Castle Tops Homestead Grays

ROBERTSON SCORES PAIR OF RUNS

The winning streak of the Homestead Grays did a fadeout here last evening at Centennial field, when Hospidore on the knoll for the New Castle O. & P. league team set them back with three hits and New Castle walked off with a 2 to 1 victory over the visitors.

The game was in all reality a pitchers' battle with Owens and Hospidore as the opposing flingers, and with the local twirler having the better of the argument from the very start of the game. The New Castle team backed up Hospidore with a brand of sensational fielding while the Grays played errorless ball behind Owens.

New Castle broke the ice in the second inning. McCullough was out on a grounder to B. Williams, Hoffman was out on a roller to Britt, Robertson walked and stole second, scoring on a single by Ross. Gahles ended the inning by fanning. The locals counted their final and winning run in the fifth inning. Robertson beat out an infield hit, Ross fanned, Gahles went out on a hard hit ball to B. Williams with Robertson going to second, Hospidore won his own game by driving in Robertson with a single to left field, Weimer went ont on a fly to V. Harris.

The Grays tried hard to score in several innings but their efforts were wasted by brilliant fielding on the part of the New Castle team. However, they did score a lone tally in the seventh frame. M. Harris walked and reached second on Pierce's out Hoffman to Pumphrey. Owens reached first on Pumphrey's error with Harris scoring on the play.

The Grays were determined to win the game even in the eighth inning when Graham singled and stole second, but two sensational catches by Buzzard and Weimer ended the rally and the Grays were held scoreless.

Hospidore deserves credit for his game against the Grays here last evening. He fanned four men and walked four, but for the greater part of the time he had the visitors popping up.

The game was stopped in the eighth inning on account of darkness.

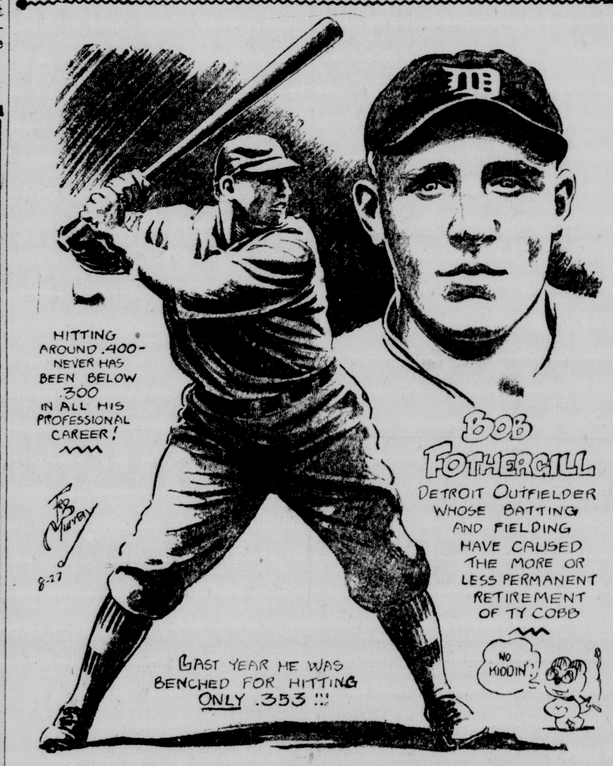
He Ousted Cobb

By Feg Murray



Over a hundred years ago Sir Walter Scott wrote a thrilling tale entitled "Rob Roy". Some modern novelist should write another about Rob Roy Fothergill, of the Detroit Tigers, for some time the leading batsman of the American League. The Rob Roy of Scott's novel was a famous outlaw. The Rob Roy of this yarn is an outfielder. Though quite a hero in his day, the fiery-haired Scotsman who blackmailed the gentry of his country under the protection of the Duke of Argyll, was known to fewer people than is the present Rob Roy, who wreaks his vengeance on opposing pitchers.

Robert Roy Fothergill lays claim to the double distinction of forcing the famous Ty Cobb into semi-retirement, and to being benched for hitting the high average of .353. The Georgia Peach realizes that, though his eye and brain are as keen as ever, there is no need for him and his ailing legs with a triumvirate like Heilmann, Manush, and Fothergill to hold down the outfield for his team. Last year when Heilmann, Cobb and Wingo were all batting around .400, the unlucky Fothergill had to sit on the bench, as his fine stick work was even surpassed by his three teammates.

Now, however, the big boy from Massillon, Ohio, has come into his own. And this lad (he was 27 last week) can field as well as bat. He is known as a ball-hawk and a very fast all-around performer, in spite of his tendency to take on weight. Bob worked in the steel mills when he was a boy and first played with Bloomington in the Three-Eye League, then Rochester in the International. This is his fifth season with Detroit.

Feg Murray Says—

About twenty men seem to have given up the Channel swim in sixty minutes or so, according to press reports. "They shall NOT pass", says Father Neptune—at the rate of twenty nots an hour.

Gene Sarazen Leads Tourney

Former National Champ Scores One Under Par To Top Field

SMITH TURNS IN CARD OF 76

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 27.—A record for prolonged endeavor on the golf links was set in the Western open championship at the Highland Golf club, where Macdonald Smith of New York is defending his title against 250 aspirants, many of whom were enmeshed in darkness before they could finish the first 18 holes of play.

In fact, the first round was made to extend over parts of two days, for, as the sun sank, such stars as Chick Evans, Al Watrous, Joe Turnesa and John Farrell still were far afield. The players stopped for the night and will resume their round in the morning.

Whether it was the slowness of play that deadened the keenness of the contestants or the precarious positions of the cups at the backs of the sloping greens that forced extra putts and approaches, the players for the most part did not score in a manner to frighten bogey. The defending champion took 76 strokes, six more than par. He did not lack company, for few were able to get close to the splendid 69 scored by Gene Sarazen of New York.

Gets Good Start.

Sarazen started with two pars and a birdie and was perfect for three more holes before he went one above par on the seventh. Two more par holes gave him a perfect 35 at the turn. He got birdies on the eleventh and the twelfth and was two under par at the end of the fourteenth. Sarazen misjudged the 201-yard fifteenth against the breeze and took four, but with a trio of fours for a finish, broke par by one blow.

P. O. Hart of Marietta added one stroke to Sarazen's card for his total of 70, which gave him second place. Hart had to his credit a splendid 33 for the incoming nine, where he chalked up three birdies for a total of four sub-war holes. Laurie Ayton of Chicago and Francis Gallett of Milwaukee followed closely with 71 each, while Bill Hartshorn and Jock Hutchison of Chicago were only one stroke further back with 73 apiece.

Espinosa, Cooper Up.

Abe Espinosa of Chicago and Harry Cooper were well up in the list with 74 each, while James Mansion of St. Louis and John Lehman of Gary, two amateurs, were able to tie with the redoubtable Walter Hagan at 75. Only one stroke behind were a dozen players including three amateurs. Eddie Held of St. Louis, Trans-Mississippi titleholder, Densmore Shute, West Virginia champion, and Douglas Casey of the home club.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Elwood English, 20 year old shortstop of the Toledo club and one of the best youngsters in the American association today was purchased by the Chicago Nationals for three players to be named by January 1 and a "whale of a lot of money" according to President Veeck.

According to an unofficial source it was said English cost the Cubs $50,000.

English is five feet, 11 inches tall exceptionally fast and a fairly good hitter. Playing in 124 games with Toledo he scored 54 times and is

Youngstown Fight Program Causing Considerable Talk

Mitchell-Levine Battle At Idora Park September 1, Interests Fans

By JOE HAYNES,
(Special To The News)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 27.—While it is a known fact that the Mitchell-Levine battle at Idora Park, Youngstown, O., September 1st, is causing quite a bit of talk among the fans all over the country, the second ten rounder between Jimmy Jones and Sailor Freidman, is the battle that the fans around this section are interested in.

Jones, a local boy, who with the exception of his fight with Morrie Schlaifer, the Omaha bearcat, has never put up a good battle in this city. Jones, recently suspended by the Toledo Boxing Commission, for not doing his best in his fight with Jimmy Finley, will be out to show the fans and the boxing commission that he can and will fight.

A word of explanation about that Jones-Finley affair would not come in amiss right here. Finley, strictly a defensive fighter, goes into a shell at the first bell, and stays there until the last bell. The only target a fighter has to shoot at is the top of his head, and that is a hard spot for any man to hit. Jones dropped Finley for the nine count in that fight, but drew the suspension right on.

In our humble opinion, Finley and not Jones, should have been the one set down, as the newspapers gave Jones the credit of making whatever fight there was.

Sailor Freidman is well known to the fans of this section. Freidman is the same boy that gave Joe Simienivch, the "Butte Mauler", such a whaling here not long ago. In the battle Freidman won a big crowd of followers by the easy way that he handled the Montana fighter. The sailer has the reputation of being the cleverest and shrewedest boxer that has stepped into a local ring in a long time.

In the first ten rounder Johnny Hill, Filipinio boxer, and Spencer Gardner of New York, will come together, while in the eight round prelim George Harris and Johnny "Kid" Roberts will swap punches. The last two named will go on promptly at 8:15 p. m.

Tagging All Bases

(International News Service)

Smashing hits won a victory for the Pirates over the Giants, and sloppy fielding by the latter allowed the score to run to 15-7. Pittsburgh returned to first place.

Jakie May and Dazzy Vance staged a pitching bee, the former casting an unprecedented spell over the Dodgers, eight of them fanning. Vance retired four. Cincinnati won, 3 to 1.

The Cardinals again dropped back into a tie with Cincinnati for second place by losing the series opener to Philadelphia, 3 to 2. The Cardinals got 13 hits, but were unable to bunch them.

Guy Busch won his sixth consecutive victory when the Cubs welcomed the Braves in their series opener with a 3 to 1 victory for Chicago.

Philadelphia fans were given 23 innings of baseball when the Athletics won both games of a doubleheader with the Browns in extra innings. Al Simmons' 17th homer of the season in the 11th inning won the first, 8 to 6, while the same gentleman's single in the closing chapters of the second game accounted for a 4 to 3 victory.

Washington's pitching veterans, Johnson and Coveleskie, beat the Chicago White Sox, 9 to 3 and 3 to 1.

Stolen Car Found; Had Been Stripped

The automobile of John McMasters reported Thursday as having been stolen from the vicinity of the Y. M. C. A., where Mr. McMasters is staying, was found late yesterday on North Mercer street. It had been stripped of everything that could be removed, indicating the cause of the theft of the machine, as being the desire to get some spare parts for some other machine.

False Bank Notes Are Work Of Artist

Best Counterfeiters Are So Few In Number They Are Easily Traced

The portraits and other free-hand decorations on the government notes are the work of the finest artists in the country. Few, indeed, are the men who can turn out equally fine engravings. Different vignettes on the same bill are the work of different men, each a master in his line. The counterfeiter thus finds on every note several types of engraving and he must be an exceptional artist to be able to duplicate them all.

In general it has been found that landscape scenes are more susceptible of imitation than some of the other types of vignettes. Accordingly, a note never bears a landscape alone. With it will always be found a portrait; historical scene, allegorical interpretation, or some other type of engraving, says Everybody's Magazine.

Artists Limited.

There are artists outside those in the government employ who can perform the same class of work with the same degree of excellence. However, they are assured such a large financial return through honest endeavor that there is no motive for them to turn criminal. Furthermore, their ranks are so limited that when a particularly well executed note appears in circulation the responsibility can be fixed within narrow limits. By watching the few men who might turn out work of that grade, the secret service operatives are never long in locating the guilty party or parties.

When the work is that of a foreigner the task is harder. Some skilled engravers have come into this country and set up counterfeit plants which baffled detection for a time. Such a one was Albert Leon, who eluded the government men for two years. Leon was a Russian refugee. In his native land he had made counterfeit paper rubles for the Nihilists. It was only natural that he should turn to spurious money making in the United States.

One year the Pacific northwest began to show an alarming increase of counterfeit ten-dollar notes. Operatives searched high and low for the source, but at first they got no results. Whoever was doing the counterfeiting was an expert engraver and his plant was very cleverly concealed. The bogus notes were examined for some clew. They were printed on a high grade bond paper, of which two sheets were pasted carefully together to obtain the desired thickness.

Betrayed By Hairs.

There was nothing particularly unusual in this, but the silk threads on examination developed a starting peculiarity. Under the microscope it could be seen that they were not silk at all. They were the short reddish hair of some wild animal, or perhaps a dog. "Malemutes," said the detectives at a guess. "Let's start working north. The fellow may have been snowed in for the winter and couldn't get silk threads."

The steps by which the counterfeiters were run down are too long to detail, but the guess proved correct. They ran the gang to earth on Nootka Island, an isolated piece of land near Vancouver, British Columbia. Albert Leon was the crook. Just as the operatives had suspected, in purchasing supplies before the annual freeze-up, Leon had forgotten to include silk thread. The hairs of his dog betrayed him.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Rival Governments In Kansas.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

THE EFFORTS OF THE NORTH TO "ABOLITIONIZE" KANSAS (1854-1855) AROUSED THE RESENTMENT OF THE SLAVE STATES, PARTICULARLY MISSOURI. THEY LOOKED UPON THE NORTHERN EMIGRANTS AS "HIRELINGS" AND "MEDDLERS" WHO CAME, NOT WITH THE TRUE SPIRIT OF THE PIONEERS, BUT, TO PREVENT A FAIR SETTLEMENT OF THE NEW TERRITORY.

THE MISSOURIANS FORBADE FREE-SOIL SETTLERS TO CROSS THROUGH MISSOURI. NEVERTHELESS, HUNDREDS OF NORTHERN EMIGRANTS ARRIVED IN KANSAS WHERE THEY BEGAN AT ONCE TO BUILD TOWNS. THE CHIEF OF THESE WAS LAWRENCE.

IN MARCH, 1855, WHEN A LEGISLATURE FOR THE TERRITORY WAS TO BE ELECTED, GREAT NUMBERS OF MISSOURIANS CROSSED THE BORDER, FLOCKED TO THE POLLS AND CARRIED THE ELECTION OF A STRONG PRO-SLAVERY LEGISLATURE.

THE FREE SOIL MEN OF KANSAS REFUSED TO RECOGNIZE THIS LEGISLATURE, AND AT A CONVENTION HELD AT TOPEKA, FORMED AN ANTI-SLAVERY GOVERNMENT. THEY AT ONCE APPLIED FOR ADMISSION TO THE UNION AS A FREE STATE, BUT WITHOUT SUCCESS.

Merchant Ships Offered For Sale

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—"Out of the shipping business by Christmas."

With this slogan flying at the masthead, the U. S. shipping board today began looking around for purchasers for the United States and American merchant lines which will include the Leviathan and other crack trans-Atlantic ships.

None of the ships will be sold except to Americans and then only under stipulations as to their continuance under the American flag.

Leslie Building Squirrel Homes At Court House

There's a building boom going on at the present time on the Lawrence county court house lawn. A building boom that is providing homes for residents of the trees up there, and there is a strong suspicion that the builder of these houses has not taken out a building permit, nor received permission from the zoning commission.

Four modern houses, with all the up-to-date conveniences such as hot and cold folding doors, fleece lined window sash, and stream lined body porches, have been built and are being placed in the branches of the trees to accommodate several families of squirrels.

The architect, contractor, carpenter and plumber on the job is former County Commissioner R. M. Leslie, and because he is a nature lover he has built the squirrel homes.

Squirrel Is Interviewed

While one of the squirrels was waiting for his home to be placed he consented to be quoted in The News over the home project.

"It's a nice piece of work" he said, "and the wife and I appreciate the work of Mr. Leslie and the courtesy of the Lawrence county commissioners in putting up these himes."

"It relieves me of a job of building a home and gives me more time for cross word puzzles and collecting nuts. It will also relieve me of the necessity of going in to see James R. Lamoree, the chief clerk to the commissioners for materials. Not that Jimmy ever objected to handing them out, but then a fellow hates to be asking for things all the time."

"And then it gives one a sense of permanency. We've felt like squatters around here for some time, but now we consider ourselves full fledged citizens of the First Precinct of the Third Ward."

"Drop in some afternoon with a collection of nuts" he concluded, but he neglected to say whether he meant hickory or golf.

Boys Are Found Playing With Bomb

There were visions, for the moment at least, in the minds of the police officers on duty at the police station, of a bombing attempt in this city, when Herbert Eakin, 406 Connor avenue, brought to the police station, what had every indication of being an infernal machine of some kind and William Shay and Norman Grim, the two boys in whose possession he had found it.

The supposed bomb was made of several parts, each wrapped in heavy tinfoil, and all held together by a wire.

The boys were playing with it in the vicinity of the Ed Young store on Walnut street, when it was dissovered in their possession. Mr. Eakin opened one of the parts and found it contained what appeared to be powder and small stones.

The boys claimed to have found it in a chickencoop in the Croton avenue district.

Ellwood City Library Report By Mrs. Charles

In spite of the fact that so far as growth is concerned the library is practically at a standstill, its use has increased 15 per cent in circulation and 26 per cent in the number of borrowers registered.

While new books to the number of 1,737 have been added, we have only 215 more on the shelves than at the beginning of the year, because 1,522 have been discarded. Three factors have contributed to this large casualty list, all of which are traceable to our overcrowded quarters. In the first place, our shelves are so full that books that have outlived their usefulness must be discarded to make place for new ones; second, our books are overworked. We are making 8,000 do the work of 12,000, consequently they wear out faster than they should. Third, there were 490 volumes missing in inventory, which were probably carried off during the rush periods when complete supervision is impossible. The scarlet fever epidemic took heavy toll of books in the children's room, since all that were out in quarantined homes had to be destroyed.

Of the books added, 806 were for adult readers and 931 for juveniles. The total number of volumes at the end of the year is 8,068, of which 661 are for reference only. Sixty-four periodicals are on file with the reader's guide index to general periodicals and the industrial arts index for the trade and technical magazines.

The total circulation of books for home reading was 7.211, an increase of 10,813 over last year. The average daily circulation was 231 volumes. The total number of adult books loaned was 35,990, juvenile 34,221. Total fiction, 54,089, non-fiction, 16,122.

The number of adult borrowers registered was 833, juvenile 940, making the total registration for the year 1,823. The number of cards canceled was 863, leaving a total of 5,127 active borrowers. It has been the custom to charge a fee of $1 a year to non-residents, but this year one exception was made in favor of tuition pupils in the schools who are now allowed free use of the library. This was a popular move and brought us a number of out-of-town borrowers.

Figures by themselves have little meaning and statistics are chiefly of value as a basis of comparison. The state library has recently published a "measuring table" for libraries, showing what is expected and, by comparing our figures with theirs, we are able to see where we make good, and what is more important, where we fall short.

According to this table, there should be one book per capita. We lack 3,000 volumes. The circulation per book should be six, ours is 8.7; circulation per capita, five; ours is 6.4; circulation per registered borrower, 10; ours is 13.7. The percentage of fiction in the circulation should be 60; ours is 77, and our percentage of juvenile is 47, when it should be but 30. The average registration for the U. S. is 50 per cent of the population; in Pennsylvania, 25 per cent. Ours is 46 per cent.

We rate exceptionally high in financial support. In a handbook just published by the Pennsylvania Library association our library is fourth on the list of libraries in the state in towns of 5,000 and over graded according to per capita expenditure. As this table is designed to show the ratio between expenditures and service, we may be proud of our position.

Our budget provides for a little less than the prescribed 50 per cent for salaries and a little over the 25 per cent apportioned to books. The other items are approximately correct. The book fund should be evenly divided, one-third for reference books, one-third for adult circulating and one-third for juvenile books. We are spending too much on the last two and not enough on reference books, but it would be hard to get the public to agree to this.

These figures show that, while we are doing all that can be expected with the facilities at hand, we are not adequately supplying book demands of the community.

As usual, the library was headquarters for the high school debate teams, and the literary societies were supplied with material for their programs. Supplementary reading was provided for grade teachers and pupils in dramatics, history, geography and nature study. This material was kept in a section devoted to books for teachers. Lists of books on various subjects were kept in reserve for high school teachers. The required reading lists for English literary classes gave a decided impetus to the circulation of classics and standard authors, so that attractive illustrated editions of Vanity Fair, David Copperfield and Jane Eyre were almost as popular as the "best sellers".

A gift of $25 from Dr. Ullam provided the nucleus of a fine collection of scout books that have been in great demand.

Because of the scarlet fever epidemic there was no special observance of Children's Book Week, and some especially fine editions of the children's classics that had been bought for that occasion were not put into circulation until later in the season.

The library was represented at the annual meeting of the P. L. A. at Wernersville last October and at the district meetings at Greenville and New Castle, by the librarian.

We make grateful acknowledgment to our many friends for gifts of books, magazines, flowers and money and to the Ellwood City News Co., the Evening Ledger and The New Castle News for the daily papers.

Monthly Report.

Librarian's report, month ending August 25, 1926.

This has been a slow month, with only 3,713 books loaned for home reading, the smallest circulation in more than a year and 805 less than that of the corresponding month last year. The juvenile circulation shows the greater loss due no doubt to the fact that no new books have been added to the children's shelves for several months. This will be remedied within a few days, however, as 324 new books for younger readers have just been accessioned and are now being cataloged. These are principally supplementary readers, history, travel and nature stories for the lower grades. There is a fine lot of books for the older boys and girls ordered, which should be ready for use this coming month.

There is a slow but steady arrival of the new fall fiction for the rental collection. These are ordered in advance of publication and come in a few at a time as published. It is impossible to keep up with the demand for current fiction, as it would take all of our book appropriation to do so. Theoretically, the books in the rental collection pay for themselves but actually only the more popular ones do so. They are kept on the rental shelves for a reasonable time and then transferred to the free shelves. In this way our fiction is kept up to date.

Forty-eight borrowers have been registered making the total of persons enrolled, 5,296.

The new five volume history of Pennsylvania by George P. Donehoo, former state librarian, has just been received. It contains biographies of many of our prominent fellow townsmen and a brief sketch of the public library.

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Aug. 27.—"No teacher or principal shall be allowed to admit a child into the public or private institution who has not been successfully vaccinated." Many people will be glad to have their children vaccinated one year earlier, and will not object to the enforcement of this law. The children at the ages of 4 and 5 years who will enter the kindergarten will only be in line for vaccination one year earlier than formerly necessary.

The actual distance in a straight line is about eleven miles, but the course followed by Maxine—directly seaward for five miles and then up the shipping channel—is twenty-one.

Tin Trade Romance Goes Back Centuries

Ancients Drew Supplies From Cornwall, Brittany And From Bohemia

The Bronze Age, in the minds of most of us is synonymous with the accelerated civilization which followed the Neolithic Age. The Bronze Age did not begin when the ancients in the Mediterranean area discovered copper; it began only when they found tin to mix with their copper.

Tin was very scarce in Mediterranean lands, but there was considerable of it in Bohemia and Saxony, which came south along the old Baltic amber trade route, and there was tin in Spain, in Brittany and in South England. As the beginning of the Bronze Age is dated several hundred years earlier than any historical account of the import of tin from England or Brittany, common sense would seem to be enough to make good the belief that the nearer-by sources of tin, especially in Bohemia, were the first used. To be sure, the port of Tartessus, in southwest Spain, was the great commercial center for all Atlantic trade from perhaps 1000 B. C. to 500 B. C., but whether much tin came there either from Cornwall or Brittany is hard to decide.

We know that the mines in South Brittany were worked earlier than 500 B. C., for the Cornwall product superseded their output about that time. The Cornwall tin was collected in an island called Ictis—probably Mount St. Michael, and all exported from there, either by sea via Gibraltar or by land across France. It may be guessed that the Carthaginians, or even earlier the Phoenicians, had good reasons for not wanting Greeks to sail out between the Pillars of Hercules into the Atlantic. The earliest Greek we know who got into the Atlantic was blown out there accidentally. He was trying to get to Egypt, but missed it badly. It was nevertheless a lucky thing for this Coleus of Samos for he brought back a profitable cargo in the year 630 B. C.—New York Herald Tribune.

Sun Dance Barbarity Tempered By Indians

Modernism Injected By Redskins Who Attend Ceremonial In Motors

There was a curious mixture of modernism and barbarity in the strange ceremonial of Bannock and Shoshone tribes of Indians, which took place near Pocatello, Idaho, recently, says the Milwaukee Journal.

They held a three-day dance to the sun god, while their squaws chanted weirdly. Many stalwart bucks danced till they fell from exhaustion, while women of the tribes united their voices to stimulate the men to continued exertion, as they hopped around a totem pole in the centre of the enclosure, and blew shrill blasts with birch whistles. A blistering sun shone upon them all day, as if the sun god himself were looking up the dancer's exertions.

This barbarous ceremonial had not been conducted for some years, not because the red men were unwilling to undergo its painfulness, but because the ruling palefaces decided that the ceremonial was torture for its participants.

As for the mixture of modernism with this sun dance, it is recorded that Indians came from far to witness the spectacle, many of them in motor cars, a vehicle which must cause the sun god surprise as he watches the proceedings.

Adirondack Peasants Called Chicago Myth

"Ain't No Such Critter" In Empire State, New York Times Asserts

According to the Chicago Tribune which is not always quite as respectful to the east as the Middle West ought to be, the New York papers have not sent reporters of the right sort up into the Adirondacks to report the happenings at and near White Pine Camp.

The Tribune grows facetious over the inability, as it imagines, of the assigned correspondent to decide whether it was a pike or a pickerel that the president caught. Only when Governor Smith appeared by the lake, it says, and talked of light wines and beer and other things familiar to metropolitan reporters could they write with any ease or certainty.

Their one interesting achievement, the Tribune asserts, was the discovery of the New York "peasantry." That was done when "a native" pulled two of them out of the water into which a clumsily overset canoe had tumbled them.

Now "peasantry" is a word safe to apply to the resident and born inhabitants of the Adirondacks only from a distance at least as great as Chicago. "Natives," is a term they would accept cordially enough and even proudly when it was used by a New Yorker. They have,however, not one trait of peasants—neither their humility nor their occasional ferocity and still less either their illiteracy or their superstitions.

They are just plain American citizens, well edapted to environment, and with no end of reasons for being self-respecting in any presence. Presidents and Governors do not awe them.—New York Times.

Col Jack Hays Old Texas Ranger

Throughout this period of slaughter Hays was wounded but thrice, and never seriously. Once while scouting at the head of 12 Rangers he surprised an equal number of Comanche scouts, suddenly rising up within 60 or 80 yards of them. They fled to a dogwood thicket and fortified themselves behind three oaks. Hays dismounted his men, stationed ten around the thicket and, taking two with him, entered it. A flight of arrows killed one, dangerously wounded the other and injured Hays' finger. He dragged the wounded man to safety and reentered the thicket, armed with a double-barreled shotgun and a pistol. Of three savages coming out at him simultaneously he killed two with the shotgun and, reserving the pistol for an emergency, left the thicket, procured a Jaeger rifle and returned to the attack. He fought three hours. Arrows fell thickly around him, but the density of the thicket and his frequent changes of position baffled his foes. Eventually but one Comanche remained. Armed with a gun and intrenched behind a log he proved the most formidable of all. Hays, maneuvering in the brush, made repeated changes of position to get a good shot at him. The Indian at last upreared himself and their shots rang out simultaneously. Hays suffered a grazed shoulder, but the Comanche was killed.

What was regarded as the fiercest fight in the history of the Rangers was that at Cista's Creek, where Hays at the head of 15 men rounted 76 well armed and well mounted savages, killing 31 and wounding most of the others.—From Adventure Magazine.

Foolish Beliefs Not Confined To Sailors

In defense of the supposedly superstitious fisherman, Lorenzo Sabine, in 1853, in an article on the American fisherman, wrote:

"It is said that he is credulous and superstitious. Admit that Kidd's money has been dug for in every dark nook of the coast, or talked about in every cuddy for a century and a half, and that horseshoes are nailed upon the masts of fishing vessels to keep off witches; what then? Is he the only one who has been or still is guilty of the same follies?

"In 1825 the duches de Berri visited a watering place in France and indulged in sea bathing. Salt water and fish which were afterward taken from the spot were articles of immense value and sold at enormous prices. Indeed, those persons who could not purchase a whole fish gladly possessed themselves of a few scales or a fin! The water where the 'royal person' had been washed, when bottled and offered for sale, was known as "Berri wine.' Have fishermen committed greater follies than these fashionable people of France?

Good for Lorenzo! Today horseshoes are so scarce that nobody no longer nail them to the masts of their schooners to keep off wiches, although they do hang used automobile casings over the side to keep off other craft that might rub their planking.

RECOVER 41 BODIES FROM MINE

PROHIBITION OFFICIALS CONFESS LIQUOR THEFT

Hope To Reach The Remaining Bodies Before Night—Thought That The Final Death Toll Will Reach Forty-Four—Believe That Accumulation Of Gas Caused Explosion—Ten Miners Escape—Heart Rending Scenes At Mouth Of Mine As Relatives Gather.

By SI NEIMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

AT THE MOUTH OF CLYMER MINE NO. 1, Clymer, Pa., Aug. 27.—With the recovery of nine additional bodies this afternoon, the known death toll of the disastrous explosion here reached 41.

Leaders of the mine rescue crews believe three more bodies are pinioned under fallen rock and timber in the section most seriously affected by the blast. They hope to reach those bodies before night.

As the work of rescue crews became more complete the belief prevailed among both mine officials and rescue experts that the final death toll will stand at 44.

Ten, and possibly more, miners at work when the explosion occurred, made their way to safety and were not seriously injured. Four miners, near the mouth of the mine at the time of the blast, collapsed and were taken to Dixonville hospital, four miles from here.

Identify Dead

Ten other bodies were in the improvised morgue where attempts were being made to identify them. In many instances identification was next to impossible because of the mangled condition of the bodies.

Those miners believed dead and included among the ten unidentified bodies recovered were:

Ten Miners Escape

The ten miners who walked safely out of the mine through an air shaft far back in the mine were: Fred Zlater, Joe Paul, John Olson, Blosy Bucho, Andy Reschanski, Mike Seaman, Mike Licklewarch, Raymond Johns, Dominick Beletti and Mike Togni.

While the four miners removed to Dixonville hospital were reported as serious, physicians said they had an even chance for recovery. They are suffering primarily from the poisonous gases which followed in the wake of the explosion. These miners are A. L. Beechy, Roscoe Rappish, Mike Puro and Robert Record.

Exact circumstances of the explosions—there were two separate and distinct shocks—were unknown to both company officials and survivors of the catastrophe.

All men working in the heading where the explosions occurred were killed and those who escaped were working so much farther back in the mine, which is of the drift type, that they knew nothing of events leading up to the blasts.

There is no doubt, according to A. J. Musser, vice president and general manager of the coal company, but that an accumulation of gas in the heading known as the "Eight Right" was ignited, causing

Salvation Army On Job Early

Women not members of the organization also volunteered their services and they were accepted.

Reveal Tieup Of Mellett Murder With Booze Ring

BY PAUL E. BROKAW

CANTON, Ohio, Aug. 27.—The Stark county grand jury considering evidence in the Don R. Mellett murder today learned for the first time of the reported directed tieup of the assassination with a huge liquor conspiracy.

This was the belief of those most interested in the case when it was announced that H. C. Pontius, legal adviser and friend of the slain editor, who spent the entire morning before the jury, would return this afternoon.

Pontius, having a vast amount of reserve knowledge concerning the rum ring, Mellett's clean-up activities, and of the murder and the subsequent investigation, was expected to remain with the jurors throughout the day.

Heroic Work Of Priest Rescuing Entombed Miners

Rev. Father F. S. Kondria Faces Death In Entering Mine

By CARL L. TURNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

AT THE MOUTH OF CLYMER MINE NO. 1, CLYMER, Pa., Aug. 27.—Throughout the trying hours of the night, when five thousand anxious relatives and friends awaited some hopeful word from within the wrecked mine where their loved ones were dying an awful death, and long past dawn today one figure stood apart from all others.

That figure was the Rev. Father F. S. Kondria of St. Anthony's church at Clymer, where most of the ill-fated miners worshipped and sought the fatherly advice of the priest.

Father Kondria, who was in the vicinity when an ominous cloud of dense smoke issued forth from the mouth of the mine, giving warning of the tragedy that had taken place inside, was one of the first persons to arrive at the mine.

Although he had no gas mask, Father Kondria insisted upon entering the mine in the first car to descend after the explosion to administer the rites of his church to the victims.

When the mine car had penetrated as far as it crew dared, in face of the poisonous gases, the parish priest left the car and fought his way back into the danger zone, where he saw the bodies of four miners.

Fearing that the priest would be overcome by the deadly gas, the miners in the first rescue car attempted to drag him bodily to safety, but their efforts were futile until he had attended the ill-fated men.

Father Kondria was so nearly exhausted when he finally reached the surface that first aid crews worked over him for several minutes before he regained his faculties.

Then, when rescue crews finally pushed their way back into the shaft to where the victims' bodies were recovered, it was Father Kondria who, because of his acquaintance with most of the victims, was called upon to take charge of the task of identifying them.

Although he found no time for sleep during the night, Father Kondria carried on today, breaking the sad news as gently as possible to the miners' families and comforting them in their hour of sorrow.

Attorney Charged With Conspiracy In Liquor Theft

(International News Service)

ERIE, Aug. 27.—Attorney Wesley A. Moffatt of Pittsburgh, attached to the office of Prihibition Administrator John D. Pennigton was placed under arrest today charged with conspiracy against the United States and rescuing government property from the prohibition warehouse in Erie.

The arrest of Moffatt is the second in connection with the theft of 508 cases of Canadian ale part of the shipment taken from Amos Vandeveer, alleged Canadian rumrunner. The ale was ordered returned to Vandeveer as the government had taken it from him in Canadian waters. John Quinn who was group head at Erie at the time of the theft, was arrested this week at his home in Indiana, Pa., and is out on $3,000 bail.

The charges against Moffatt were made before United States Commissioner Roger Knox of Pittsburgh.

Miss Agnes Scully of Butler avenue, has returned from a two weeks vacation at Geneva-on-the-Lake.

Mystery surrounding the disappearance of F. Willard Cameron of 420 Garfield avenue last Friday, and his subsequent discovery by city police officers wandering about the streets of the city last Wednesday morning in a dazed condition is deepening. It is now believed that he was assaulted and robbed.

Since being removed to the home of his brother, Donald Cameron, 104 South Mulberry street, his physical condition has improved somewhat, but his mental recovery has been much slower and is yet far from what is hoped for.

J. W. Cameron of Braddock, a brother, who was most active in the search for his brother following his disappearance, said this morning that there are sufficient grounds to indicate the possibility of an assault on his brother.

Tribute Awaits Gertrude Ederle On Her Arrival

Three Municipal Boats With Officials And Band To Greet Pretty Swimmer

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor Internat'l News Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The national heroine, mind's eye sweetheart of every American, is coming home today.

Roughly speaking, more than a thousand passengers will be aboard when the Berengaria steams into port at noon, but, as far as the average citizen is concerned, the decks will be deserted save for a single modest but muscular figure. It will be a figure absolutely alone with its great honor, for Gertrude Ederle is coming home today to the land that gave her the strength, the speed and the will to achieve a goal that no woman and only five men had reached in more than 50 years of effort.

Three municipal boats, with police and fire department bands, will sail down the bay by way of acting as a marine reception committee. Whistles will shriek and bells toll; surrounding craft will break out in a rash of bunting and a fire department boat will spray the surrounding seas with a so-called "water salute".

Bedlam will follow Trudie as she sails up the harbor on one of the reception boats, and the demonstration will seem to have been noiseless as she rides up Broadway, accompanied by her parents and sister, to City Hall, where Mayor Walker will greet her on the steps in his best receptive manner. An official reception in the aldermanic chambers will follow and the city will consider that it has done itself proud.

Mute evidence to this effect is furnished by the austere amateur athletic union which has marshalled 50 clubs as a guard of honor for the swimmer. This closes the argument, if any. When the A. A. U. begins chaperoning a professional athlete the case is indeed complete.

AMERICA LEADS ALL OF WORLD IN ROADS

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—As the only billion-dollar "highways nation" in the world the United States now leads all the rest of the world with 500,000 miles of good roads, it was announced today at the department of commerce.

With a congressional appropriation of $75,000,000 and a state and local fund of $100,000,000 being expended this year, the American people already have poured out $1,002,000,000 on good roads. Of this amount, the federal government alone has expended $371,701,000.

At the same time, the American people have become the greatest automobile-owning country in the world, with more than 20,000,000 motor vehicles now licensed thruout the states. Of this number almost 18,000,000 are pleasure vehicles while 2,441,000 are commercial trucks.

The department announced that this tremendous motor car activity has brought nearly $750,000,000 in revenues to the federal and local governments in 1925, due chiefly to the availability of good roads. Of this income, $667,000,000 was paid in automotive taxes while the remainder came from highway fees and incidentals.

New Castle People Tell About Conditions Found During Their Trip

PREMIUM IS PUT ON UNEMPLOYMENT

Feature Of Big Eisteddfod Was The Courtesy Extended To Americans

New Castle citizens who went to Wales this summer for the international Eisteddfod held in Swansea are beginning to get back, the vanguard, arriving Thursday afternoon when Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Richards of 519 1-2 Highland avenue and Mr. and Mrs. William Francis of Edgewood avenue returned.

"It was a splendid trip from the time we left until we got back," said Mr. Richards today, "and one of the pleasing features of the eisteddfod was the courtesy accorded the Americans. And of course to add to the pleasure, our American choir, the Orpheus Glee Society of Cleveland, O., won the first prize."

Industrial Conditions Bad.

Industrial conditions in England and Wales are bad at the present time. There is a lack of harmony between employer and employed that bodes no good for either side. Thousands of men and women are out of work, and the country has been torn by a bad strike."

"One curse which England has saddled upon herself is the unemployment dole given to those out of work. It places a premium upon laziness, destroys initiative, and gives a man a sense of false security. It is a sad thing to see fine looking men idling their time away, getting enough money from the government to pay bare living expenses

Attorney Faces Grand Jury In Mellett Probe

Personal Attorney For Late Don Mellett To Go Before Grand Jury Today

LIKELY TO REVEAL INNER WORKINGS

International News Service Staff Correspondent

CANTON, O., Aug. 27.—H. C. Pontius, personal attorney and intimate friend of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, murdered seven weeks ago, today was scheduled to appear before the Stark county grand jury that is considering evidence in the assassination.

Mellett's work in fighting the underworlds of "The Jungle" is also expected to be outlined to the jurors in an effort to show a plausible motive for the crime.

Authorities participating in the inquiry were today of the opinion that at least three, and possibly five or six, murder indictments would be returned by the jurors when the complete evidence has been submitted.

Texas Ready For Governorship Vote

Election Tomorrow Will Settle Fate Of "Ma" Ferguson

(International News Service)

FORT WORTH, Tex., Aug. 27.—Texas men and women will go to the polls tomorrow to vote for a man or a woman for governor, climaxing the political classic of the year.

The election, known as the runoff primary, will decide the fate of Texas' first woman governor, Mrs. Miriam A. "Ma" Ferguson.

Opposing Mrs. Ferguson is the youthful attorney general of Texas, Dan Moody, 33, who has made a story book rise from struggling young lawyer in a country town to one of the most popular and influential men in Texas.

In the first primary, July 24, Moody lacked only about 2,000 votes of having a majority over all the candidates combined, which would have given him the Democratic nomination, and in Texas, this is virtually the same as election.

Admit Looting Federal Vault At Erie, Penna.

John Quinn, Former Prohibition Chief, And Attornev Moffatt Are Held

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 27.—John Quinn, of Indiana, Pa., a former prohibition group head at Erie, and Wesley A. Moffatt, of Pittsburgh, attached to the legal bureau of the office of Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington, under arrest in connection with the theft of ale from the government warehouse in Erie, have confessed, it was learned today.

They both admit looting the government vaults in the warehouse of the Erie Storage and Carting Company of the ale seized from Amos Vandeveer, alleged Canadian rumrunner, and of conspiring against the United States with other persons whose names have not been made public as yet.

Others Implicated

The confessions of Quinn and Moffatt were reported to have been made to Prohibition Administrator Pennington and Federal Attorney John D. Meyer. Their signed statements have not been made public. It is admitted, however, that both Quinn and Moffatt have implicated others in the theft of the Vandeveer ale and in the conspiracy against the United States.

In fact, they are said to have told the entire story of the operations of the big rum ring in western Pennsylvania, have told who, besides themselves, participated in the looting of the government vaults, and where the stolen ale was disposed of. Several other arrests are expected soon.

"It means the breaking up of the northwestern Pennsylvania bootleg ring with headquarters at Erie", one federal officer said at noon today.

Confessions Confirmed

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 27.—Federal Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington today confirmed reports from Erie that John Quinn and Wesley A. Moffatt, formely attached to the dry unit, have confessed to charges on which they were arrested in connection with the theft of ale from a government warehouse.

District Attorney John D. Meyer, however, refused to make a statement at this time in connection with the case.

Here's a tip to lads and lassies who go courting in a car, do not park along the roadside, or you're apt to get a jar, if you simply must go courting, sort of watch what you're about, for the constable will get you, if you dont watch out. Now these constables were petters in the days beyond recall, but they used a horse and buggy of an evening in the fall, and they tied the lines securely on the whipstock, so tis said, and the thought of interference never entered in their head. But its years since they went courting, and such things they've had to pass, and its probable they've lost their interest in a pretty lass. So they issue ultimatums to the youngsters of today, and in voices low and warning, this is what they have to say, if you have to do your petting in an auto, here us shout, the constable will get you if you don't watch out. But of course there's other places than an auto for such sport, swings on ivy covered porches are the proper place to court, and the constable wont get you if you take this tip from me, and your car wont get wrecked either, weather's warmer, seventy three.

Woman Excavator Discovers Ancient Relics Of Wheat

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 27—Basket work at least 12,000 years old, the first bread-wheat of prehistoric days ever found, and the earliest known sickle are among the treasures unearthed by Miss Caton-Thompson, a well-known archaeologist, while digging on the Fayum prehistoric settlements sixty miles south of Cairo, Egypt.

These relics are now at the University College buildings here, where experts are attempting to unravel their history and if possible add to the world's knowledge of those far off days.

The basket work is chiefly remnants of granaries, revealed while removing sand, which took the form of pits lined with coiled straw or a species of reed, in some of which were wheat and barley grains stored there by prehistoric farmers.

Examination has proved the grains to be two kinds of cultivated wheat—enmer and bread. The former was known to be used in prehistoric times, but this appears to be the first record of bread-wheat in such early days.

Mexican Invasion Of Southwest Is Newest Immigration Problem

Having successfully restricted immigration from Europe and the Orient, the United States is now confronted with the problem of hordes of Mexicans crossing the Rio Grande, writes Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, in an article in this week's Liberty. In 1924, 89,336 immigrants came from Mexico. "In 1925," Secretary Davis continues, "immigration from Mexico again exceeded that of any European country except Germany.

"In shaping the restrictive law," he explains, "we exempted natives of our neighbors on this continent —Canada, Mexico, Cuba and South America. The quota does not apply to them, and a cry has gone up that we have closed the front door to the United States, only to leave the back door open.

"The complaint is that, instead of getting the workers of Europe, who more or less share our standards of living, we are encouraging labor from Mexico and farther south. Formerly, this type of labor crossed and recrossed the border for seasonal work on the farms. Now it is staying here, and in the Southwest, Mexican residents are presenting a social as well as economic problem."

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

unusual soreness on the top of his head, which the attending physician states might very easily exist as a result of a blow on the head, in spite of the fact that there is no outward indications of the same. It is sufficient to cause the family to feel that an X-ray of the head might solve this phase of the situation. It is probable that the X-ray may be taken.

Then according to the brother, J. W. Cameron, there is the fact that when he was found by the police his watch was gone, also his wallet in which there would have been any money that he might have had and he was known to have some funds with him when he left the home of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Turner of Harlansburg, last Friday morning.

These are considered very good grounds for believing that Cameron was the victim of an assault, which the absence of his watch and wallet would indicate might have been for the purposes of robbery. His automobile when found gave no evidence of being damaged or in a wreck.

As far as the past is concerned, Cameron's mind is a blank. He remembers nothing previous to the time early Wednesday morning when he was taken in charge by local police officers. He does not recognize members of his family as persons known previous to that time. He does not remember where they live or anything about them. He does remember at times incidents occurring since found last Wednesday morning.

When the physician was called shortly after he had been found, he stated that Cameron had evidently suffered from a sudden and severe shock. Yesterday afternoon he awakened from his semi-stupor in which he has been most of the time since being found and complained in a perfectly rational manner of a headache. He also complained of an awful soreness at the top of his head. He has from the first stated that he feels much better when standing, which would relieve the blood pressure at that point.

Traces have been found of his whereabouts on every day he was missing with the exception of Tuesday. He was at the meeting of the school board of Neshannock township last Friday night, on the morning of which he left the home of his wife's parents at Harlansburg. He and County Superintendent of Schools John C. Syling examined books to be used in the new high school of the township and discussed them. On Saturday he was seen on Grant street and on Sunday on the Wampum road. Monday he was seen in the city on South Mill street. He was in his car all of these times.

In view of the circumstances so far determined and the physical condition of Mr. Cameron, his family are not satisfied to let the matter drop at this time and will probably continue an intensive investigation to determine just how he came to be missing and return in a befogged mental condition.

RESCUE CREW LEADERS BELIEVE THREE MORE IN MINE

Cause Unknown

No open torch lights were used in the mine. The company equipped all miners with electric cap-light as a precaution against such disasters, but mine experts said it is possible that a spark from an electric drill ignited the accumulated gas.

The disaster rocked the mine late yesterday when an unusually light crew was at work. Normally from 400 to 500 miners are employed in the shaft.

Many of the bodies recovered were horribly mangled, adding to the difficulty of identification. In addition, the bodies were seared by the flames accompanying the blasts, between which about two minutes elapsed.

No undertaking establishment in Clymer or nearby towns was large enough to accommodate the large number of dead, so the coal company converted its machine shop, about two and a half miles from the mine, into an emergency morgue.

The bodies were hauled to the surface in electric cars and were wrapped in burlap before they were transferred to ambulances. A long line of ambulances, sent here from a dozen nearby towns, waited throughout the night and today at the mouth of the mine to carry the victims to the Clymer morgue.

Morgues Overtaxed

At the morgue a score of nurses and physicians from Indiana and Johnstown prepared the bodies for burial. There were so many victims that the medical staff was forced to obtain a truckload of new doors and carpenters' horses on which to lay the dead, pending funeral arrangements and identification.

A dozen mine rescue crews from all sections of western Pennsylvania worked in relays in the shaft. The poisonous gases and "black damp" were so dense that each shift could work only a short time before returning to the surface for air.

Several times rescue workers, intent upon remaining in the mine until they had gained appreciable ground in their slow march toward the tomb of their fellow workers, collapsed. Four rescue workers were so completely fatigued that after reviving them at the mine mouth it was necessary to rush them to hospitals for further treatment.

Crowd Gathers

Shortly after daybreak another large crowd assembled on the hill overlooking the entrance to the mine. A detachment of state troopers from the Greensburg barracks was kept on duty to hold back the ever-increasing throngs.

The police roped off an area around the mouth of the mine and only rescue workers and newspaper men were permitted inside the line.

For the most part, relatives of the miners who have not been accounted for, deserted the mine and swarmed about the company machine shop, where the bodies were removed, begging to be permitted to view the unidentified dead in the belief that their kinfolk might be among the latest group recovered.

They were held back, however, by an iron fence extending entirely around the temporary morgue.

Relatives will not be permitted to view the bodies until they have been prepared for burial by the undertakers.

"To an American the nuemployment dole is almost incomprehensible. Over here if a man is out of work he strikes out looking for something else to do, anything just so he gets by until his former job is open again. Over there they simply report to the government station every morning, or as they call it, pegging on, and get their dole. For a man who is married the dole is 18 shillings a week for himself, 5 shillings a week for his wife, and 2 shillings a week for every child under sixteen. They do not seem to realize that it works around in a vicious circle and that the money they are receiving must be paid in taxes. As a result the taxes there are mounting."

Beautiful Country.

"The scenery in England and Wales rivals anything I have ever seen in any country. The mountainous hills of wales descending to the sea, the rocky cliffs, and the beautiful farm lands are a spectacle and it was my privilege to travel from the south of Wales up into the northern part of England sightseeing."

"Here and there in the various cities and towns we would meet other groups of New Castle people and one of these interesting experiences was that of meeting Councilman D. O. Davies in Westminster Abbey in London. He plans to return when the large group comes back on the S. S. Scythia."

Mr. and Mrs. Richards travelled both ways on the S. S. Majestic. With the exception of a few hours squally weather outside of Cherbourg, France, on the return trip, the weather was splendid.

A fool and his equilibrium are soon parted.

Callers Of Hogs May Contest For Champion Honor

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 27.—A world's hog-calling championship may be decided here as the result of the reported assertion of Fred Patzel, Madison, Neb., that he can call hogs better than anyone in the country.

Employes of the Kansas City stock yards today were gathering the best yoedlers of the hog-calling crew to discuss the possibility of staging a contest between the pride of Nebraska and local aspirants to the title.

It was tentatively decided to draw up a set of rules governing such a contest and forward them to Patzel. If they satisfied him his challenge would be in order it was agreed.

The rules generally would provide that only hungry hogs would be subject to call; that all hogs must be absolute strangers to the contestants to avoid partiality, that all hogs should be in good physical condition, sound of wind and limb and with a keen sense of hearing.

BUSINESS ETHICS

THE Chamber of Commerce of the United States gave the public a pleasant sensation when it announced that 813 chambers of commerce have adopted the code of ethics promulgated by the national association and that the ethics of the nation's business men would rise to a still higher plane as the result thereof.

There is nothing that gives buying public greater satisfaction than these evidences that business is trying to give the customer 100 cents worth of merchandise for every dollar and that the business man is sincere in his professions of a consuming desire to serve the public.

So the consumer was reveling in this universal adoption of the new code of business ethics when the American Fair Trade League disclosed that on the basis of tests made by it, retail dealers of automobile oils in seventy-nine out of 100 times substituted other makes or grades of oil for those asked for by the buyer.

If this dishonest practice is general, and most motorists believe it is among certain classes of dealers, it means that thousands of automobiles are going to an untimely death through no fault of the owner, but because of the fraudulent sale of inferior oil.

While the substitution, so as to make the sale, of "just as good" oils for those asked for is a reprehensible practice avoided by reputable merchants, the customer does not suffer through it and the act is merely unethical. But it is criminal to substitute an inferior grade of oil where a higher grade is ordered not only because an exorbitant price is thus obtained for the cheap oil but because of the resultant injury to the buyer's automobile.

It is a significant and recognized fact that business itself is doing more than the consumer to improve business ethics and to force the dishonest dealer out of business.

FALL OF A TYRANT

TYRANTS and dictators may crush liberty and dictate to the people for a season, but the day they assume dictatorship they are doomed. They who rule by the sword, die by the sword sooner or later.

General Pangalos of Greece played with tyranny and lost, as he was destined to. He seized power through a trick which deceived the army and navy; he held it through the methods of a tyrant. He used the mailed fist to beat down opposition warranted by his own misgovernment. His critics he disposed of by murder or exile. He enslaved the Greek press that had been free.

The Greek dictator lived too late. His methods were those of Nero and other despots of ancient and medieval times. His mistake lay in failure to fit the method to the times. He, too, might have preserved his dictatorship indefinitely had he been able to reward his armies with the rich loot of foreign conquest. And then too it is no longer second nature for man to meekly submit to tyranny.

There was ample justification for the overthrow of Pangalos and whatever his punishment shall be it can not exceed the enormity of his crimes against his own countrymen. However, little good will come of his removal from power and probable punishment if his successor does not restore to the Greeks the rights and liberties taken from them by the deposed dictator. It is hoped that Pangalos has taught the people of Europe that dictatorships are costly even in time of economic stress and national emergency.

One wonders if the Italian people would have tolerated Mussolini and his despotic reign had his government not brought economic stability to the country.

MAKING PROGRESS

WHEN a masked mob lynched a negro in Wytheville, Va., and no arrests followed, it was thought that the case was closed and that the agents of "Judge Lynch" would go unpunished as they so often do. At the moment no one seemed able to identify the perpetrators of the crime against the victim of mob passion and no one seemed to care who they were.

Two weeks have elapsed since this crime against a citizen and the laws of the nation, and while there have been no arrests it is apparent that the people of Virginia are awakening to the significance of the episode, even to the extent of indicating a willingness to see punishment meted out to the guilty ones.

It has been many years since a lynching has occurred in Virginia and the recent incident has impressed the more thoughtful and law-abiding as being evidence of retrogression. They are ashamed of the act of their fellow citizens and demand that the fair name of their state be purged of this blot. A state-wide movement is already well organized to bring to punishment those responsible for the lynching and thus to wipe out the stain upon the state's record.

Friends of Virginia rejoice at this courageous stand against savagery and at the fact that the people as a whole are prepared to vindicate their honor by bringing to book that small group which has let its lust for blood run away with its sense of justice.

Half of the world wonders how the other half gets by with its bluff.

Some girls think that a domestic science course which teaches how to make fudge is complete.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 6:41. Sun rises tomorrow 5:23.

Just about 20 years ago we ran to see autos. Now we have to run to dodge them.

Horses may be scarce, but doubtless there will always be enough on the tracks at the fairs to make it a hard job to pick the winner.

A woman who asked to have her alimony continued after she had married again evidently wanted her first husband to support her in the style to which he was accustomed.

A girl has married a traffic cop who gave her several good bawlings out because of the way she drove her car, and the presumption is she married him to get even.

Many of our financial troubles are not so much the result of income as outlay.

One reason living prices are higher is because we are living higher.

A scientist says mosquito bites are not painful if the insect is not disturbed while doing its stuff. The next thing to follow is to furnish sweet music while they're dining.

A village is a place where the cop doesn't bawl you out because he may want to borrow the rake.

Beaded knee-caps is the latest fad of fashion. Now what in the world does anyone want beads on their knee-caps for? Don't knees attract any attention any more without this extra dressing of them? We are for the good old-fashioned knees with dimples and not these new kind.

To be a borrower is to be a sorrower was one of the sayings of the man who is familiarly termed "Poor Richard", and France is certainly weeping over its debts at the present time.

Printer's ink is now claimed to be good for dyeing hair. There isn't hardly anything printer's ink won't do. If applied right to type and white paper it will sell anything you have to sell. The biggest stores in New Castle use most printer's ink and they benefit most by it.

The new army control board is being made up along the lines suggested by Col. Billy Mitchell when he was in the air service. It is all right to fire a man for proposing some good things for the service and then steal his stuff. Billy ought to feel complimented to know that what he proposed is being put into practice.

Two men in Benton Harbor must have died happy when they drowned themselves in booze.

It is estimated that the money spent for booze in France would pay off all the war debts she owes in three years' time. But you don't hear those old patriots there suggesting to the people they convert their booze money into war taxes to clear the country of debt.

An eye test for motorists is proposed by an auto commissioner and we presume the man who can tell a telephone pole fom a woman's leg would be given a license to drive.

Some people attract attention to themselves by predicting a Democratic victory.

The faster we think the longer we live. Today we may live so intensely in a few months that our experience is equivalent to years of life for a man in, say, the middle ages. The physical length of life doesn't matter. We are coming to a time when we will think so fast that our Biblical three-score and ten will be equal to seven or eight hundred years for a stone age man.

Secretary of Labor Davis thinks the old-fashioned religion is stronger than ever. However, a good many folks seem to practice it in the new-fashioned way.

Up bobs a scientist with the announcement that the world shakes like jelly. In that case it should be a welcome visitor to some of our local dance halls.

"Let no man pray that he know not sorrow,
Let no man ask to be freed from pain,
For the gall of today is the sweet of tomorrow
And the moment's loss in the lifetime's gain.
Let no man shrink from the bitter tonics
Of grief and yearning and need and strife,
For the rarest chords of the world's harmonics

TODAY'S STORYETTE

A lanky country youth entered the crossroads general store to order some groceries. He was 17 years old and was passing through that stage of adolescence during which a boy seems all hands and all feet, and his vocal organs, rapidly developing, are wont to cause his voice to undergo sudden and involuntary changes from high treble to low bass.

In an authoritative rumbling bass voice he demanded of the busy clerk: "Give me a can of corn" (then his voice suddenly changed to a shrill falsetto as he said) "and a sack of flour."

"Well, don't be in a hurry, I can't wait on both of you at once," snapped the clerk.

We read in a fashion ad. that the new step-ins are supposed to be 18 inches long over all, whatever that means.

RIDDLES FROM AN OLD SCRAPBOOK

What is it that has three feet and no legs? A yardstick.

What has eyes and skin and cannot see? An Irish potato.

Why does a clock look so bashful? Because it always has its hands over its face.

What is it a man has that he doesn't want, but when he gets it he wouldn't take thousands of dollars for it? A bald head.

If Miss-issippi would lend Maryland her New Jersey, what would Dela-ware? Al-aska-a (I'll ask her).

When is a pie like a poet? When it's Browning.

When is the worst weather for rats and mice? When it rains cats and dogs.

What is that which the dead and living do at the same time? They go around with the world.

Why are the pages of a book like the days of man? Because they are numbered.

When do your teeth usurp the functions of the tongue? When they are chattering.

A University avenue bride was asked yesterday by a neighbor if she didn't worry when her husband had to work nights. "Not as long as his good clothes are at home," she answered knowingly.

HARDER TO DODGE THAN A TIN LIZZIE

In Wisconsin, a farmer has died at the age of 104, of whom it is said he never had a doctor. Some men can dodge doctors and ministers but the patient undertaker gets them all.

Ever since our childhood we have been told that love is blind, but we doubt it. It can always see the fellow with the big bank roll.

Conceited guests are best. You need only sit and listen.

Be brief. Omit unnecessary words. Never say "poison liquor".

Only Americans have mastered the art of being prosperous though broke.

"There are no new ideas in the movies." Rats! The wife gets new ideas about frocks at each one.

Funny language! A man deliberately gets drunk and deliberately speeds and people call the climax an accident.

Baldness usually indicates long life. It doesn't to a fly.

Still, singing in the bath tub may indicate only that the lock won't work.

Movie theatres are about as comfortable as possible now, except for tables to place your feet on.

Alas! the people who say what they think very seldom think anything worth saying.

Only a few Americans have the grand manner, and they are driving cars for somebody else.

Among the things any man can manufacture as fast as he needs them are statistics.

You seldom find a man who is more righteous than he must be to keep the respect of his neighbors.

Making smaller cars won't benefit traffic much. The drivers will feel just as big.

The hard part of the channel swim comes when the tide turns. In the case of the social swim, it comes when tradesmen demand cash.

A SUMMER DAY

Dreams are for a summer's day!
Truly rich the man who may
Let his cares and burdens shift
While his thoughts in fancy drift,
Drift and bear his soul afar
Where the long-lost splendors are.

Rich the man who for a day
Shuts the noisy world away,
Or indifferent to its urge,
Lies and sees the billows surge
On a peaceful, sunny shore,
Racing back to come once more.

Lost to fame and deaf to greed,
Feeling not the spur of need,
Freed from all the tyrants grim
Which have whipped and driven him;
There he sets his soul at large,
Drifting like a purpled barge.

Golden visions fill his eyes,
All the lust within him dies;
Beauty, from her lovely arms
Flinks to him a thousand charms,
Rich indeed the man who may
Dream away a summer day.

One Man Enough?
Welcome, the Voice.

"Mussolini will appoint rulers in each Italian city and town". That is the latest. A Fascist decree is expected, forbidding elections that are pending, putting an end to woman suffrage, and establishing one-man government—the man being Mussolini.

* * *

In America we cling to the theory that men can govern themselves, with national congress, state legislatures, boards of aldermen, etc., the citizens voting—although it must be admitted that many of the poor things don't know why they are voting and what for. Are we right? Is Mussolini right? Who knows?

* * *

Krishnamurti is here, with "the voice of the Messiah", and walks ashore, hoping to revitalize faith in the United States.

There was talk, which fortunately came to nothing, about holding up the young Hindu on grounds of "moral turpitude". Aged 30, weighing only 100 pounds, he is as far from the average idea of turpitude as a new-blown buttercup.

* * *

Coming from India gives him special rights. The greatest Indian prince, the grand Nawab, has 300 wives in his Zenana, and considers himself intemperate — his father had 700. If he came, we wouldn't keep him out, turpitude or no turpitude. Explain that, and we tried to keep out Lady Cathcart, with no zenana at all.

* * *

Emanuel Silberstein, a neurotic youth, aged 19, killed his tutor, ager 63, beating him on the head with a hammer, and smiled as he told the judge, "I think it was funny to kill this fellow".

The boy, smiling after committing murder, was once a youthful prodigy, having made effective liberty bond speeches at the age of ten.

* * *

Alienists will examine him. Suppose they declare him sane, what will the state do?

The youth calls it "funny" to kill a man. The state calls it "just and necessary" to kill a murderer. One statement is as preposterous and insane as the other. The state, to discourage murder, proceeds to kill.

* * *

An unidentified man, presumably insane, killed himself and a bank official injured 120 in a Pittsburgh bank, by deliberately exploding a bomb with his foot. The bank officials had refused to give him $2,000.

Business men, worried, ask: "How can we protect ourselves against such a threat?" The answer is: "Nature protects you, exceptions occur, but generally you need not worry."

* * *

Three passions rule the human race. First, and strongest, self-preservation; second, reproduction, the family instinct; third, ambition, which moves the whole human family forward.

Men ordinarily will not kick explosive bombs when they cannot get $2,000, because they don't want to kick themselves out of life. Life is not too pleasant, when you need $2,000, but nature's powerful instinct makes you stay and struggle.

Take away the instinct of self-preservation and all life and civilized government would be impossible. We would be like wild beasts, hiding from each other.

DISCOURAGEMENT—

Soon gets to be a habit if you give it much encouragement.
Is merely a loss of faith in one's self.
Is a state of mind—not an unchangeable condition.
Is usually the result of an overdose of self-pity.
Is frequently caused by a distorted mental or spiritual vision.
Is certain if we center our attention on the fly and forget the ointment.

In Day's News

Eugene R. Grace, who reaches his 50th birthday anniversary today, is president of the Bethlehem Steel corporation and one of the outstanding figures in the steel industry. His career has been rather unusual inasmuch as his entire business life has been devoted to the Bethlehem company. On leaving college in 1899, with a degree as electrical engineer, he immediately took a job as operator of an electrical crane, from which point his advance was rapid, becoming president of the company in 1913, at the age of 36 years. He was born in Goshen, N. J. While his prominence in the financial world has been more or less obscured by the conspicuous figure of Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of directors of the Bethlehem corporation, Mr. Grace is recognized as one of the ablest men in the steel industry.

Speakin' o' history bein' bunk, it has jest come t' light, after fifty years, that Settin' Bull wuz a doctor an' out o' town on an operation th' day Gen. Custer an' his gallant command wuz wiped out. Toronto, with a population o' 600,000, has only three murders a year, an' you've got t' git your name in six months ahead if you want t' kill some one.

Dr. Crane's Editorial

THE GREAT STONE LIZARD

A popular writer once described New York City as a great stone lizard.

He said its heart, Manhattan, had that shape as it lay with its head at the Battery and its tail extending to Spuyten Duvil.

A few facts about this city — which have been gathered from various statistics of the past year—will show the magnitude of its activities and give an inkling as to the reason for its soubriquet of "the wonder city of the world."

If the lamp posts were stretched out in a straight line instead of following the curves and angles of the streets they would reach to San Francisco.

In its public schools this one city is educating a million children.

If you began walking at a normal pace and walked for eight hours a day, it would take you from the Fourth of July to after New Year to simply cover all the miles of streets without walking on the same street twice.

There are more than four thousand miles of streets within the city limits. Over two thousand five hundred of these miles are paved.

This one city pays one-third of all the income tax of the whole nation.

From its public libraries more than twenty million books are circulated each year.

In it twenty-two miles of babies are born each year.

There are 137,000 of them. Put shoulder to shoulder these infants would form a line that many miles long.

In one of its many fish markets enough pounds of fish are sold each twelve months to distribute a two-pound fish to every one of the 196,940,000 square miles that make up the surface of this earth.

WATER TRANSPORTATION.

When the Pessimists begin to worry about the possible future food supply of the world not being sufficient to keep up with the future population of the earth, the Optimists speak of Texas. Texas in territorial extent is greater than was the whole German empire prior to the War. Texas has not only fertile acres, but it also has very valuable minerals beneath its acres. Moreover, there are men of imagination and power living in Texas, devoting their lives to the development of it. The member of the Brotherhood of Elks attending the Convention of the Elks at Los Angeles in 1925, who amused the radio fans of the West by his description of Houston, Texas, was not so bombastic as it might seem. He described Texas as the State where any event was considered "usual"—if it rained, it was "usual"; if the sun shone, it was "usual"; if the cotton crop was a record breaker, it was "usual"; and if the cotton crop happened to be less than heretofore, it also was "usual". He described his native city of Houston as the city "where seventeen railroads met the sea". He did not take the trouble to describe how Houston, being an inland Texas city, "Met the Sea".

I mentioned at the time that Houston had a great ship canal, and in and out through that canal were passing the ships of the world, carrying out the produce of Texas, and carrying in many of the things needed for distribution throughout Texas. Therefore, the railroads.

Now I see that the Carnegie Steel Company having bought a sixty acre tract on the Houston ship canal, is about to begin work there immediately upon the building of a steel fabricating plant. That will enable the Carnegie Steel Company to save much by way of freights. It is a long cry from Andrew Carnegie and Pittsburgh, to Houston ship Canal, but it only goes to show how valuable is water transportation, and how the great industrial enterprises of the world are dependent upon water transportation.

In this connection the Westminster Gazette announces that work has already been begun at Tilbury on the Thames to build a lock of 1,000 feet, together with docks there, and a great floating concrete landing stage, which will deepen the ship canal in the Thames so much that the greatest liners now built or in contemplation of building may sail up the Thames to London's gates. The project will cost more than twenty million dollars.

The world is harnessing its rivers, and building canals wherever possible, and yet the great steel centers of Western Pennsylvania are not as yet connected with Lake Erie by canal. Some day, there will be a Lake Erie Canal.

POEMS HOVE

By CHARLES HANSON TOWNE

"Time, You Old Gipsy Man" by Ralph Hodgson.

This English poet has done some exquisite things; but this is' I imagine, his most popular poem. It has warm appeal and is beautifully wrought.

Time, you old gipsy man,
Will you not stay,
Put up your caravan,
Just for one day.

All things I'll give you
Will you be my guest,
Bells for your jennet
Of silver the best,
Goldsmith shall beat you
A great golden ring,
Ptacocks bow to you
Little boys sing,
Oh, and sweet girls will
Festoon you with may,
Time, you old gipsy,
Why hasten away?
Last week in Babylon,
Last night in Rome,
Morning, and in the crush
Under Paul's dome;
Under Paul's dial
You tighten your rein—
Only a moment,
And off once again;
Off to some city,
Now blind in the womb,
Aff to another
Ere that's in the tomb.
Time, you old gipsy man,
Will you not stay,
Put up your caravan

Company B Vets Hold Reunion At Home Of McCurdy

Three Members Of Conspiracy, One Aged 91 Are Present

Annual reunion of survivors of Company B, 134th Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, was an event of Thursday at the home of John McCurdy in Slippery Rock township, near Kennedy's Mills. There were approximately 100 persons present, including three survivors of the company, the other veterans of the civil war and the widows and descendants of the company. Mr. McCurdy is a son of a member of the company.

The three members of the company were James S. Munnell of Slippery Rock township, aged 91 years, and who resides in the vicinity of Herman Presbyterian church; William J. Stoner, aged 84, Queen's Junction, Butler county, who was shot and wounded in the front of the stone wall at the battle of Fredericksburg and remained on the battlefield from Saturday until Monday evening before being removed from the battlefield, and John E. Forbes, aged 82, who resides near the Boy Scout camp in Slippery Rock township

The meeting was also honored by the presence of Clark B. Hamilton of this city, commander of post No. 100, G. A. R. He is 81 years of age.

A bounteous dinner was served after which a business session was held. Following the business meeting, John Marks, a son-in-law of Mr. Munnell, gave a most interesting talk on how he came to realize the meaning of word comrade as understood and appreciated by the veterans of the civil war.

Attorney W. W. Stevenson of this city, secretary of the 134th Regimental association, by special request, then presented a history of the company. According to his statements, the company was organized in the vicinity of Princeton and Harlansburg. Captain McCune was the first officer in charge. He died shortly after the battles of Antietam and South Mountain as a result of exposure. He was succeeded by Captain Brant, who lost his life in the battle of Chancellorsville.

Isaac St. Clair was next in command, being brevited captain following the battle of Chancellorsville. He brought the company home following the close of the war.

While there were but three survivors of the company in attendance there are still a number of other survivors, who were unable to be present on account of health conditions or the distance from the scene of the reunion.

Some Plutocrats Favor Cancellation Of Foreign Debts

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 27.—A number of very fine gentlemen who because of their possession of material things in plenty, are able to give their entire energy to public service, are agitating the cancellation by the United States of all foreign debts owing to us. They are filling the newspapers with their letters, and are trying to fill some halls with the echo of their voices on this argument. The businessmen and the workmen, however, who because of this money which we loaned to European nations, are still paying the price and carrying the burden, have but little sympathy with this talk. And the president and Secretary Mellon are being daily sustained in their campaign that people who borrow money should return it.

One of the gentlemen who is particularly active in this campaign for the cancellation of all the debts, has some millions of Liberty bonds. It has been suggested that considering how intensely he feels on this subject, that while perhaps the United States may lag in this great step which he believes should be taken, that he has an opportunity to personally follow his arguments with deeds. If his courage is the equal of his tongue, and if he will send to the treasury of the United States the five or six million dollars in Liberty bonds he possesses and ask that they be canceled, the officials there will be very happy to do it and apply the proceeds to the cancellation of that amount of the foreign debt.

Labor Vets Meet In Convention; Discuss Markets

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The 25th annual convention of the United Textile Workers of America, which opens here on September 13 and continues until September 18, will be a reunion of veterans of many labor battles. Among the delegates will be men who have played important roles in the latest great battle of labor with capital—representatives of the striking textile workers of the Passaic area.

Problems of the textile workers, ever increasing as women discard cotton for silk, will be discussed.

"We are as interested in the manufacturers in developing a market for cotton goods," Thomas F. McMahon, president of the U. T. W. said. "Unless there is a good demand for cotton goods, mills will close down and many workers will be thrown out of jobs.

"The present tendency of women to discard cotton for silk in the majority of garments has hurt the industry. We hope to encourage the use of cotton as a material for clothing."

The United Textile Workers are ranked among the most belligerent of the many unions of the American Federation of Labor.

Dares 300 Foot Gulf Dangling At Rope End

Man Sinks To Waist In Water Before Cries Reach Palls On Cliff

Under the Incononzo Bridge, over the Sumpaz River, in Columbia, South America, is a black gulf 300 feet deep. A few feet below the bridge is a great boulder, which can be reached by going down the rocky sides of the ravine, and from which the river can be seen and heard as it dashes against the rocks. This abyss was explored some years ago.

Twelve strong men took their places around an opening in the rocks over the gulf. They fastened stout leather ropes to Jean Lopez, who was to make the descent, and arranged another rope for "telegraphic correspondence," by means of little pieces of paper, in case Jean's voice could not be heard.

They lowered him slowly, and soon he stod on a ledge beneath the great boulder. Thence he was lowered some 90 feet further, and stopped again to explore a cavern filled with owls. He captured a bird, and took a nest with some eggs. Thirty feet below, he explored another cavern, where the air was black with birds.

The floor of this cavern projected into the gulf, and below that Jean could not be seen from above. Now began the dangers of his undertaking. He hung like a spider on the end of a thread from above, and the "telegraph line" had been broken.

At the next cavern he was attacked by the owls. He defended himself against their sharp beaks and claws as best he could with his knife, and shouted to the men at the ropes to draw him up, but they continued to lower him.

He went down until his feet touched the water. He shouted and shouted, but still the rope was let out, and the water reached his waist. There was only one thing to do—cut the rope and swim out of the gulf, if he could, at the risk of being dashed against the rocks.

As he raised his knife to cut the rope he gave a last despairing cry. It was heard, and the men began drawing up the ropes.

1925 Auto Roads Add 23,152 Miles

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—There is good news for America's millions of automobile drivers in the announcement of the Department of Agriculture that nearly 18,000 miles of road were surfaced last year. In addition, 5,316 miles of earth road was graded and drained according to engineering standards, making a total of 23,152 miles improved during the year, of which slightly more than 10,000 miles was constructed with federal aid.

At the end of the year the total surfaced mileage in the state systems has reached 145,508 miles, and there were 32,218 miles of earth road graded and drained.

The total of 270,654 miles included in the state systems embraces the important roads of the country which have been laid out to serve the needs of the states. It is upon these systems that the important through routes of the federal aid system and the United States highways have been almost entirely laid down.

The surfaced roads in the state systems at the close of 1925 were of the following types: Sand-clay, 12,677 miles; gravel, 64,408 miles; waterbound macadam, 4,804 miles; sheet asphalt, 839 miles; surface-treated macadam and gravel, 15,858 miles; bituminous macadam, 10,985 miles; bituminous concrete, 4,821 miles; cement concrete, 27,875 miles; brick, 3,111 miles; miscellaneous, 131 miles.

Dog Population Shows Increase

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 26.—Exclusive of the three large cities of the state, licenses have been issued for almost a half million dogs so far this year, indicating that the dog population of the state is much larger this year than last.

Figures made public today by the bureau of animal industry of the Department of Agriculture revealed that up until July, last, covering the first six months of 1926, that 444,939 licenses had been sold to dog owners.

Allegheny county, exclusive of Pittsburgh, led all other counties of the state with a total of 25,492 licenses. Westmoreland county with 19,499 and Luzerne county with 19,491 licenses issued were close contenders for second place. The least number, 381, were licensed in Cameron county.

Police officers of the state until August 1 reported 10,303 canines killed because they were unlicensed. During the same period 6686 prosecutions were brought against persons charged with harboring unlicensed dogs. Owners of poultry and livestock were awarded $37,744 for damages caused by dogs during the first seven months of the year.

First Frost Is Due On Sept. 15, Kane Man Says

KANE, Pa., Aug. 27.—W. O. Altman, Kane's famous weather prophet can see no relief in sight from the present rainy and disagreeable weather. He says it is his prediction that rainy and generally cold weather will be the rule until the end of September with the first frost of the season due on September 15. Whether the frost will be of the "killing" variety he was not prepared to say. Mr. Altman does not issue his winter prediction until about the middle of September but he says present signs indicate a winter of almost unparelleled severity with much snow and wind and stretches of zero temperature. Mr. Altman's predictions made early last spring covering the summer season were almost uncannily accurate.

Ministers Of West Now Being Taught Business Methods

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Ministers of the middle west no longer have any excuse for not being as good business men as they are purveyors of the gospel. A six weeks' course on "Business Management for Preachers" is now in session at the Chicago Theological seminary.

"The Minister's Correspondence," "His Files and Records," "How to Avoid Unnecessary Interruptions," "Upkeep and Improvement of Church Property," "How to Run Clubs and Brotherhoods" and "The Relation of the Minister to the Women's Groups" are included in the list of topics discussed.

The ministers are also learning how to remember dates, faces and names as well as all about the latest thing in clothing for pulpit and general wear.

"The preacher must not be a sort of glorified errand boy, or forsake the major task of preaching and saving souls for that of organization and administration," President Ozora Davis of the seminary explained in telling the purpose of the new course.

Daugherty Gives Crime Wave Cure

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Public hanging of automobile bandits and deportation of confirmed criminals to a penal settlement were among the drastic methods of dealing with the American crime wave suggested by George S. Dougherty, former chief of the detective force of New York, in an interview given in London.

"I believe in the horrible example system which was in force in England a century or so ago, when people were hanged at the crossroads," Dougherty said. "In 95 cases out of 100 today when a hold-up robbery takes place, the resister is either killed or wounded.

"The bandit has a revolver with him and he intends to use it to kill if necessary. Therefore I say that if he is caught he should be at once strung up by the friends of the people who have been killed.

"Confirmed criminals, if of American birth, should be sent to a penal settlement and there sterilized, so that they can have no children to follow them. If they are of alien birth they should be deported to their country of origin.

"That will be a big punishment for them, for the money an alien carpenter or bricklayer earns in New York in a day would probably not be earned in a month in his country of origin. The chief causes of the crime wave in the United States, in my opinion, are the revolver, the stolen automobile, narcotics, bootleg whiskey, and the absolute disrespect for the law on account of prohibition.

"I am convinced that a removal of the ban on light wines and spirits in the United States would go far towards putting an end to the crime wave America is now experiencing.

Many Autos Enter Pike's Peak Climb

(International News Service)

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Aug. 27.—With indications pointing to the largest entry list in its history, the eighth annual Pike's Peak Hill climbing contest for automobiles will be staged on Labor Day, September 6 under the auspices of the Pike's Peak Automobile Highway association.

The thrilling race over the world's greatest highway to the summit of Pike's Peak is contested annually for the Spencer Penrose trophy and cash prizes totalling $2,000.

The Penrose trophy is awarded to the winner for one year. It is an immense antique silver cup secured by Penrose in England.

The course approximately 12 miles up the side of the mountain, around numerous "hairpin" curves is the most picturesque auto race track in the world. It is a double track boulevard 20 to 50 feet wide, smooth and even as a pavement.

The race is annually witnessed by thousands of spectators who can look down thousands of feet to the starting point and watch the speed demons climb the rock-walled peak and race on to its snow clad summit above the clouds.

The road this year is reported in better condition than ever.

The contest is conducted under the sanction and rules of the American Automobile association.

Among the early entries to be received is that of Charles H. Meyers who took first place last year in a Chandler. He will drive a Studebaker special this year.

Glen Shultz widely known western auto racer is also entered in his Stutz Special which won second place last year.

Theatres in New York City face a general strike of stage hands unless demands now being made by the stagehands' union are met. The stage employes are asking a wage increase of from 40 to 60 per cent over the present scale.

Answer Demanded Regarding Removal Of Railroad Tracks

City Solicitor White To Confer With P.-O. Electric Company

Robert McKinney White, legal advisor to city council today was directed by council, at Councilman Tyler's suggestion to demand an answer before Monday of the P-O railway company relative to the city's plan of moving tracks to create less hazard at Greenwood avenue when State street is paved.

White was instructed to confer with Manager of railways Graham, solons believing that he is the official who should make a definite answer so that State street can be paved this summer or fall.

Council says that the P-O railway should be moved to the side of the street and a single track crossing put in at Greenwood avenue. The company, it is reported, does not wish to stand the expense of track moving.

Solicitor Robert White also advised council to prepare to resurface Sampson street and also surface a portion which has not been paved.

He said that the N. C. & Sharon railway is in the hands of receivers and he wants the company to bear its proportionate share before the receivership is dissolved.

Another railroad matter which came before council this morning was the controversy between the P. and L. E., P-O and the city, and which developed from a horse's hoof being caught in West Washington street crossing. Damages have been asked and the P. & L. E. claims the liability rests with the P-O but the latter claims that the crossing is in good condition but the design of track is responsible for the alleged accident.

Solicitor White said today that the frog is designed in such a manner that any horse is apt to have its hoof caught and for that matter the P. & L. E. may be asked to install a different system of track.

Property owners in Water street having stairways lead to their business places have been ordered to remove the obstructions as the city proposes that sidewalks be laid for pedestrians.

Council granted a permit to Charles Leathers Plumbing company to excavate and lower a sewer in the 1800 block, East Washington street.

Ordinances were introduced providing for a change of grade in Fairmont and Elizabeth streets, between Audley and Delaware avenues.

City Engineer Miller certified to council that Woods & Golder are entitled to a $4,659.32, payment for resurfacing Liberty street and solons authorized the finance superintendent to sign a warrant for the amount.

Joseph O'Connor offered to sell a property to the city for $2,000, which council believes will be required by the extension of Atlantic avenue and State street project. Council will view the property this afternoon.

Three property owners petitioned council to pave 120 feet more of Fairfield avenue and will pay for their share of the improvement. Fairfield, between Highland and Carlisle is being paved.

The first baseball league was organized in New York in 1857.

By H. K. REYNOLDS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The Labor Party having barred the Communists from membership, is now up against a new campaign of "peaceful penetration" on the part of the Left Wingers.

Political and industrial organizations of the labor movement have been warned by the Labor Press Service, an official publication of the Labor Party, of the new tactics and maneuvers of the Communists, who have set out to obtain the direction and control of trade union activities.

"The Communist Party," the labor organ declared, "will stand in the background, and the Left Wing Movement is to occupy the stage. In addition to the now celebrated Communist 'nuclei,' about which much has been heard in recent years, there is a new development in the formation of 'fractions' in the ranks of the working class organizations."

"The Left Wing Movement, which the Communist Party is interested in," the Labor Press Service stated, "is to be the Communist Party, or a portion of it, under a less suspicious title. But its aims are clearly the same; to exploit if not provoke internal dissensions. It seeks to divide and penetrate the Labor movement in order to capture and control it—not for the purposes set out in the Constitution of the Labor Party, but for purposes alien to it."

At least a dozen members of the present Labor Party in the House of Commons are officially on record as welcoming the Communists to full membership.

The Left Wing program officially adopted by the Communist Party and which it wants the Labor Party to adopt contemplates the abolition of the Monarchy and the House of Lords, establishment of a "Democratic Republic," nationalization of the land, mines, railways, shipping and all manufacturing industries.

Suspects Are Refused Bail

Judge Parker Refuses To Grant Carpender And Stevens Liberty On Bond

(International News Service)

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 27.—Supreme Court Justice Charles W. Parker on Thursday refused to grant an application made for the release on bail of Henry De La B. Carpender and Willie Stevens, charged with the murders of the Rev. Dr. Edward Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, both of New Brunswick, N. J., in 1922.

The application was presented by Robert H. McCarter and Timothy N. Pfeiffer, counsel for the defendants. Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson opposed the application.

Immediately after the hearing was formally opened, Special Prosecutor Simpson arose and said that as a matter of fairness to the defense, he wanted to present evidence in addition to that which was offered by the state at the special hearing last week. Simpson said that a card bearing the fingerprints of one of the defendants was found near the bodies of the Rev. Dr. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills. The prosecutor did not indicate the identity of the fingerprints.

Seated on the bench with Justice Parker was County Judge Frank L. Cleary, before whom the special hearing which resulted in Carpender and Stevens being held without bail for the grand jury action was held.

Neither Carpender nor Stevens was present when the court convened.

New Automobile Gives Clue To Theft By Clerk

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 27.—Albert M. Abbott of 5449 Samson street, a clerk at the Federal Reserve Bank, was held in $2,000 bail by Commissioner Manley yesterday on the charge of stealing a $1,000 bank note. The theft is said to have been the first ever committed at the Philadelphia institution.

Abbott, who has a wife and two sons, wanted to own an automobile. The theft was ferreted out. Captain Houghton of the secret service explained, by a process of elimination. The money, which had been turned into the bank to be mutilated, became "lost".

Abbott had a new car. Asked about this, he said he bought it with the proceeds from the sale of a Liberty Bond which his wife owned. A check-up showed the bond had been purchased July 6. Confronted with this evidence, Abbott is said to have confessed.

Yesterday afternoon after he had been remanded to jail to await action of the federal grand jury, his wife appeared in the hallway of their apartment home in West Philadelphia and refused to say anything other than that she was a "nervous wreck". She is a slight woman, with hair turning gray at the temples. She seemed stunned. Her two boys were not at home.

"What are you going to do now?" was the question a woman neighbor asked. She knew the family, but not intimately. Until two years ago they kept roomers. Then they seemed to become prosperous. Recently they acquired an automobile.

Abbott had been with the bank four years. For the previous 20 years he had been in the Marine Corps.

American Attache Believes Potential Wealth Will Save Celestial Republic

The hope of China lies in her latent resources, according to Julian Arnold, United States commercial attache at Peking. "China is rich in latent resources," he says. "The country is not land poor. Due to bad internal communications, six-sevenths of the population live in one-third of the area of the country. About 80 per cent of China's population is involved in feeding the nation. China is rich in coal, yet the per capita of coal production is one-sixteenth of a ton, compared with five tons for the annual per capita American production. China consumes but 1-180th as much iron and steel per capita as that of the United States.

"Through modern industrial organization, each American has at his command 20 to 25 mechanical slaves, an assest almost unknown to the average Chinese. Yet China's greatest potential asset in a productive sense is its wealth of an industrious man power, backed by the traditions and heritage of a rich civilization and well disseminated culture. So we may expect big things from the Chinese people during the 20th century and the Pacific regions will feel the effects of these stupendous developments.

"There is plenty of undeveloped land in Asia that will lend itself to development, but there must be railways and economic methods introduced. The 6,500 miles of railroads must be extended to 200,000 miles. Its few thousand miles of motor roads must be extended to many thousands Its 15,000 automobiles must be expanded into some millions of cars.

"The mass man power of Japan and China and India will contribute to the development of the world. Now that the industrial revolution has spread to that section of the earth, Asia is on the frontier in the sense of modern industrialization."

Sleep Walker Falls From Window, Three Stories, To Death

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 27.—Somnambulism is believed to be responsible for the death early today of Miss Mary Palmer, 18 years old, who fell from a third story window to a concrete walk in the rear of a rooming house.

Frank Haegele, a neighbor, was awakened by barking dogs, and upon investigation, found the body of Miss Palmer on the sidewalk. Before retiring last night she told other roomers that she was in the habit of walking in her sleep.

MEADVILLE, Pa., Aug. 27. —A young man giving his name as Arnold Daisley, residence Greenville, was brought to the city from Conneaut Lake Park and arraigned in police court for a hearing on a charge of theft, it being alleged that he stole an auto at the park on Sunday night. The accused was bound over to answer at September court of quarter sessions, and not being able to furnish $2,000 bail, was committed to jail.

DANS PLACE—PROGRESS CELEBRATION
CELEBRATING THE OPENING OF THREE NEW STORES WITH A FESTIVE DAY OF BARGAINS

$1,500,000 Increase In Business
Three new stores in three short months—a record growth for Dans Place Stores. It is difficult to understand the true greatness of this Progress unless one considers the increased volume these stores will bring to the Dans Place Chain. But when one considers the addition of $1,500,000 yearly business (which these three new stores will do) to a volume that is already the largest of its kind, things take on a broader view.

Growing By Comparison
Some merchants consider the policy of inviting comparison as bad practice, on the theory that it should not be suggested that any one looks elsewhere. Such an attitude, we think, betoken a certain lack of confidence in their own values, a reluctance to have them measured by concurrent opportunities. In as much as we are endeavoring to bring to public attention what we sincerely consider the genuine advantage of dealing at Dans Place, we do not hesitate to ask you to compare our values with any similar merchandise offered elsewhere. Look where you will—we only ask the favor of a visit here as well—this belief in our own values is born of chain store specialization advantages enjoyed by no other company.

Procrastination Is Claimed Chief Good Health Foe

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Every man and woman even every child ten years old, knows that in ordinary life emergencies arise which are urgent requiring instant attention. When the houseis on fire they know that action must be taken at once or with the least possible delay. They can see the fire; they know from experience that failure to act means loss of the house.

The same individuals who act so promptly, so intelligently in ordinary emergencies too often show utter lack of intelligence in their action when confroned with an emergency surgical condition in themselves or in the family.

They want to wait; they want to confer with a far away spouse or parent. In other words they defer. They use none of the intelligence displayed by the most ordinary individual in case of fire. They will wait till tomorrow or until after the wedding.

They question secretly the diagnosis of the most learned physicians and surgeons and place their own conclusions in opposition to those of the most skilful diagnosticians. They do not believe they have appendicitis or a perforation or an internal hemorrhage or intestinal obstruction; it doesn't feel quite like what they think such a condition ought to feel.

Hence procrastination in urgent surgical conditions accounts for a large percentage of the total mortality. In acute apendicitis the death rate should not be more than one in a thousand if the operation is done before the appendix ruptures. It is at least fifty in a thousand if rupture is allowed to occur.

Surgical skill cannot alter this discrepancy; it can be altered only by the patient accepting the operation at such time as will offer him the best results.

Those who have to do the work who have to sign the death certificate are unanimous in their opinion that the laymen should use the same rule of action here as in case of fire and make up his mind beforehand that when these surgical emergencies arise he will act with the same promptness exercised in ordinary emergencies. In the one instance he loses a house that can be rebuilt; in the other his life.

Briton Thinks Blondes Are Not 'Preferred'

Says 78 Per Cent Of Dark Haired Women Wed And 68 Per Cent Of Fair

Some years ago an English doctor discovered that among nearly a thousand women 78 per cent of the dark-haired were married and that only 68 per cent of the fair were wives, says January Mortimer in The London Mail.

It would seem from these figures that brunettes are considered more charming than blondes. In old England "fair" is an adjective meaning beautiful, and it is curious to note that a number of celebrated "fair women" were actually dark in coloring. The typical British beauties have mostly been "robed in the long night of deep hair". Byron had a strong preference for black tresses, and Tom Moore disliked blue eyes. The Greeks and the Romans admired fair-haired women, but among modern civilized peoples the notable bells have been chiefly brunetts. Dark eyes here always aroused admiration, and Burton, quoting examples, says: "Of all eyes black are most amiable."

Among the highly praised lovely women of our own country none has been remarkably fair. Lady Venetia Stanley, who married Sir Kenelm Digby, had brown hair and eyebrows. The Gunnings, in the 18th century, were dark blondes, and Lady Hamilton was a brunette. Mrs. Overall, known as the greatest beauty in Britain in the 17th century, had very dark hair and eyes.

Baudelaire was so great an admirer of dark-complexioned women that he fell in love with a mulatto. All the charming women in Thackeray's novels were of the brunette type. English women in the majority have darker hair and eyes than men. Brunettes have greater vitality than blondes, and the number of fair people in Europe is stated to be steadily diminishing. It is interesting to learn from statistics that women seem to prefer fair men as husbands, for the greater number of bachelors are dark.

Mrs. Irving Berlin Awaits Stork

Mrs. Irving Berlin, wife of the international song writer of latter-day songs, and daughter of Clarence H. Mackay, recently returned from Europe with her husband in order that her expected child might be born in America. While the Berlins are seeking the utmost privacy it is considered probable that the child will be born in or near New York City, where the romance of the "singing writer" and the "Postal Telegraph heiress" began.

Many Swedish Farms Have Electric Power

North Country People Use Falls And Conserve Their Growing Forests

One of the funniest things I saw in Sweden when I was over there recently was the use of electrical cookstoves in forest cottages. Sweden is short on coal and oil, but long on wood and water, writes Dr. Edwin E. Slosson in the Scientific Monthly.

The Swedes are growing trees faster than they are cutting them, the reverse of the policy that prevails in America. Consequently they have wood to burn, but they prefer to cook with water instead. The water falls down faster than the trees can grow up. So they turn it into turbines and with them grind the wood into pulp, and ship it over to America to be made into the yellow journals and silk stockings that are so conspicuous in our country.

Electricity is cheap over there and besides they have an ingenious kind of cooking contrivance that keeps in the heat and steam, so a few watts will cook a lot of food, and it takes a lot of food to satisfy a Swede.

About 45 per cent of the farms of Sweden are using electricity for lighting and light power. In the United States "not more than three per cent of the farms are receiving electric current from power lines," according to G. E. Tripp, chairman of the Westinghouse.

California, of course, claims the lead with 554,000,000 horsepower-hours of electric power used in agriculture during the year 1923, but 8 per cent of that is employed in pumping water for irrigation. The number of electric power consumers on farms in California is reported as 26,915. Ohio has 17,000 farms supplied with rural electric service and Iowa and Pennsylvania have about 12,000 each.

New oil well in Mexico produces 5000 barrels a day, this being pretty good as a hole.

Two Divorce Cases Filed At Court

With the time limit nearly up for the filing of cases for the September term of court, a number were added today to the list in the office of Prothonotary Ralph M. Campbell.

Edna Frengel enters a libel in divorce against her husband Frank Frengel, charging adultery with Rose Casino and divers other persons unknown to the appellant. They were married on January 11, 1913 and lived together until October 7, 1925.

Fred Messina files a libel in divorce against his wife Bianca Messina, charging desertion. They were married November 1, 1919, and lived together until August 9, 1921.

The Southern Fuel Company files a suit against C. E. Huff, Jr., for $172.61 and interest from October 20, 1924. The claim is for the payment of some freight on coal from Morgantown, W. Va., which is in question.

Boggs and Buhl file a replevin against C. E. Biddle for a piano and some rolls, valued at $300.00.

William Baney files a suit against Thomas Tolla for $204.00 damages he alleges resulted from an automobile accident on June 27, 1926.

Speakers Chosen For Labor Day

Hon. George T. Weingartner And James P. Nooman Secured

Prograss is being made in the preparations for the annual Labor Day celebration of this city, which will be held Monday, September 6, at Cascade Park, under the auspices of the New Castle Building Trades Council.

At a meeting held this week by the general committee in charge of the celebration, final plans were worked out and are now being put into effect. Additional committees have been appointed to look after the various phases of the celebration, which will be one of the largest and best in the history of organized labor in this city.

The speakers of the day will be the Hon. George T. Weingartner, state senator from the Lawrence-Beaver district and James P. Nooman, president of the International Organization of Electrical Workers, which organization has a membership of 200,000.

Official program of the Labor Day Celebration has been issued and is now being distributed among the advertisers and the thousands of union workmen of the city.

It is a fine program and includes much useful information, concerning union labor organizations of the city and the city in general.

There will be something doing every minute of the day and indications are that there will be thousands of visitors from Youngstown, the Beaver Valley and other points at the park to take part in the celebration.

400 Year Old Bible Ohio Family Relic

(International News Service)

LIMA, O., Aug. 27.—A Bible nearly 400 years old and believed to be the oldest book in this part of the country is in the possession today of B. F. Weaver of this city.

The ancient volume was printed in 1553 in Switzerland in the German language.

The holy book is bound in Russian leather with brass corners.

SAYS DYAR SHOULD HAVE BEEN A PREACHER OR PRIEST

Prominent Business Man Interested in Health Evangelist Says He Surely Missed His Calling

MADE FINE TALK ON CHURCHES AND LODGES

Big Minstrels To Give Another Performance This Evening And Promise Surprising Entertainment

As one of our most prominent citizens who has been taking a keen interest in the lectures of Health Evangelist Dyar put it, "This man surely missed his calling. He should have been a preacher or priest."

This and similar statements were heard about town today during the many favorable comments, that are being made on the talk Mr. Dyar gave last night on the subject of religion in general with some interesting sidelights on lodge work.

"The trouble with most people," he said, "is that they do not stop to think about the purpose of religion and the wonderful good that the churches of all denominations are doing. Some condemn the Catholics and some condemn the Protestants. There is too much of this and not enough of the worktogether spirit. All the churches are doing a wonderful amount of good in the world and this would be a sad place if it were not for the churches. What would our soldiers have done had it not been for the great work of the Salvation Army in the World War?"

A round of applause that could be heard for blocks greeted Mr. Dyar's assertion that priests and preachers of all religions were shamefully underpaid and that even a horse trainer can make twice the wages of any of them.

"And don't you forget the good our lodges and secret orders are doing," he shouted. "Why don't you take more of an interest in them? The chances are that some of you people right here now belong to lodges that are meeting tonight. You should be at those meetings, take an active part in them instead of coming to this entertainment. I don't want people who neglect their lodges or their churches to come here. Your lodge and your churches need both your services and your money. Give to them freely and regularly and sincerely."

In other places where Mr. Dyar has lectured he has been asked to preach a sermon in some of the churches and it is probable that he will do so during his stay in our city, though nothing definite has as yet been arranged.

All in all, this man is entirely unlike any other showman that has ever appeared in our midst. He is a peculiar combination of lecturer, actor and preacher, truly a health evangelist and is unquestionably doing a lot of good work.

The World's Minstrels' entertainment will change their program again tonight and are promising a surprise to those who attend the free show. The wonder is where these entertainers manage to find so much material for their constantly changing programs each one of which seems to be better than the preceding. Free Minstrel show starts at 8 p. m. every night for the next three weeks at the B. & O. Ground, New Castle.

Lodge Holds Annual Picnic Thursday

About Seventy-Five Guests Are Present—Other News Notes Of Seventh Ward

The annual picnic of the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary to Brotherhood of Railroad Conductors was held Thursday evening at Cascade Park. About seventy-five persons were present. The husbands and families of the members of the auxiliary were guests. At 6 o'clock an elaborate picnic dinner was served in the grove. Tables were attractively decorated with vari-colored garden flowers. After the dinner the evening was spent with park amusements. A most enjoyable time was had by all attending.

The committee in charge of the affair and to whom much of the credit for the success of the picnic is due is composed of the following persons, Mrs. Fred Flowers, chairlady, Mrs. William Saul, Mrs. Ed. Foster, Mrs. H. J. Reynolds, and Mrs. W. T. McGrath.

The next lodge meeting of the auxiliary members will be held on Thursday, September 2, in the K. of P. hall on Cherry street.

Poetic Imagery That Fixes Idea Of Places

A memorial to Milton has been unveilied in the place which he made famous by his words "Thick as autumnal leaves that strew the brooks in Vallombrosa."

Today the trees of Vallombrosa are mainly pines and the "autumnal leaves" that fall from the few beeches and chestnuts scarcely seem sufficiently numerous to carry out the Miltonic idea of multitude. But the quotation is not likely to become any less popular on that account and in the minds of all lovers of poetry the woods of Vallombrosa will remain thick carpeted with leaves. It would also be of interest to trace the influence of the poets on our ideas of places. Thanks to Byron, Chillon is forever associated with a dungeon; and a famous sonnet of Keats has linked Darien with a sea view from a mountain. "Maxwelton braes" will always be bonnie and the name of Afton will conjure up the vision of a peaceful stream gliding softly among green hills. These ideas may be truthful or the reverse—it doesn't matter. We shall never be able to rid ourselves of them.

Orders To Arrest Dealer Tag Violators

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 27. — Members of the highway motor patrol and the state police have been instructed to enforce the state laws against illegal use of automobile dealers' license tags, W. H. Connell, acting secretary of highways, announced today.

Dealers' tags are being used on passenger cars by others than dealers and on trucks which appear to be in commercial service, Mr. Connell said, and an investigation has shown that there are many violations of the law.

The first translation of the Bible into English took three years, 1607-1611.

50,000 Cleveland Negroes Planning To Build Hospital

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 27.—The 50,000 negro residents of Cleveland are planning to set an example in charity to the rest of the city's 900,000 population.

Although there are about 40 colored physicians in this city and 15 colored nurses not in one of the city's 60 hospitals can a negro physician treat his or her patients except they be pay patients in private rooms. Likewise beds for colored patients are of restricted numbers and many hospitals will not admit negroes.

The colored citizens of Cleveland have launched a drive to raise funds for a negro hospital here.

Norman L. McGhee chairman of the publicity committee of the Mercy Hospital association as the new hospital will be known announced that the negro hospital will "administer to the needs of every citizen regardless of color and will have no restricted wards for any group, race or creed."

Weather Bureau Wants Accurate Lightning Data

Although many accounts have been written of the effects produced by lightning, important details are usually omitted, making a scientific analysis of the available information difficult. It is desirable that there be placed on record in an appropriate institution such as the weather bureau, advises the department of agriculture, any facts relating to lightning stroke.

It is necessary in making such observations to note carefully many phenomena that often escape attention. Assuming that the object struck is a tree, a plan of the surroundings showing the location of their heights and the position of fallen pieces should be made. If possible photographs should be taken from different positions, showing the nature of the damages.

All holes, furrows and other irregularities on adjacent ground should be noted and their size included. If the tree is splintered the positions of the most distant splinters as well as of all the large ones should be indicated. The nature of splintering should be recorded, as an indication of the path of the lightning. Punctures of the bark should be searched for, even if they are small. They often show whether the tree was affected by a mechanical force acting from within outward or the reverse.

The nature and location of all damage to the bark and sapwood should be noted. Nothing should be moved until everything of interest regarding the original effect of the stroke has been recorded. Then if practical, the tree may be thrown so that the roots may be examined and the nature and extent of injury to them, if any, observed.

Parents' Efforts Fail To Save Drowning Son

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 27.—Valiant efforts of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Heasley of Monaka, Pa., to save their 16-year-old son, Henry, from drowning on an unprotected section of the Ventnor beach not only proved unavailing, but almost resulted in a triple tragedy.

But for the prompt action of Miss Daisy Clark, of South Marion avenue, Ventnor, hotel, who ran to summon lifeguards from Beach No. 1, the parents might also have drowned.

The boy, with his father, had wandered out beyond other bathers, and the strong undertow started to carry him out to sea, when the father went to his rescue. Both were soon in difficulty, and Mrs. Heasley started out to them, only to become helpless herself.

The father was forced to let go his hold on the boy, and Henry vanished. The parents were sinking when Lifeguards Lawson, Penrose and Fiedler reached the scene and rescued the parents. Search for the body throughout the afternoon proved futile.

Visits London For 40 Years To Get Sleep

DONDON, Aug. 27.—An American, Francis Hyde, retired New York banker, 85 years old and President of the American Bible Society, has come to London "to sleep" for more than forty years.

"I've caught a cold in a Cairo night. I've tossed about in fever heat in Paris and Berlin, and as for New York . . . "words failed him when he tried to describe New York's hummers.

"But you can sleep in London," he went on, "and that is more than you can do in summer iff most places. London night temperatures always permit the use of a blanket and an old man can have the sleep he needs without risk of catching cold."

Hyde knows what he is talking about. For forty years he has been met each summer at the London terminus by William Hill, the oldest porter at Claridge's, and William's first job for forty years has been to hang Hyde's thermometer outside the window. The banker has also studied the weather reports at the Kew Meteorological Station for four decades.

The charm of London summers has brought him across the Atlantic 162 times, to the same room in Claridge's which he first occupied in 1899. He arrives regularly in June, goes back to New York in July to look at his mail, and returns to London by the very next boat for the remainder of the summer.

British Unions Ask To Have Part In Settling Strikes

By CHARLES A. SMITH,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 27.—A General Council of the Trades Union Congress, as representing the whole English trade union movement, considers it should be entitled to a voice in any strike negotiations, and a hand in the direction of a strike."

This, in effect, is the reply of the Trades Union Council, ruling body of English trades unionism, to the legislative proposals which the Baldwin government have decided to adopt to curtail the activities of trade unions in the event of another general strike.

The main heads of these proposals are: Breach of contract cases to be heard in police courts. Trade union benefit funds to be separated from strike funds. Contracts between miners and employers to be enforceable by law. Peaceful picketing to be further restricted. Enforcement of secret balloting before strike action is taken.

"It is the natural evolution of union policy that authority to call a strike should be invested in a governing body," runs the T. U. C. statement, "and corresponds to the concentration of the employers into groups and associations. We shall go forward to try to secure this authority from the trade unions at the annual congress at Bournemouth in September, irrespective of any attacks which the government may have in contemplation.

"We knew the attack was coming, and there is to be combined resistance from the political and industrial labor bodies. Emergency resolutions dealing with the matter will be introduced at the Bournemouth conference, and at the Labor Party meeting in October."

At present the general council has no authority to call a strike; nor can that authority be vested in the council by the annual congress unless there is a change in the constitutions of all the affiliated unions. Several attempts have been made to secure dictatorial powers for the council, but the opposition from within the trade union movement has always been too great.

Bushmen Hold Boomerang Secret

The bushman, lowest in the order of human intelligence, unlike any other race on earth, owns the secret of the boomerang. Who can explain the scientific principle behind that weapon? Why are there no examples of Australian animal life on the other continents? Their birds, plants, trees—all are different. A continent drying out—what mysteries does its interior hold? They haven't touched the edge of what lies back of the turtle-infested shores of the Bay of Carpentaria, the bush of Queensland. —Geo. B. Alexander in Adventure Magazine.

Start Hearings On Sunday Opening Of Sesqui Exhibitions

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 27. — E. L. Austin, director of the Sesqui-Centennial, in Philadelphia, was the first witness called in the quo-warranto hearing instituted by the State against the exposition association relative to Sunday opening of concessions when the hearing was begun in the Dauphin county court Thursday.

Austin testified as to the management of the concession on Sunday declaring that the manner in which they were handled was not in violation of the 1794 "blue laws."

Woman "Dies" Twice Within Thirty Days

LONDON, Aug. 27.—"Death by misadventure" was a coroner's verdict here recently upon the final demise of a woman who was brought back to life after "dying" once and who had lived in a coma for nearly thirty hours.

The woman was admitted to a local hospital and attending surgeons decided to operate upon her immediately. While the anaesthetic was being administered her heart ceased to beat and she had every appearance of being dead.

Artificial respiration was resorted to and after more than 15 minutes of massaging her heart, the woman regained a life-like appearance. She remained in this state, barely breathing, more than a day before she finally "died."

While a London scientist finds the human race is growing taller perhaps he has a young son.

Man Found Dead Along River Bank

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG Pa., Aug. 27.—The body of Harry Brinton, 35, of Enola, near here, was found along the Susquehanna river front here early Thursday by Adolph Naldi of Steelton.

Brinton was shot through the mouth and had been dead several hours, according to the county coroner who announced that Brinton had committed suicide. A revolver was found near by. The man had been in ill health which was attributed as the cause of his act.

He is survived by his widow and several children. He was in the life insurance business.

Census Bureau Report Shows Indebtedness Of $2,480,611

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. — A summary of the financial statistics of New Castle, Pa., issued today by the census bureau shows that the city government cost $23.07 per capita for the fiscal year ended January 4, 1926.

To put the city on a basis comparable with those in which the schools are a part of the city corporation, the figures as given include the transactions of the board of education of New Castle for the fiscal year ended July 6, 1925. The statement says:

The Running Cost

The payments for maintenance and operation of the general department of New Castle, Pa., for the fiscal year ending January 4, 1926, amounted to $1,149,615, or $23.07 per capita. In 1924 the comparative per capita for maintenance and operation of general department was $21.59, and for 1917, $11.11. The interest on debt amounted to $139,021; and outlays for permanent improvements, therefore, for expenses of general departments, interest, and outlays, including schools, were $1,789,427. The total payments for the schools amounted to $896,521. Of this amount $729,002 represents the expense for school maintenance; $77,312, interest on debt; and $90,207, school outlays. The totals include all payments for the year, whether made from current revenues or from the proceeds of bond issues.

Revenues

The total revenue receipts of New Castle for 1925, including schools, were $1,561,133, or $31.32 per capita. This was $282,497 more than the total payments of the year, exclusive of the payments for permanent improvements, but $228,294 less than the total payments including those for permanent improvements. These payments in excess of revenue receipts were met from the proceeds of debt obligations. The revenue receipts for the school district amounted to $859,622. Property taxes represented 67.6 per cent for 1917. The increase in the amount of property taxes collected was 102.2 per cent from 1917 to 1924, and 1.9 per cent from 1924 to 1925. The per capita property taxes were $21.17 in 1925, $21.15 in 1924, and $11.98 in 1917.

Indebtedness

The net indebtedness (funded or fixed debt less sinking fund assets) of New Castle, January 4, 1926, was $2,480,611, or $49.77 per capita. Of the total net indebtedness $1,531,009, was for the schools. In 1924 the per capita debt was 45.41, and in 1917, $18.25. The increase in 1925 was due to a bond issue for sewage disposal plant.

Crash Fires "Gas," One Autoist Burns; Two Cars Consumed

OIL CITY, Pa., Aug. 27.—Kenneth Wagner of this city is in a serious condition in a local hospital after a smashup on the McKinney highway today. William Hamilton, driver of the car, is held in $1,000 bail. Wagner had picked up a ride in Hamilton's car which crashed into the rear end of a machine driven by Merle Hower.

The blow smashed the gasoline tank of one car, and the fluid ignited enveloping both machines in flames. Wagner was found unconscious in the midst of the burning gasoline. Hower jumped into the flames and pulled Wagner to safety, but not before his clothing had been burned almost away.

Sewage Unit Is Near Completion

SHARON, Pa., Aug. 27. — The first unit of the new city sewage disposal system will probably be placed in operation late this year, it was said, this afternoon by Colonel Burnside, city engineer. Final construction work will be completed by next spring. The work is being done by the Lloyd Contracting Company of Xenia, O.

The unit now under construction, which will be known as the south plant, consists of settling tanks, digesting tanks, pumps and drying bed. The plant will have a capacity of 4,050,000 gallons a day.

Plans are already being considered for construction of a second unit north of the business district, probably on Carnegie Steel company land, which city officials are considering buying for the purpose.

Oil City Man Hurt In Auto Crash

OIL CITY, Pa., Aug. 27. — Kenneth Wagner of this city is in a serious condition at the local hospital as a result of an accident on the McKinney highway near here today. William Hamilton, driver of the car, was arrested and released on $1,000 bail. Hamilton's machine crashed into the rear end of a machine traveling in the same direction on the highway, which was driven by Merle Hower.

Great Wall Of Stone Is Marvel Of Nature

Freak Formation In Colorado Is Column 200 Feet In Height

At the foot of and overshadowed by the mighty Sangre de Cristo range is beautiful Stonewall gap and park. The Stonewall is a mighty wall of stone rising to a height of 200-feet, with a width of about twenty-five feet. This freak formation of nature extends practically the length of the entire country starting from old Mexico and running all the way to Alaska, disappearing at times, then cropping out again, says the Rocky Mountain News.

Following the Stonewall highway from Trinidad, Col., the tourist comes to the gap, the best defined and most picturesque opening or passageway in the entire formation.

As the tourist stands looking up at the massive walls it is easy to imagine that in the formation period, when the world was young, nature is her boisterous moods grasped the mountain peaks in her bare hands and plunged the fragments down in the earth edgeways, saying to the mighty range; "Go no farther." The wall is tinted with every color of the spectrum—an artist could mix no finer—starting with a drab orange, it shades down through red, yellow, blue-violet and a wonderfully coppery green.

In recent years the Stonewall country has become one of the major scenic attractions of the Rocky Mountain region. Here where myriad clear,, sparkling streams trickle from lofty mountain sides to form creeks, here where vistas are painted with the colors of the Great Master is a wonder area which is a lure to motor tourists who by thousands visit Trinidad every year. A western poet who once spent a few days within the solitudes of Stonewall described it as:

Reporters Find Notables In 3d Class

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Ship reporters no longer confine their quest for travelling notables to the first class passenger lists. Third class or "tourist" cabins now carry persons who figure in the day's news.

Professor Raymond M. Weaver, assistant professor of English at Columbia University in New York was discovered in a third class cabin of the White Star liner Homeric when it sailed for Europe recently.

"I'm saving money this way so that I may take an automobile tour while abroad," Professor Weaver explained.

PLAN TABLET WHERE LINCOLN SLEPT

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Aug. 27. — Announcement of a drive for funds for the placing of a large bronze tablet on the Wills Building in Center Square, where President Lincoln spent the night of November 18, 1863, the night preceding his address at the dedication of the National Cemetery, was made today by a committee of the local camp of the Sons of Veterans. The goal of the drive is $600.

NO FAMILY SHOULD BE WITHOUT PLANT JUICE

John F. Rupp

"Dillingham's Plant Juice is nothing short of a blessing to mankind and no family ought to be without it," said John F. Rupp, well-known mechanic, residing at 4 N. Ninth St., Harrisburg, Pa.

"Four years ago I was a great sufferer from indigestion, nervous headaches and neuritis. Indigestion just had my stomach feeling like it was upside down. My appetite fell away off and what little I did eat would cause me to bloat all up and give me a miserable sick feeling.

"I was subject also to such splitting headaches that at times I'd feel like my head would burst and nervousness kept me awake at night a great deal. I'd just roll and toss and get up mornings feeling all tired out. Neuritis had me so I could hardly raise my right hand above my shoulder and the pains were good and sharp, too.

"Then I got hold of Plant Juice and it certainly made a difference in my condition. My appetite came back to me and I got so I could eat anything I wanted without a particle of trouble afterwards—no gas bloating or sick feeling. My nerves steadied down, the headaches disappeared and the neuritis just passed right out of my system.

"I got so I could sleep fine and improved so much that I gained 20 pounds in weight and just felt made over completely. That's what this medicine did for me four years ago and if I get a headache now, I just reach for my Plant Juice knowing that it will rid me of it."

Life Drama, Begun In 1863, Outdoes Enoch Arden Tale

SPARTA, Wis., Aug. 27.—Separated 63 years since they lost each other during the Civil war, Thomas Mann, 83, and his wife Nancy, 80, have been reunited.

In the meantime Nancy has had two husbands and Mann has had another wife. Mann's second wife died several years ago, and Mrs. Mann's third husband last March.

Enoch Arden's long voyage was just a walk around the block compared with Mann's absence from his bride. They were married in 1863. Mann enlisted in the Union army and served 100 days with the 139th Indiana infantry. Discharged, he took his bride to a farm near Ironton, Wis., re-enlisted in the Thirty-eighth Wisconsin infantry and served until the war ended in 1865.

When he got home, his wife had left for the home of her parents in Indiana. Both sought each other for several years.

Became Mother of Four.

After some years, assuming her husband dead, Nancy married William Burns of Indianapolis, and became the mother of four children, among them Rev. William Burns, who has occupied Wesleyan Methodist pulpits in Indianapolis and Marion. Burns died in 1890 and his widow wedded James Tracy of Grand Rapids, Mich. He died five months ago.

Mann, meanwhile, gave up the search for his bride and married Mrs. Maria Young, a widow of Onalaska, Wis. They had five children—Dorothy, now of Santa Cruz, Cal.; Millie of Minneapolis, Mrs. Pearl Kriskie of Milwaukee, Mrs. Jennie Mann Davis of Beloit, Wis., and Amos Mann of Sparta. The second Mrs. Mann died some years ago.

Several months ago Mrs. Mann asked the federal pension bureau to allot her the pension of Thomas Mann. The bureau notified her that a Thomas Mann was a resident of Sparta, and that he was drawing his own pension. She wrote Mann and discovered him to be her husband.

They were reunited at Sparta, and attorneys held that no marriage ceremony was necessary. "This time I'll keep track of her," Mann declared.

Believe Bomb Is Cause Of Blaze In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 27.—An explosion followed by fire sent two families scurrying for safety here Thursday when the blast wrecked the confectionery store on the first floor of the three-story building.

Origin of the explosion which did $1,000 damage in the confectionery store, owned by Mrs. Amelia Benson was being investigated by detectives on the theory that a bomb may have been set off in the building.

No one was injured. The store had not yet been opened for business when the explosion occurred.

Freight Barges To Ply Mississippi

(International News Service)

QUINCY, Ill., Aug. 27.—Experiments in barge operation on the Mississippi river between Winona, Minn., and St. Louis, Mo., have proved such a success that it has been decided to place other boats in commission next spring.

The down river trip requires five days and the up-river trip 10 days between the two terminals. Stops are made at intremediate points for freight.

At present only one large barge, built of steel and driven by a 150 horsepower motor is in service operated by the federal government in connection with the line between St. Louis and New Orleans, launched during the World War.

When traffic is opened in the spring a number of barges the exact number to be determined by the volume of business will be placed in operation.

Jury Sessions Are Secret In Canton Murder

(International News Service)

CANTON, O., Aug. 27.—The fires of civic turmoil raging since the slaying of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, smouldered peacefully Thursday as the Stark county grand jury surrounded by the greatest secrecy, continued its investigation of the murder.

The "clean up" forces have placed responsibility squarely on the shoulders of Prosecutor C. B. McClintock and appear content to await the expected indictments.

Turn Deaf Ears On Plea For New Tax Reduction

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The treasury department Thursday turned a deaf ear on pleas from Republican leaders for another federal tax reduction in 1928.

Cold water was thown on the proposal by Acting Secretary of the Treasury Winston. Speaking in the absence of Secretary Mellon, Winston said the treasury would not consider further tax reduction until after the public debt has been materially reduced. He declared tax receipts this year would be based on a "high tide of prosperity" while conditions in 1928 will be problematical.

Listed As Dead Soldier, Son Goes Back To Homestead

(International News Service)

HOMESTEAD, Aug. 27.—A mother was happy here Thursday in the company of a son who had returned as from the dead.

Listed as killed in action during the World War Fred Hoffman, member of the 87th division, U. S. army, was mourned by Mrs. Margaret Hoffman, his mother, for seven years.

Today he returned to her with the explanation that when she had moved to Chicago for a time while he was in the service he had addressed her there and his letters were undelivered.

Hoffman was wounded four times in battle, gassed and listed as dead. Immediately after his release from the hospital and the service he began his seven year search for his mother, and finally traced her through Pittsburgh relatives.

PARIS, Aug. 27.—No more bathing costumes on the street, in cafes and hotels. The mayor of Parame on the Finistere coast, the center of many smart bathing resorts has just made a proclamation to the effect that a bathing costume is not the same as a street one. It reads:

"It is henceforth strictly forbidden for holiday makers and all others to station themselves on the dykes, in public streets, hotels and cafes while dressed in bathing suits.

"It is equally forbidden to circulate in the public streets. Whenever the bathing suit is worn it must be completely covered by a closed dressing gown reaching to the calf of the leg at least.

Wed In Parked Car By Tonneau Lights

HARTFORD, Aug. 27.—Margaret E. Sampson of Windsor and Clifford E. Young of West Hartford were married seated in the rear seat of an automobile, while the officiating clergyman, the Rev. E. M. Bussey of the Windsor Locks Methodist church sat in the front seat.

Their marriage license was obtained from the Windsor town clerk but no Windsor clergyman could be found to perform the marriage in the town in which the license was issued as required by Connecticut law. The Rev. Mr. Bussey agreed over the telephone to perform the marriage and Young and his fiancee drove to Windsor Locks, brought the minister back to the corner of Phelps and Brown streets in Windsor, where the car was parked alongside the highway and the tonneau light switched on for the unusual roadside ceremony.

A Baby in the Home

NO KING on his golden throne demands and receives more homage from his willing subjects than a baby in the home.

The smallest member of the family requires a great deal of attention. Sometimes, in caring for her child, a mother overtaxes her own strength. Particularly when there are other children to work for, she must learn to preserve her health.

Then her home becomes a place of order and happiness. She finds time to play with her children and the whole family enjoys the dimpled baby as he grows from day to day.

Many young mothers have learned that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps them to find the strength they need.

Before her marriage, Mrs. R. N. Frankum of 3947 Gold St., Omaha, Nebr., was a working girl. Like many girls, she sometimes had to stay at home from her work. A friend told her of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she found that it relieved her trouble.

She was in good health until her second baby came. "I began to take the Vegetable Compound again," she writes, "and was soon able to do my housework. Now I can say I never felt better in my life. Women ask me what I have been doing and I tell them about your medicine. I feel that I owe a lot to it."

"Sheik's" Casket Is Closed Up

BURIAL IS SOUGHT IN HOLLYWOOD

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 27—Rudolph Valentino's casket, lying in the "Gold Room" of Campbell's funeral church in Broadway, was sealed today and will not be reopened for anyone but the dead screen star's brother Alberto Guglielmi, who is due here on the liner Homeric on Tuesday.

Guglielmi has expressed the desire that Valentino's manager, S. George Ullman, postpone the funeral, which is scheduled to be held at St. Malachi's Catholic church on Monday, until he arrives in New York, Ullman so far, has been unable to postpone it. He has, however, taken up with the Health Department a request that the burial time limit be extended.

Indications today were that the body would be buried in Hollywood. Practically all of Valentino's friends in the motion picture industry are hoping that the body will be taken to Hollywood rather than back to Italy.

Ullman himself is in favor of Hollywood as the burial place. He believes that Guglielmi will appreciate the appropriateness of burial in Hollywood because he had spent seven months in the "movie capital" with his brother. Yet Guglielmi does not wish to give a definite decision until he has received a reply to a wire he has sent to his sister in Turin.

She Nabbed Big Hawk With Hands

ELM FLATS, Aug. 27.—A large hawk swooped down into C. M. Hodges' door yard and got hold of a chicken. Mrs. Hodges who happened to be near the scene grabbed hold of the hawk, rescued the chicken which was slightly wounded and with the hawk in her hands ran screaming toward the house.

Mr. Hodges hearing her screams met her and with his cane clubbed the hawk to death. The hawks in this vicinity seem to be getting more bold every day.

WILLIAM G. McADOO

AL SMITH

VIC DONAHEY

JAMES A. REED

Friends of these four men are urging their nomination as the Democratic standard bearer in the next Presidential election. William G. McAdoo and Al Smith were chief contenders four years ago. Vic Donahey is Governor of Ohio, and James Reed is the aggressive Missouri Senator.

Here Is Reason When Men Must Die

Is death a necessity for individual living beings? This is the question that H. Munro Fox asks and answers in his paper called "Is Death Inevitable?" in the September Forum. Modern biological science has proved the very remarkable fact that the cells of our bodies die only because they are not in the right environment to go on living. Cells have been taken out of the bodies of living animals, and, in the laboratory, have been kept alive under conditions better than those which the animal's body had offered to them. For instance: Some living cells taken from the body of a chicken were kept alive in the laboratory in a liquid which had the same chemical make-up as the blood serum of the chick. The cells divided actively and increased in number. Whenever the cells became too crowded some were removed, and from time to time the liquid was renewed, for it became full of poisonous waste products thrown out by the growing cells. In this experiment the cells continued to grow and divide for twelve years (a considerably longer period than the maximum life of any fowl) without ever showing signs of diminished vigor. If we take from the chick some connective tissue (the living tissue which holds together all the muscles, nerves, etc.) and also a piece of kidney tissue and grow each tissue separately in a tube, the growth continues vigorous and undiminished for an indefinite time. But if both of these tissues are grown together in the same tube, although cell multiplication is at first vigorous, it soon falls off and finally ceases. After that the cells all die. Each type of cell in the presence of its neighbor is mortal. Evidently each kind of cell gives off waste products which are poisonous for its neighbor. In short, the living organism is a mortal whole, made up if immortal parts. Only its eggs of spermatozoa have the chance of avoiding death. Cancer cells are examples of emancipated cells which multiply rapidly, invade the domains of the other cells, and finally disorganize the whole machine. They are like the cultures of isolated kinds of cells in the laboratory test-tubes. Just like these tissue-culture cells, cancer cells are potentially immortal. A tumor can be transplanted from an aged mouse into a young one. When this mouse in turn grows old the tumor can be removed and implanted in another young mouse, and so on. Concer tissue is an instance of "tissue-culture" taking place inside a living organism. When the study of laboratory tissue-culture will have shown us what really is the product of one kind of cell which restrains the growth of another kind, we may be near to successfully combating cancer.

President Clark's Report At London Endeavor Meeting

Local members of the Christian Endeavor will be interested in President Clark's address at the London convention. He said:

"At this, the seventh convention of the Christian Endeavor societies of the world, it is appropriate that, as president of the World's Christian Endeavor Union, I should give some report of the activities in which our societies are engaged, though this is a well-nigh impossible task, so many and varied are they.

"Even to mention the countries in which these societies exist would take too much time. It would be much simpler to name the countries which have no societies. But neither is this safe to attempt, for I do not know of any such lands, and when I have occasionally ventured to name such a country in print, I have soon been reminded that I was mistaken, and that the country specified was not without at least a small contingent of enthusiastic Christian Endeavorers.

"It is certainly no exaggeration to say that our society is obsolutely world-wide, and that it was never so large or so blessed of God in all the world as today.

"In the United States more than 5,000 new societies have been formed within a year, and from almost every nation and denomination comes news of increase in numbers and activities.

"But this increase of numbers is not by any means the most important matter I have to report. It is of far greater significance to mention some of our regular activities. During the past 12 months groups of young people in all the world, called Christian Endeavor societies, have met together for no less than 4,000,000 of meetings for prayer and praise, and for testimony to their desire to serve the Lord Christ; there have been held under Christian Endeavor auspices more than 6,000 union meetings of young people, representing a hundred different denominations, thus greatly promoting universal Christian fellowship; 250,000 committees of young people to whom some definite Christian service has been committed have been at work for God and their fellow-men, and during the five and forty years that mark the limits of our movement, at least 18,000,000 of young men and women and boys and girls have made in substance this promise, involved in the Christian Endeavor pledge: 'Trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for strength, I will strive to do whatever He would like to have me do.'

"But enough of figures. They are useful for our encouragement and stimulus, but today we are looking forward and not backward, outward and not inward, upward and not downward, and we are joining hearts and hands in all the world for still better years of service for the Lord and Master, 'whom, having not seen, we love'."

Illinois Farmers War On Poisonous Weeds

(International News Service)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 27.—War has been opened by Dr. F. A. Laird, state veterainarian, and the state department of agriculture on snakeroot weed, which this year is claiming its usual number of cattle as victims.

Death of eight cattle on one farm near here brought a warning to farmers from the state to destroy this weed whenever found.

British Weather Man Forecasts Whole Year

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The ability to make accurate weather predictions a year in advance is claimed by Ernest Huggett of Beaconsfield.

Huggett says that the weather on the earth is governed entirely by the action of other planets. By observing the movements of these he is able to predict the weather for any given date or period.

"Each planet as it circles throws a ring on the earth," says Huggett. "It is the intersection of these rings which are responsible for weather changes."

Government meteorogical authorities have been asked to investigate Huggett's system with a view to adopting it for the official forecasts.

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., Aug. 27.—Oil! This magic word is on the lips of every man in Morgan county, following the successful bringing in of a well north of this city. The well is located on the farm of O. F. Conklin. Paul C. Irwin, veteran oil man, is the prime mover back of the project and he stuck to his task of promoting and drilling the well despite the discouragement of business men of this county.

Recently natural gas in tremendous quantities was found near this city, the two forming links in what may prove a broad field for oil and gas operations.

The well, it is estimated, will produce 25 barrels of oil per day. Some estimate that the output will be double this figure.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Stocks of the railroad companies were carried to higher price levels in a wave of aggressive investment and speculative buying in the early trading today. The North-western Rails continued to dominate the list, but the dividend rails in all sections of the market moved upward a point or more to the accompaniment of a series of favorable July earnings statements.

The weekly reserve bank reports showed a falling off in rediscounts at this center, but a gain of about $35,000,000 for the system as a whole. Reserves were practically unchanged, and all the evidences pointed to a healthy money situation. Bearish professionals appeared to be more cautious in their offerings of the industrial stocks, and the trend of prices was moderately upward, with General Motors selling above 211, the highest price of the week.

Speculative interest was displayed in a number of the specialty stocks, with Warner Brothers Pictures A still in the center of the stage, though price changes were more moderate than in the last sessions. Yellow truck was bought in large volume around 34 on reports of anticipate buying of buses for New York City street traffic.

Florence Vidor In Smashing Success At Penn Theatre

FLORENCE VIDOR

An unusual, exceptionally fine motion picture came to the Penn yesterday, when the initial presentation of "You Never Know Women," delighted a large audience.

This production, starring Florence Vidor, may well be called "different." It combines spectacle with drama, vaudeville with lavishness, and musical comedy with picturesqueness. All are logically introduced into the story's theme, centering as it does, around the principals of a Variety Company.

The Penn also offers "Excess Baggage" a fine comedy and our old friend Felir the Cat in "The Tale of Two Kitties". It is one of the finest programs the Penn has offered this summer.

Cancer Kills Huge Number In France Figures Reveal

(International News Service)

PARIS, Aug. 27.—Cancer kills 40,000 people in France every year.

These alarming statistics recently published have brought forth the foundation of an institute for the study and treatment of cancer, created by the department of the Seine and the Faculty of Medicine, upon the instigation of Professor Roussy and Jean Varenne, general councillor of the Seine department.

If the deep causes of cancer still remain obscure, say these professors, the laws of its fast development are becoming better and better known. Everyone knows that cancer remains a local malady during a long time and during this period, it can very often be cured. There is a "therapeutic hour" for cancer, according to Dr. Charles Granelaude writing in "L'Illustration". Numerous experiences show that it can be cured at this time.

The new institute intends to coordinate and centralize all the work undertaken for the study of cancer, to facilitate research work and to establish suitable hospitals for cancer patients.

Radio Fans Start Preparing "Horns" For Series Games

(International News Service)

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 27.—Des Moines dealers in radio batteries do not need the sport scribes to tell them that a world series is coming. The increased orders for batteries, they say, are coming in as an indication that thousands of idle radios are going to be repaired and tuned up for the big diamond event.

"Many people who pay little attention to their radio for the greater part of the year get them out for the world series", one dealer declared. "Many others get new batteries in order that they may get the best possible reception."

Entire Klan Group Under Investigation

(International News Service)

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 27.—"Every member of the Ku Klux Klan at Palatka has been investigated by our secret operatives, and we have proof showing our members had absolutely nothing to do with the whipping and murders near that city recently," W. R. Scott, chief of staff for the Florida realm of the Klan, said here today in explaining his offer for $100 reward for the arrest and conviction of the men who shot two negroes to death at Palatka on the night of August 14.

Gossip of Staff Correspondents at World Centers of Population

International News Service Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 27.—F. W. Murnau, the red-haired German director of "The Last Laugh", who has been imported to Holywood for one American picture, believes that films without titles show the cinema at its best.

There were no titles, the explanatory notes and bits of conversation flashed on the screen between scenes in "The Last Laugh". The action of the picture carried the story.

"An element of the present comedy which the future will see eradicated is the 'gag'," Langdon declared. "Comedies will not have to rely on funny bits of business for laughter. Pantomime, the story, and the situation will be the means of laugh-making. In five years the comedy which is just a string of irrelevant gags, will be unknown."

Now that the army, the navy, the marine corps and the city fire department have been "glorified" in motion pictures, producers have taken up the coast guard and the American flappers. Harry Rapf will produce "The Surfmen" for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, which will endow with heroic glamour the work of coast patrols; and Erich von Stroheim will direct Gilda Gray, the original muscle-dancer, in a picture called "Glorifying the American Girl".

Athletes aren't the only persons who go "stale". To avoid such a possibility, Reginald Denny, Universal star, and William Seiter, director for Denny's last five comedies, have decided to part company, at least temporarily, after they finish "The Cheerful Fraud".

Gertrude Olmstead, who entered the films with Universal six years ago when she won an Elks' beauty contest in Chicago, was borrowed from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for Denny's leading lady. Miss Olmstead was recently married to Robert Z. Leonard, M-G-M director, the divorced husband of Mae Murray.

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., the son of the original "Doug", is fast becoming one of the most sought-after juvenile leading men in Hollywood, proving that he is "a chip of the old block." Following his work in "Padlocked," young Fairbanks signed with Metropolitan Pictures to play with Marie Prevost in "Manbait".

Francis X. Bushman Jr., the son of Beverly Bayne and Francis X. Bushman Sr., is also coming along in pictures. Young Bushman recently signed a long-term contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Universal executive finally decided that "Oh, Promise Me" was a little bit too wishy-washy for such a rugged young man as Hoot Gibson. They thereupon changed the title of the cowboy's star's next picture to "The Buckaroo Kid".

Constance Howard, the sister-in-law of Sam Goldwyn, motion picture producer, has just completed her first picture in the movies. She played leading lady for Doug MacLean in "Here He Comes".

What is distance when love is concerned?

Robert Agnew, playing the leading role in King Baggott's "Down The Stretch", a race story now being filmed at Riverside, travels 140 miles a day to keep an engagement in Hollywood each evening with tiny May McAvoy, movie actress.

EBONITE won't dry out, cake, pack nor deteriorate. It is not a grease. Just pure oil, shredded, by our own process. It stays "put". All good dealers sell EBONITE.

Riviera City Fights Independent Casino For Money Of Tourists

(International News Service)

NICE, Aug. 27.—Open warfare has been declared between the Jetee Promenade Casino and municipal authorities. The conflict grew out of rivalry between the Jetee Casino, an independent proposition, and the Municipal Casino.

In order to cope with the ever increasing number of American and English visitors the Jetee Casino recently decided to make an extension to their building costing approximately $25,000.

Municipal authorities granted a permit for the extension but later, through pressure brought to bear, it is believed, by officials of the Municipal Casino, the general council of the Alpes Maritimes department ordered the extension stopped.

Work on the extension had already begun. The direction of the Jetee Promenade Casino refused to stop the work and building is continuing, despite 20 summonses from the authorities. Outsiders are waiting eagerly for the next move of the municipality.

Reduced Rates For Electric Light

MERCER, Pa., Aug. 27.—Announcement has been made by the Pennsylvania Power Company of reduced rates for electric lights for Mercer, Greenville, Stoneboro, Sandy Lake, Jamestown, Fredonia, Shenango and New Hamburg, to become effective October 1. Construction of connecting these towns with the Penn-Ohio system will be completed shortly and will make operating economies possible.

The present rate is 11½ cents per unit for the first 10 units; 10 cents for the next 75 units; 9 cents for all over 75 units, with a monthly minimum of $1.15.

The reduced net rate will be $1.00 customer cost per month, plus 5 cents for each unit of consumption, with a monthly minimum of $1.00. Schedules of rates for other services are in preparation and will soon be announced.

Sword Of Napoleon Stolen From Museum

MILAN, Italy, Aug. 27.—A sword given by Napoleon to the opera singer, Giuditta Pasta, and other precious relics have been stolen from the theatrical museum adjoining the Scala Opera House that contains priceless objects and documents referring to ancient and modern dramatic art.

The thief, who is believed to have been hiding in the museum after the closing hour for visitors yesterday, took Napoleon's sword that was set with gems, a medal that once belonged to the celebrated Italian dramatist, Count Vittorio Alfieri, and a golden crown owned by the famous dancer, Marchionnini.

PENNZOIL ETHYL GASOLINE — Knocks out that "knock"

To motorists who went driving last Sunday

IF YOU did not use Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline, you missed a bet in motoring pleasure.

It would have stopped the "knocking" of your engine; it would have given you more power on hills and quicker response in traffic; it would have turned your carbon into power.

Sunday is over but today is today —the day you should start using this new fuel.

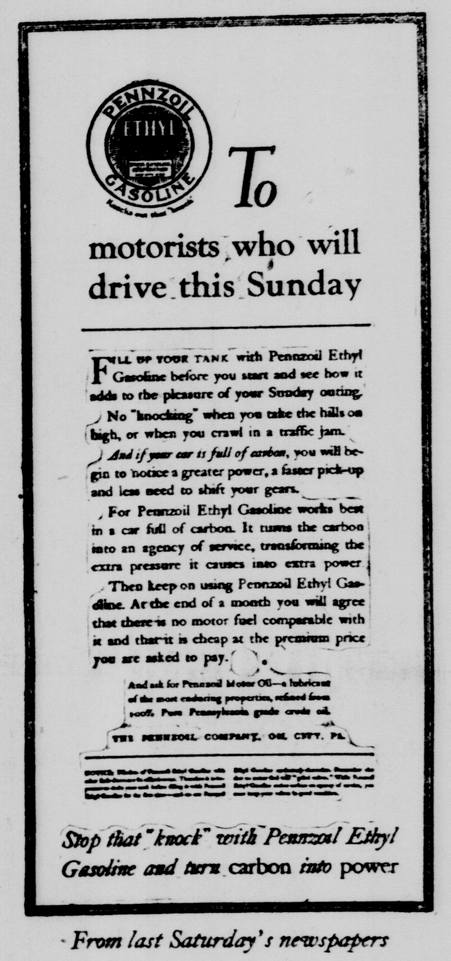
Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline is automotive science's answer to the need for a fuel which will prevent "knocking" and power loss under all driving conditions. And since it is unaffected by carbon, the increased pressure which carbon causes becomes increased power.

The first tankful of Pennzoil Ethyl will convince you of its magic qualities. Drive to a Pennzoil Dealer and fill your tank today.

And don't take a chance with "just oil." Ask for Pennzoil Motor Oil. Pennzoil contains only the inherent lubricating qualities of Pure Pennsylvania crude oil, and it will save you the trouble and expense that come from faulty lubrication.



PENNZOIL ETHYL GASOLINE

To motorists who will drive this Sunday

FILL UP YOUR TANK with Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline before you start and see how it adds to the pleasure of your Sunday outing.

No "knocking" when you take the hills on high, or when you crawl in a traffic jam.

And if your car is full of carbon, you will begin to notice a greater power, a faster pick-up and less need to shift your gears.

For Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline works best in a car full of carbon. It turns the carbon into an agency of service, transforming the extra pressure it causes into extra power.

Then keep on using Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline. At the end of a month you will agree that there is no motor fuel comparable with it and that it is cheap at the premium price you are asked to pay.

THE PENNZOIL COMPANY, OIL CITY, PA.

From last Saturday's newspapers

NOTICE: Dilution of Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline with other fuels decreases its effectiveness. Therefore it is important to drain your tank before filling it with Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline for the first time—and to use Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline exclusively thereafter. Remember also that no motor fuel will "grind valves." While Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline makes carbon an agency of service, you must keep your valves in good condition.

Stop that "knock" with Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline and turn carbon into power

Brawny Workers Lack Leisure To Use Brains

Workers don't need culture half as much as enough food to eat and clothes to wear, a decent place to live in and enough money to give their children opportunities for education before their minds are dulled and their bodies stunted in mill, mine or shop. So says Philip Ziegler, editor of the "Railway Clerk," (which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor,) writing in the Forum Rostrum for September. He answers Hendrik Willem van Loon, who states in this same issue that the worker is a lowbrow. Let the liberal gentry who lead the civilized lives Mr. Van Loon talks about live the life of a coal miner, a steel worker, an iron puddler, a common laborer or even a railroad clerk; let them work eight, nine or ten hours a day at a nerve-wracking, body-breaking job at starvation wages; let them stand on the picket line and get their skulls cracked for demanding recognition of their union or a nickel an hour increase in wages and they will understand why the mass of workers are so little interested in music, art, and literature, says Mr. Ziegler.

The exactions of industry and the restrictions that inadequate wages place upon the workers destroy the desire for the few good things of life that are available to the wage earner. Let the liberals get down to earth and help the workers in a practical way to develop the kind of education that will aid them in solving the problems which grow out of the economic world in which they live and move and have their being, increase their wages so they can improve their environment, shorten their hours of labor so they may have leisure and energy to study, and the good life will follow and we'll have fewer disappointed liberals, is Mr. Ziegler's advice to the tired radicals.

Lutheran Synod Opens Sessions In Columbus, O.

(International News Service)
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 27.—Facing continued reports of the committees on home, inner, Brazilian, foreign, colored, and Mexican missions, before again resuming discussion of the proposed merging of the Ohio and Iowa Synods, 300 delegates and laymen attending the 48th annual convention of the Evangelical Lutheran joint synod of Ohio and other states reassembled this morning.

The committees were expected to finish their work before the noon recess and then the time will be devoted to hearing further addresses on the organic union of the two bodies. The Iowa synod has voted almost unanimously advocating the linking up of the organizations and Ohio started the movement.

It was freely predicted today that the final arrangements would be completed before the end of the week, although the unionizing of the bodies will not be completed for over a year.

The merging of the Iowa and Ohio synods will make a solid organization west of the Ohio river, bringing together approximately two million members of the church. It will also mean the reorganization of many publications issued by the separate organizations coordination of Lutheran Colleges and Seminaries, selection of new officers and redistribution of synodical funds.

Dr. Edward Pfeiffer, president of Capitol University here delivered the principal address at this morning's session.

At "Crossroads" In Religious Matters

"At the present moment an enormous number of people stand at the crossroads," says the Reverend Herbert Parrish, rector of an ancient New Jersey church. "They have scrapped the authority of churches, they have no regard for ecclesiastical organization. But neither have they any actual spiritual experience to supply the empty soul. They want something to take the place of that which they have lost. Interest in religion was never greater." But it is only peasants and the undeveloped mind of childhood that can any longer be imposed upon by ecclesiastical tyranny. Dr. Parrish sees Christianity as perhaps becoming but one of the great world religions—the best, but possibly not the final one. The transition is slow but it moves. —Atlantic Monthly.

Chicago Maniac Is Slain After Killing Of Man

Two Are Dead, Two Dying, One Seriously Wounded In Chicago Station

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Aug. 27. — Two men are dead, two dying, and another seriously wounded today, as the result of a maniac's charge through the Illinois Central Station here last night.

Joe Mazza, a Sicilian, was the demented man who ran amuck. He was shot to death by Charles Danloff, a World War veteran, after he had killed Louis Kigazas, a waiter in a restaurant and had wounded three men, two probably fatally.

Mazza was standing in the crowded station. He carried a single-shot gun and had a bag of shells strung around his neck.

Penna. Drivers Must Secure A State License

While Pennsylvania desires to reciprocate with other states in so far as the use of automobile licenses are concerned there is a limit to such reciprocity when legitimate citizens of Pennsylvania attempt to use a Florida or Ohio license for weeks or months in this state. This is indicated by an order received by the locale detachment of the state highway patrol yesterday.

It seems that there are many Pennsylvanians, persons who vote in this state, but are property owners in Florida and some spend their winters there. They secure Florida licenses the first of the year believing that they are entitled to operate their automobiles in Pennsylvania the remainder of the year on the Florida license. This is not allowed and the same applies to Ohio and other nearby licenses, the order indicates.

The state highway department does not wish to work any hardship on drivers, believing that many of them think they have lived up to the law, but has directed the patrolmen to open a drive on these car owners.

Warn them first and if they fail to secure the proper license, to prosecute them. This means the minimum fine of $10 and costs for the first offense. If a driver offends a second time patrolmen will recommend the maximum fine of $25 and costs.

Show Appreciation Of Coolidge Stand

(International News Service)
MEXICO CITY, Aug. 27.—The supreme council of 32nd degree Masons has cabled its felicitations and thanks to President Coolidge for his attitude of non-interference in the conflict between the Catholic church and the Mexican government over the latter's religious regulations. The council expressed the hope that the president will hold firmly to that policy.

The message was signed by Luis Manuel Rojas, grand master of Mexican Masons, who was a cabinet member in several Mexican administrations and president of the constitutional assembly of 1917.

Magnesia Best For Gassy Stomach

Bisurated Magnesia Promptly Ends Gas Sourness and Acid Indigestion.

If everything you eat turns to gas and your stomach is a constant ferment of sourness and Acid Indigestion, try taking a little pure Bisurated Magnesia after meals for a while and get the immediate relief from stomach trouble this simple prescription unfailingly gives.

It is a serious mistake to seek relief from Indigestion or a bad stomach by using pepsin or other artificial digestants. You get relief but weaken the stomach and do not reach the cause which, nine times in ten, is simply "too much acid" in the stomach. Bisurated Magnesia, taken after meals, dissolves or neutralizes this acid, sweetens and cleans up the stomach, drives out gas and bloat and lets the stomach digest your food as nature intended without a particle of trouble.

Reliable druggists everywhere supply the genuine Bisurated Magnesia in both powder and tablets in sealed packages. Do not confuse with ordinary citrate, milk or lump magnesia. Be sure to get Bisurated, which is not a laxative and is especially prepared for stomach trouble.

PETER'S ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

MOTHER LOVE.

"Come, come this will never do!" trumpeted Mrs. Elephant shrilly. "Pleny of time for loving when we get safe home. I must help you out of the deep ravine, sonny before darkness arrives. Climbing up the mountain side in broad daylight is one thing! Fumbling in the dusk for a foothold is quite another!"

"How're you going to get me out mother? How're you going to get me out?" demanded the little Tusker.

"Be still sonny! I must think!" With the tip of her trunk Mother Elephant thoughtfully rubbed her forehead.

"There is only one way!" squealed she at last. "And a hard way it is too, sonny. You must do just exactly as I tell you or it is a way that will not succeed."

"I'll mind you mummy. Truly I will. Just try me and see if I don't.

"Very well, sonny. You have promised, and no Elephant, even a very small one, ever breaks his word. Turn your back to me, so! Stand up on your hind legs. Careful, baby. That's right! You and I shall climb the mountain side together—you first and I close behind you to push you up. Watch your step sonny Be sure your foothold's firm before you trust your weight upon it. Ready, now! Up we go.

"Up we go! Up we go," squealed the litle Tusker, so excited he almost forgot his fear. "This is lots of fun, mummy. I like to climb a mountain, don't you?"

Mrs. Elephant made no reply but Peter knew she didn't like to climb such a steep ledge at all!

Then the little Tusker slipped, lost his balance, slid far over to one side, almost rolled down to the rocks below. But beneath him was that broad, kind head; supporting him was that mother love that would not let him fall.

Next: "Stepping Up."

"UP WE GO" SQUEALED THE LITTLE TUSKER BENEATH HIM WAS THAT BROAD KIND HEAD

When The First Gas Stove Was Shown

At the centennial exhibition held in Philadelphia in 1876 the first gas stove on record was used by a baking powder company to demonstrate cake baking.

At that time the gasoline stove was in general use.

But it was not until 1893, at the World's Fair, says Good Hardware, that the first elaborate display of gas stoves took place. And later, in 1901, the first all-steel stove was put on the market. In 1910 began the use of white porcelain enamel, which has taken the gas stove from the category of a mere utility to an article of cleanliness and beauty for the kitchen.

World Famine In Wheat Problem Of Agriculture

Multiplying Of Peoples Gives Rise To Fear For Future Supply

Famous Authority Shows British Association How Shortage May Come

By CHARLES A. SMITH.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The spectre of a world wheat famine and the coming of time when the wheat fields of the world will be unable to supply the multiplying peoples of the five continents was raised before the meeting of the British Association at Oxford by Sir Daniel Hall a world famous authority on agriculture.

Pressure on the wheat resources of the world was sooner or later inevitable, he told assembled agriculturalists, adding that one of the biggest problems before the world at present was to prevent that pressure developing suddenly or becoming unbearable.

"The white peoples of the world may yet be forced into teetoalism and vegetarianism" Sir Daniel declared. "Good wheat land is already running short and yet the wheat consuming population of the globe is increasing at the rate of five millions a year.

Vegetarianism Necessary.

"If the maximum of population supported by a given area of land is the objective, vegetarianism becomes increasingly necessary as we see among the crowded populations of China," he added. "An item of waste which would have to be eliminated in case of stern necessity is the conversion of potential food into alcoholic drink. Britain ferments the equivalent of one and a half million acres of barley. France devotes four million acres ot vineyards.

"Without going so far as to say that beer or wine posseses no food value it is certainly not half of that which could have been grown from the land thus used for the production of drink. All over the world it astonishes the traveler to see what bad lands the new settler is trying to farm. Evidently the good, easy, virgin land is no longer easy to find. In the United States we see continued attempts to win new land by forcing into cultivation the arid lands of alkali soils which the earlier settlers rejected. Vast irrigation schemes are being carried out though they show little signs of paying interest on their construction.

Canada Wheat Welcomed.

"It is significant that in Canada new wheats are being acclaimed because they extend settlement into regions where killing frosts may be expected in August and that dairy farming with a crop only in alternate years has to be resorted to in Australia and South Africa. These facts would seem to show that land is getting short in the world; at a any rate the naturally productive land on which the great expansion of the 19th century proceeded."

Producing statistics to support his contention Sir Daniel said that as it takes two and a half acres to support each person the yearly growth of the world's population demands that 12 million acres of new land must be found every year. "But no process of this kind is going on" he said. "Indeed for many crops there has been a shrinking of the acreage since the World War. Agriculture is losing its best brains and its best men. The lure of the cities is proverbial but the fundamental factor is economic.

"A flight from the land is going on everywhere. Over population and unemployment have become terrible realities in Britain and other countries."

Sir Daniel suggested that the mankind's chief hope of averting a wheat shortage was to intensify the cultivation of its land by scientific methods.

Science Asked To Investigate Quake Decline

COMRIE, Scotland, Aug. 27. — This town which firmly believes that it holds the world's record for earthquake shocks, has been visited by experts from the British Association for the Advancement of Science to investigate why the quakes have ceased.

"When you realize that more than 68 shocks were definitely recorded in Comrie between the few years, 1788-1804," he said, "and on top of that more than 300 shocks in the eleven years between 1839-1849, you realize that Comrie is an unusually interesting place. It is in fact, distinctly proud of its extraordinary record for earthquakes.

"However, it suffered the mortification of fifteen absolutely blank years then it had only fifteen earthquakes in the years 1864-1898, followed by more blanks, with a couple of good earthquakes in 1920, then silence culminating in two lively quakes on February 22 and 23 of this year."

Dr. Jeffreys refused to advance any theories as to the seismic decline of Comrie.

MAIL CARRIER

Official announcement of the appointment of E. M. Newton as mail carrier has been made. While it has been generally supposed for some time that Mr. Newton would be the appointee, no statement has been made of it, on account of the lack of official announcement. Everything is in readiness, and mail delivery will begin with the first of September. The request is made by Postmaster White that any who have not yet put up house numbers, or secured mail boxes, get them at once. It is not obligatory on the part of the mail carrier to deliver mail unless number is on your house and a small box is put up.

REUNION

The Byers-Pinkerton reunion was held at the home of Darlington Porter, August 19. A large crowd attended and the day was spent in visiting, playing ball and pitching horse shoes. As usual there was an abundance of good "eats." A business meeting was held and Miss Evelyn McFarland, a missionary from Egypt, spoke of her experience and of the people of Egypt and sang an Egyptian song.

Officers elected for next year are: Pres., K. W. McFarland; Sec., Roy B. McFarland; Treas., Clyde Campbell. The next reunion will be held at the home place, the third Thursday of August 1927.

SEPTEMBER 7

The public school and high school will open September 7th, the day after labor day. Children are no doubt glad (?) that their vacation is drawing to an end. MISSIONARY TEA

A tea was given by the ladies of the missionary society Tuesday afternon in the parlor of the Presbyterian church. Miss Annetta Bell and Miss Ruth Seley gave very interesting talks. A pleasant afternoon was enjoyed.

Mother Roasts Child To Death

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. — Maternal love gave way to insanity today when Mrs. Rosina Raio, 26, mother of four children and a patient in an insane asylum, placed her youngest son Frank, aged sixteen months, in a large pot and cooked him to death.

The woman then rushed upstairs to the apartment of her sister, Mrs. Rosalina Conaghien, mother of three children, and shouted:

"I've just cooked Frankie. Let's cook your baby, too and we'll take them over to the butcher and have them cut up for soup."

Feigning agreement, the sister seized her infant daughter and rushed to the street, where she screamed for help. Police entered the house and found Mrs. Raio gibbering in the cellar. The child's body was found in the steaming pot.

Science Shows Great Advance In Cancer Study

British Empire Campaign Offers Hope Of Final Victory Over Scourge

Report Discloses Effects Of Treatment On Animals In New Experiments

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 27.—"To predict the time when the problem of cancer will be solved is as yet impossible, but it is not too much to hope that with a combination of the present efforts a solution of this great problem is attainable."

That, in effect, is the genesis of the report issued by the British Empire cancer campaign after its annual meeting at the House of Lords here. The campaign was instituted two or three years back to assist research into the causes and means of combatting the scourge.

"It would be dangerous to raise false hopes at this stage," writes Lord Cave, chairman of the Grand Council, in his introduction to the report, "but we all know that even difficult problems yield in the end to continuous effort and careful organization."

The report discloses that important advances have been made by the scientists subsidized by the campaign during the past year. It is shown that Dr. Thomas Lumsden, working at the Lister Institute, has found that anti-human cancer serum kills mouse cancer cells out of the body almost as rapidly as an anti-serum made to mouse cancer itself.

This effect is so selective that when a fragment of mouse cancer and of mouse heart and kidney are grown in the same drop of serum application of the anti-human cancer serum selects and kills every malignant cell without damaging the normal mouse tissues in the slightest degree. The heart fragment continues beating and its cells actively divide and multiply.

"This observation," says Dr. Lumsden in the report, "opens up a large field for further investigation, and if an anti-serum made against mouse or rat cancer is found similarly to select and kill human cancer cells, then as far as in outward work goes an almost perfect re-agent would seem to have been found.

Unusual Experiments

"Nevertheless, it would only be harmful to the progress of this inquiry to attempt the treatment to human sufferers, and no such attempt is at present contemplated or even possible at this stage."

The report states that further experiments have been made into the cancer-producing properties of tar products and of mineral oils used in industrial processes. The general opinion and conclusion of the Research Institute of the campaign is that all mineral oils are under suspicion of being dangerous.

Hospitals associated with the campaign are still examining the theory put forward by Dr. Gye and Barnard. The report intimates that up till the end of 1925 the hospital experiments had yielded no support for the virus theory.

The theory that cockroaches are one of the causative agents of cancer is entirely negatived by experiments conducted by the campaign, according to the report.

British Astronomers To Study Eclipse Of Sun June 27 Next

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 27.—British astronomers are already making the fullest possible arrangements for dealing with the total eclipse of the sun timed to occur in the early morning of June 27 in the northern part of England next year.

As this will be the first eclipse witnessed in England for nearly two centuries, the event is being regarded with considerable importance here, and plans are being made to run special trains to the line of the eclipse in order to give amateur astronomers the opportunity of witnessing it.

The belt of complete totality will stretch 28 miles broad from Stockport to West Hartlepool, but in order to combat the possibility of cloudy weather the official astronomical bodies here are arranging to send representatives to Norway to witness and record the eclipse from that part.

The famous observatory at Greenwich, London, will send a squad of observers to the approximate center of the English belt equipped with most of the portable telescopes and cameras available. Arrangements have been made for transporting the mammoth 50-foot Greenwich telescope which is equipped with the Coelostat mirror attachment, enabling observers to work in an horizontal position.

Many American and other astronomers are expected here and in Norway to record the event.

BISHOP PASCUAL DIAZ.

Second only in importance to Archbishop del Rio among the leaders of the Catholic church who are playing prominent roles in the present religious drama in Mexico is Bishop Pascual Diaz.

There is not a man who is opposing the crisis but who admits the great ability of this man. For 28 of his 52 years he has been a priest and he became a bishop in 1922.

Bishop Diaz has none but Indian blood in his veins. He is tall, muscular, always smiling and his loyal followers call him the Church's most eloquent pulpit speaker. His reputation is that of a fighter who says he wants to say regardless of consequences to himself. He knows personally many of the principal Catholic prelates in the United States.

Bishop Diaz now living in a private home in the fashionable residential section of Mexico City, wears the regalia of his office. He receives reports from all over the republic and is the spokesman to the press for the church. Outside the house, conforming to law he appears in civilian garb. He reminds one of an American Indian—clean shaven, hair black as ebony and slightly sprinkled with gray, eyes that sparkle with humor, the stride of a warrior, the manners of a Chesterfield.

The number of unemployed in Great Britain on July 26 was 1,605,500, according to official figures. This was 407,869 more than a year ago. The figures do not take into account the unemployed miners.

CANTON PLAYS NEW CASTLE HERE SATURDAY

Locals Hope To Secure Victory

GAME CALLED FOR 3:30 O'CLOCK

By "BUGS" WALTHER

The Canton Hooper Coals will be the attraction at Centennial field Saturday afternoon against the New Castle O. & P. team. The game is called for 3:30 daylight savings time.

The Canton team has been playing a snappy brand of baseball in their past few games and are out to defeat the New Castle team here Saturday. New Castle and Canton recently divided a double bill in the city made famous by the heinous slaying of Don Mellett, newspaper publisher.

The New Castle team, with a revamped line-up and with either Hospidore or Cebula on the mound are out to take a victory, and if the boys continue to play ball like they did here last night against the Grays, many of the league teams are going to find the "sledding" mighty tough.

When Patterson, the new infielder from Ambridge, failed to show up for last night's game, "Sankey" McCullough, former third sacker, and more lately an outfielder, was shoved into the breach at shortstop berth and the Coaltown youth came through in fine style, taking care of two hard chances without a slip-up and handling the position with the grace of a tried veteran.

The locals are buried deep in the confines of the league basement, but that is no reason why they shouldn't be supported by the fans. The team is up and going now, and Manager Steen has instilled a new spirit into the team's playing.

Last Night's Fights

IT WON'T WORK

Rover—They are talking of reviving the old-fashioned whiskers.

Rover. Why not?

Plan Meeting For Tonight

Officials of the New Castle team of the O. & P. League and officials of the Lawrence County League, also representatives of the Ellwood City and Neshannock teams, will meet tonight at eight o'clock in the New Castle News office for the purpose of arranging a series of games between the winners of the Lawrence County League and the New Castle team.

It is urged that officials of all teams mentioned be at the News office promptly at the time scheduled.

The series when staged will be the official championship of Lawrence county. Already considerable interest has been manifested in the proposition.

Junior Team Notes

This Column is Devoted Exclusively To Junior Baseball Briefs

The Dad's Palace A. C. defeated the Lutton Street Midgets 17 to 12, in a game played Thursday morning on the Lehigh field. The pitching of McConahey and E. Doran featured the game, while the hitting of Boughton and Newell was sensational.

The North End Midgets downed the Square Guys 14 to 6, in a game played Thursday afternoon on the North End field. Donaldson on the hill for the North End Midgets pitched fine ball, while heavy hitting by Spiker, Keller and McGaffic brought victory to the Midgets.

The Red Tops defeated the Dad's Palace A. C. team 13 to 7, in a game played on the Lehigh grounds on Wednesday morning. The Red Tops took the lead in the first inning and held it throughout. The hitting of Campbell featured the game.

The Red Tops would like to arrange games with all midget teams in the city or county. For information concerning the games call 2476-J and ask for "Art", between 5 and 5:30 o'clock.

Croton To Play Benefit Game

The Croton A. C. and Bessemer Gas Engine team of Grove City, will play a Christy Mathewson benefit game on the Marshall Field at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, it was announced today.

Teams all over this section are playing benefit games on Saturday for the Mathewson Fund. The cause is a worthy one, and the fans are asked to donate whatever they can.

Mathewson in his prime was probably the greatest pitcher that ever donned a uniform, and the vetran has since been called by the Grim Reaper.

High Football Team Ready To Open Camp

By "BUGS" WALTHER

With forty candidates eagerly awaiting the word to entrain for Muddy Creek Falls, the New Castle High School 1926 training camp will open on Monday morning, August 30, for one week of intensive study under Head Coach Phil. H. Bridenbaugh, and his assistants Thomas and Klee. Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner and Student Manager Merritt Hoag will also be on hand to attend the many cares relative to such an undertaking.

The first step toward the season was taken in the Ben Franklin High Stadium on Thursday night when Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner and Student Manager Hoag handed out forty uniforms to the youngsters and informed them that the training schedule would get under way at 10 o'clock Monday morning and that every mother's son should be in camp either on Sunday night or early Monday morning. Coach Bridenbaugh also made this point emphatic.

Nine Veterans

Included in the forty gridders who will spend a week at the Ne-Ca-Hi Football Camp are nine letter-men from last year as follows: Captain Harry Robinson, George "Peg" Thomas, Clarence Klaber, Robert Millison, "Tip" Richards, Earl Turk, C. Ulrich, Jack Christman and Dickson.

Five members of the second team from last year will go to camp they are as follows: William Kirk, Haydon, W. Mott, Johnny Melder and Sandifer.

The new comers to football circles at the High School who will battle for places on the eam this year and who will make the trip to camp were announced last night as follows: Manos, Harper, McGrath, Hammond, Hoffmeister, Dinsmore, Farrow, W. Smith, Funkhouser, Hawley, Ostrosky, Delaney, Mike, Burns, Sillman, Sage, C. Mott, Marino, McIntosh, H. Smith, Sherer, Jones, Mooney, DiThomas and Marcella.

That New Castle High is going to have a team this year that will average well into the pounds was evident to the writer last evening as the boys filed into the locker room to secure their equipment of uniforms, head-gears, etc. While none of the boys tip the scales over the 200 pound class, several of them come close to it, Christman weighing in at 193, and Dinsmore a rookie at 194. Robert Millison weighed 180, and young "Red" McIntosh displayed 172 pounds of beef.

Camp Is Ready

Camp Ne-Ca-Hi awaits the gridders, Gardner and Hoag together with a corps of assistants have been hard at work on the camp site for the past several weeks and all is in readiness for the opening of the camp on Monday morning.

Coach Bridenbaugh was not very communicative last evening when asked concerning the chances of New Castle High on the gridiron this year, the coach only shook his head to several questions, and when Bridenbaugh is that quiet it breeds ill for the opponents of New Castle High, this being used as a warning signal similar to the storm warnings issued by the government.

Following their one week at the training camp the Red and Black gridders will return to New Castle for the opening of school on Tuesday morning, September 7, and from that time on to the opening date the boys will undergo training at the Ben Franklin High Field.

The opening game will bring Mars High here on Saturday, September 18, which is not more than a month away and this means litterly speaking that the boys have a lot of hard work ahead of them if they hope to get in condition by the time the lid is ready to be taken off.

Three County League Tilts

Mahoning Will Play At Neshannocks And Ellwood Travels To Bessemer

Ellwood at Bessemer.
Energy at Wampum.
Mahoning at Neshannocks.

Three good games are carded for Lawrence county league fans Saturday afternoon and it is likely that Bessemer will strive their best to put a check to Ellwood City's winning streak not because it will put Ellwood out of first place or knock the Tubers out of the flag race, but simply to hold the honor of being the only team in the circuit to defeat Wardman's aggregation.

While these two teams are struggling Energy will play Wampum at Wampum and as the teams are evenly matched there should be an airtight game.

The best loking game of the day will be played at Coaltown when Mahoning tangles with the "Nocks." Mahoning lost a few days ago but would like to displace the "Nocks" but they are several games behind second place and it is not probable they can owing to the season being about over and only a few games left on the card.

The Lawrence County league teams hope to end the season with a series of high class games and it looks as though three good ones are carded.

New Castle Tops Homestead Grays

ROBERTSON SCORES PAIR OF RUNS

The winning streak of the Homestead Grays did a fadeout here last evening at Centennial field, when Hospidore on the knoll for the New Castle O. & P. league team set them back with three hits and New Castle walked off with a 2 to 1 victory over the visitors.

The game was in all reality a pitchers' battle with Owens and Hospidore as the opposing flingers, and with the local twirler having the better of the argument from the very start of the game. The New Castle team backed up Hospidore with a brand of sensational fielding while the Grays played errorless ball behind Owens.

New Castle broke the ice in the second inning. McCullough was out on a grounder to B. Williams, Hoffman was out on a roller to Britt, Robertson walked and stole second, scoring on a single by Ross. Gahles ended the inning by fanning. The locals counted their final and winning run in the fifth inning. Robertson beat out an infield hit, Ross fanned, Gahles went out on a hard hit ball to B. Williams with Robertson going to second, Hospidore won his own game by driving in Robertson with a single to left field, Weimer went ont on a fly to V. Harris.

The Grays tried hard to score in several innings but their efforts were wasted by brilliant fielding on the part of the New Castle team. However, they did score a lone tally in the seventh frame. M. Harris walked and reached second on Pierce's out Hoffman to Pumphrey. Owens reached first on Pumphrey's error with Harris scoring on the play.

The Grays were determined to win the game even in the eighth inning when Graham singled and stole second, but two sensational catches by Buzzard and Weimer ended the rally and the Grays were held scoreless.

Hospidore deserves credit for his game against the Grays here last evening. He fanned four men and walked four, but for the greater part of the time he had the visitors popping up.

The game was stopped in the eighth inning on account of darkness.

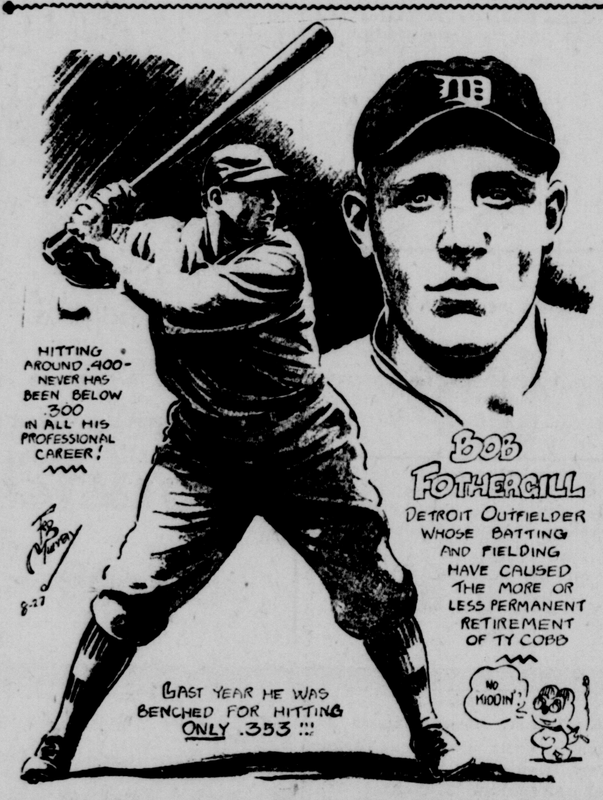
He Ousted Cobb

By Feg Murray



Over a hundred years ago Sir Walter Scott wrote a thrilling tale entitled "Rob Roy". Some modern novelist should write another about Rob Roy Fothergill, of the Detroit Tigers, for some time the leading batsman of the American League. The Rob Roy of Scott's novel was a famous outlaw. The Rob Roy of this yarn is an outfielder. Though quite a hero in his day, the fiery-haired Scotsman who blackmailed the gentry of his country under the protection of the Duke of Argyll, was known to fewer people than is the present Rob Roy, who wreaks his vengeance on opposing pitchers.

Robert Roy Fothergill lays claim to the double distinction of forcing the famous Ty Cobb into semi-retirement, and to being benched for hitting the high average of .353. The Georgia Peach realizes that, though his eye and brain are as keen as ever, there is no need for him and his ailing legs with a triumvirate like Heilmann, Manush, and Fothergill to hold down the outfield for his team. Last year when Heilmann, Cobb and Wingo were all batting around .400, the unlucky Fothergill had to sit on the bench, as his fine stick work was even surpassed by his three teammates.

Now, however, the big boy from Massillon, Ohio, has come into his own. And this lad (he was 27 last week) can field as well as bat. He is known as a ball-hawk and a very fast all-around performer, in spite of his tendency to take on weight. Bob worked in the steel mills when he was a boy and first played with Bloomington in the Three-Eye League, then Rochester in the International. This is his fifth season with Detroit.

Feg Murray Says—

About twenty men seem to have given up the Channel swim in sixty minutes or so, according to press reports. "They shall NOT pass", says Father Neptune—at the rate of twenty nots an hour.

Oh, well, is surfs them right.

Gene Sarazen Leads Tourney

Former National Champ Scores One Under Par To Top Field

SMITH TURNS IN CARD OF 7

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 27.—A record for prolonged endeavor on the golf links was set in the Western open championship at the Highland Golf club, where Macdonald Smith of New York is defending his title against 250 aspirants, many of whom were enmeshed in darkness before they could finish the first 18 holes of play.

In fact, the first round was made to extend over parts of two days, for, as the sun sank, such stars as Chick Evans, Al Watrous, Joe Turnesa and John Farrell still were far afield. The players stopped for the night and will resume their round in the morning.

Whether it was the slowness of play that deadened the keenness of the contestants or the precarious positions of the cups at the backs of the sloping greens that forced extra putts and approaches, the players for the most part did not score in a manner to frighten bogey. The defending champion took 76 strokes, six more than par. He did not lack company, for few were able to get close to the splendid 69 scored by Gene Sarazen of New York.

Gets Good Start.

Sarazen started with two pars and a birdie and was perfect for three more holes before he went one above par on the seventh. Two more par holes gave him a perfect 35 at the turn. He got birdies on the eleventh and the twelfth and was two under par at the end of the fourteenth. Sarazen misjudged the 201-yard fifteenth against the breeze and took four, but with a trio of fours for a finish, broke par by one blow.

P. O. Hart of Marietta added one stroke to Sarazen's card for his total of 70, which gave him second place. Hart had to his credit a splendid 33 for the incoming nine, where he chalked up three birdies for a total of four sub-war holes. Laurie Ayton of Chicago and Francis Gallett of Milwaukee followed closely with 71 each, while Bill Hartshorn and Jock Hutchison of Chicago were only one stroke further back with 73 apiece.

Espinosa, Cooper Up.

Abe Espinosa of Chicago and Harry Cooper were well up in the list with 74 each, while James Mansion of St. Louis and John Lehman of Gary, two amateurs, were able to tie with the redoubtable Walter Hagan at 75. Only one stroke behind were a dozen players including three amateurs. Eddie Held of St. Louis, Trans-Mississippi titleholder, Densmore Shute, West Virginia champion, and Douglas Casey of the home club.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Elwood English, 20 year old shortstop of the Toledo club and one of the best youngsters in the American association today was purchased by the Chicago Nationals for three players to be named by January 1 and a "whale of a lot of money" according to President Veeck.

According to an unofficial source it was said English cost the Cubs $50,000.

English is five feet, 11 inches tall exceptionally fast and a fairly good hitter. Playing in 124 games with Toledo he scored 54 times and is

Youngstown Fight Program Causing Considerable Talk

Mitchell-Levine Battle At Idora Park September 1, Interests Fans

By JOE HAYNES,
(Special To The News)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 27.—While it is a known fact that the Mitchell-Levine battle at Idora Park, Youngstown, O., September 1st, is causing quite a bit of talk among the fans all over the country, the second ten rounder between Jimmy Jones and Sailor Freidman, is the battle that the fans around this section are interested in.

Jones, a local boy, who with the exception of his fight with Morrie Schlaifer, the Omaha bearcat, has never put up a good battle in this city. Jones, recently suspended by the Toledo Boxing Commission, for not doing his best in his fight with Jimmy Finley, will be out to show the fans and the boxing commission that he can and will fight.

A word of explanation about that Jones-Finley affair would not come in amiss right here. Finley, strictly a defensive fighter, goes into a shell at the first bell, and stays there until the last bell. The only target a fighter has to shoot at is the top of his head, and that is a hard spot for any man to hit. Jones dropped Finley for the nine count in that fight, but drew the suspension right on.

In our humble opinion, Finley and not Jones, should have been the one set down, as the newspapers gave Jones the credit of making whatever fight there was.

Sailor Freidman is well known to the fans of this section. Freidman is the same boy that gave Joe Simienivch, the "Butte Mauler", such a whaling here not long ago. In the battle Freidman won a big crowd of followers by the easy way that he handled the Montana fighter. The sailer has the reputation of being the cleverest and shrewdest boxer that has stepped into a local ring in a long time.

In the first ten rounder Johnny Hill, Filipinio boxer, and Spencer Gardner of New York, will come together, while in the eight round prelim George Harris and Johnny "Kid" Roberts will swap punches. The last two named will go on promptly at 8:15 p. m.

Tagging All Bases

(International News Service)

Smashing hits won a victory for the Pirates over the Giants, and sloppy fielding by the latter allowed the score to run to 15-7. Pittsburgh returned to first place.

Jakie May and Dazzy Vance staged a pitching bee, the former casting an unprecedented spell over the Dodgers, eight of them fanning. Vance retired four. Cincinnati won, 3 to 1.

The Cardinals again dropped back into a tie with Cincinnati for second place by losing the series opener to Philadelphia, 3 to 2. The Cardinals got 13 hits, but were unable to bunch them.

Guy Busch won his sixth consecutive victory when the Cubs welcomed the Braves in their series opener with a 3 to 1 victory for Chicago.

Philadelphia fans were given 23 innings of baseball when the Athletics won both games of a doubleheader with the Browns in extra innings. Al Simmons' 17th homer of the season in the 11th inning won the first, 8 to 6, while the same gentleman's single in the closing chapters of the second game accounted for a 4 to 3 victory.

Washington's pitching veterans, Johnson and Coveleskie, beat the Chicago White Sox, 9 to 3 and 3 to 1.

False Bank Notes Are Work Of Artist

Best Counterfeiters Are So Few In Number They Are Easily Traced

The portraits and other free-hand decorations on the government notes are the work of the finest artists in the country. Few, indeed, are the men who can turn out equally fine engravings. Different vignettes on the same bill are the work of different men, each a master in his line. The counterfeiter thus finds on every note several types of engraving and he must be an exceptional artist to be able to duplicate them all.

In general it has been found that landscape scenes are more susceptible of imitation than some of the other types of vignettes. Accordingly, a note never bears a landscape alone. With it will always be found a portrait; historical scene, allegorical interpretation, or some other type of engraving, says Everybody's Magazine.

Artists Limited.

There are artists outside those in the government employ who can perform the same class of work with the same degree of excellence. However, they are assured such a large financial return through honest endeavor that there is no motive for them to turn criminal. Furthermore, their ranks are so limited that when a particularly well executed note appears in circulation the responsibility can be fixed within narrow limits. By watching the few men who might turn out work of that grade, the secret service operatives are never long in locating the guilty party or parties.

When the work is that of a foreigner the task is harder. Some skilled engravers have come into this country and set up counterfeit plants which baffled detection for a time. Such a one was Albert Leon, who eluded the government men for two years. Leon was a Russian refugee. In his native land he had made counterfeit paper rubles for the Nihilists. It was only natural that he should turn to spurious money making in the United States.

One year the Pacific northwest began to show an alarming increase of counterfeit ten-dollar notes. Operatives searched high and low for the source, but at first they got no results. Whoever was doing the counterfeiting was an expert engraver and his plant was very cleverly concealed. The bogus notes were examined for some clew. They were printed on a high grade bond paper, of which two sheets were pasted carefully together to obtain the desired thickness.

Betrayed By Hairs.

There was nothing particularly unusual in this, but the silk threads on examination developed a starting peculiarity. Under the microscope it could be seen that they were not silk at all. They were the short reddish hair of some wild animal, or perhaps a dog. "Malemutes," said the detectives at a guess. "Let's start working north. The fellow may have been snowed in for the winter and couldn't get silk threads."

The steps by which the counterfeiters were run down are too long to detail, but the guess proved correct. They ran the gang to earth on Nootka Island, an isolated piece of land near Vancouver, British Columbia. Albert Leon was the crook. Just as the operatives had suspected, in purchasing supplies before the annual freeze-up, Leon had forgotten to include silk thread. The hairs of his dog betrayed him.

Founded On Service

THE GREATEST ACHIEVEMENT is a service well rendered. In 1914 our business opened in the Lawrence Savings & Trust Building. Since that date we have continuously served the public—writing Fire, Auto, Life and other Insurance.

Our Service has been appreciated so that we have been compelled to move into larger offices—now occupying the entire floor of the Lawrence Savings & Trust Annex.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

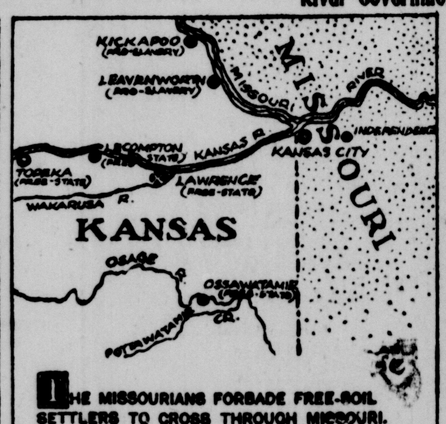
Rival Governments In Kansas.

THE EFFORTS OF THE NORTH TO "ABOLITIONIZE" KANSAS (1854-1855) AROUSED THE RESENTMENT OF THE SLAVE STATES, PARTICULARLY MISSOURI. THEY LOOKED UPON THE NORTHERN EMIGRANTS AS "HIRELINGS" AND "MEDDLERS" WHO CAME, NOT WITH THE TRUE SPIRIT OF THE PIONEERS, BUT, TO PREVENT A FAIR SETTLEMENT OF THE NEW TERRITORY.



THE MISSOURIANS FORBADE FREE-SOIL SETTLERS TO CROSS THROUGH MISSOURI. NEVERTHELESS, HUNDREDS OF NORTHERN EMIGRANTS ARRIVED IN KANSAS WHERE THEY BEGAN AT ONCE TO BUILD TOWNS. THE CHIEF OF THESE WAS LAWRENCE.

IN MARCH, 1855, WHEN A LEGISLATURE FOR THE TERRITORY WAS TO BE ELECTED, GREAT NUMBERS OF MISSOURIANS CROSSED THE BORDER, FLOCKED TO THE POLLS AND CARRIED THE ELECTION OF A STRONG PRO-SLAVERY LEGISLATURE.

THE FREE SOIL MEN OF KANSAS REFUSED TO RECOGNIZE THIS LEGISLATURE, AND AT A CONVENTION HELD AT TOPEKA, FORMED AN ANTI-SLAVERY GOVERNMENT. THEY AT ONCE APPLIED FOR ADMISSION TO THE UNION AS A FREE STATE, BUT WITHOUT SUCCESS.

Traffic Accidents Reported To Police

Peter B. Nord of 1014 West Washington street, was struck and injured Thursday at Atlantic avenue and West Washington street by the car of B. E. Boyle, of Beaver Falls, Pa., as the latter was turning from Washington street to go south on Atlantic avenue.

Officers Hillers and Nelson were detailed and on investigation found that Mr. Nord had started to walk across Atlantic avenue, from the west to the east side and was directly in front of the automobile when it turned south and struck him.

He was removed to his home, where it was found that he was apparently not seriously injured.

A. H. Hill of 439 Croton avenue, reported to the police Thursday that as he was driving east on East Washington street and making a left hand turn into Croton avenue, that a boy named Harry Stiritz and residing at 228 Sheridan avenue, who was riding a bicycle, was struck and knocked from his bicycle by his machine. The boy was apparently not seriously injured.

Mrs. P. Stack of 431 Boyles avenue, reported Thursday that as she was driving from Mill street through an alley to Water street, that her machine collided with that bearing Pennsylvania license No. 831-336. Some damage was done.

Harvey Shaw of 602 Pine street, reported Thursday that he was driving his car out of the Dufford store driveway, when it collided with a car bearing Pennsylvania license 228-662. Slight damage was done.

Merchant Ships Offered For Sale

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—"Out of the shipping business by Christmas."

With this slogan flying at the masthead, the U. S. shipping board today began looking around for purchasers for the United States and American merchant lines which will include the Leviathan and other crack trans-Atlantic ships.

None of the ships will be sold except to Americans and then only under stipulations as to their continuance under the American flag.

If it could be told in all truth that Missolini's wife bosses him—that would be big news.

Leslie Building Squirrel Homes At Court House

There's a building boom going on at the present time on the Lawrence county court house lawn. A building boom that is providing homes for residents of the trees up there, and there is a strong suspicion that the builder of these houses has not taken out a building permit, nor received permission from the zoning commission.

Four modern houses, with all the up-to-date conveniences such as hot and cold folding doors, fleece lined window sash, and stream lined body porches, have been built and are being placed in the branches of the trees to accommodate several families of squirrels.

The architect, contractor, carpenter and plumber on the job is former County Commissioner R. M. Leslie, and because he is a nature lover he has built the squirrel homes.

Squirrel Is Interviewed

While one of the squirrels was waiting for his home to be placed he consented to be quoted in The News over the home project.

"It's a nice piece of work" he said, "and the wife and I appreciate the work of Mr. Leslie and the courtesy of the Lawrence county commissioners in putting up these himes."

"It relieves me of a job of building a home and gives me more time for cross word puzzles and collecting nuts. It will also relieve me of the necessity of going in to see James R. Lamoree, the chief clerk to the commissioners for materials. Not that Jimmy ever objected to handing them out, but then a fellow hates to be asking for things all the time."

"And then it gives one a sense of permanency. We've felt like squatters around here for some time, but now we consider ourselves full fledged citizens of the First Precinct of the Third Ward."

"Drop in some afternoon with a collection of nuts" he concluded, but he neglected to say whether he meant hickory or golf.

Boys Are Found Playing With Bomb

There were visions, for the moment at least, in the minds of the police officers on duty at the police station, of a bombing attempt in this city, when Herbert Eakin, 406 Connor avenue, brought to the police station, what had every indication of being an infernal machine of some kind and William Shay and Norman Grim, the two boys in whose possession he had found it.

The supposed bomb was made of several parts, each wrapped in heavy tinfoil, and all held together by a wire.

The boys were playing with it in the vicinity of the Ed Young store on Walnut street, when it was dissovered in their possession. Mr. Eakin opened one of the parts and found it contained what appeared to be powder and small stones.

The boys claimed to have found it in a chickencoop in the Croton avenue district.

Ellwood City Library Report By Mrs. Charles

In spite of the fact that so far as growth is concerned the library is practically at a standstill, its use has increased 15 per cent in circulation and 26 per cent in the number of borrowers registered.

While new books to the number of 1,737 have been added, we have only 215 more on the shelves than at the beginning of the year, because 1,522 have been discarded. Three factors have contributed to this large casualty list, all of which are traceable to our overcrowded quarters. In the first place, our shelves are so full that books that have outlived their usefulness must be discarded to make place for new ones; second, our books are overworked. We are making 8,000 do the work of 12,000, consequently they wear out faster than they should. Third, there were 490 volumes missing in inventory, which were probably carried off during the rush periods when complete supervision is impossible. The scarlet fever epidemic took heavy toll of books in the children's room, since all that were out in quarantined homes had to be destroyed.

Of the books added, 806 were for adult readers and 931 for juveniles. The total number of volumes at the end of the year is 8,068, of which 661 are for reference only. Sixty-four periodicals are on file with the reader's guide index to general periodicals and the industrial arts index for the trade and technical magazines.

The total circulation of books for home reading was 7.211, an increase of 10,813 over last year. The average daily circulation was 231 volumes. The total number of adult books loaned was 35,990, juvenile 34,221. Total fiction, 54,089, non-fiction, 16,122.

The number of adult borrowers registered was 833, juvenile 940, making the total registration for the year 1,823. The number of cards canceled was 863, leaving a total of 5,127 active borrowers. It has been the custom to charge a fee of $1 a year to non-residents, but this year one exception was made in favor of tuition pupils in the schools who are now allowed free use of the library. This was a popular move and brought us a number of out-of-town borrowers.

Figures by themselves have little meaning and statistics are chiefly of value as a basis of comparison. The state library has recently published a "measuring table" for libraries, showing what is expected and, by comparing our figures with theirs, we are able to see where we make good, and what is more important, where we fall short.

According to this table, there should be one book per capita. We lack 3,000 volumes. The circulation per book should be six, ours is 8.7; circulation per capita, five; ours is 6.4; circulation per registered borrower, 10; ours is 13.7. The percentage of fiction in the circulation should be 60; ours is 77, and our percentage of juvenile is 47, when it should be but 30. The average registration for the U. S. is 50 per cent of the population; in Pennsylvania, 25 per cent. Ours is 46 per cent.

We rate exceptionally high in financial support. In a handbook just published by the Pennsylvania Library association our library is fourth on the list of libraries in the state in towns of 5,000 and over graded according to per capita expenditure. As this table is designed to show the ratio between expenditures and service, we may be proud of our position.

Our budget provides for a little less than the prescribed 50 per cent for salaries and a little over the 25 per cent apportioned to books. The other items are approximately correct. The book fund should be evenly divided, one-third for reference books, one-third for adult circulating and one-third for juvenile books. We are spending too much on the last two and not enough on reference books, but it would be hard to get the public to agree to this.

These figures show that, while we are doing all that can be expected with the facilities at hand, we are not adequately supplying book demands of the community.

As usual, the library was headquarters for the high school debate teams, and the literary societies were supplied with material for their programs. Supplementary reading was provided for grade teachers and pupils in dramatics, history, geography and nature study. This material was kept in a section devoted to books for teachers. Lists of books on various subjects were kept in reserve for high school teachers. The required reading lists for English literary classes gave a decided impetus to the circulation of classics and standard authors, so that attractive illustrated editions of Vanity Fair, David Copperfield and Jane Eyre were almost as popular as the "best sellers".

A gift of $25 from Dr. Ullam provided the nucleus of a fine collection of scout books that have been in great demand.

Because of the scarlet fever epidemic there was no special observance of Children's Book Week, and some especially fine editions of the children's classics that had been bought for that occasion were not put into circulation until later in the season.

The library was represented at the annual meeting of the P. L. A. at Wernersville last October and at the district meetings at Greenville and New Castle, by the librarian.

We make grateful acknowledment to our many friends for gifts of books, magazines, flowers and money and to the Ellwood City News Co., the Evening Ledger and The New Castle News for the daily papers.

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Aug. 27.—"No teacher or principal shall be allowed to admit a child into the public or private institution who has not been successfully vaccinated." The above is a portion taken from the book of state school laws, which applies to the Kindergarten as well as in the other grades of the Ellwood schools.

Tin Trade Romance Goes Back Centuries

Ancients Drew Supplies From Cornwall, Brittany And From Bohemia

The Bronze Age, in the minds of most of us is synonymous with the accelerated civilization which followed the Neolithic Age. The Bronze Age did not begin when the ancients in the Mediterranean area discovered copper; it began only when they found tin to mix with their copper.

Tin was very scarce in Mediterranean lands, but there was considerable of it in Bohemia and Saxony, which came south along the old Baltic amber trade route, and there was tin in Spain, in Brittany and in South England. As the beginning of the Bronze Age is dated several hundred years earlier than any historical account of the import of tin from England or Brittany, common sense would seem to be enough to make good the belief that the nearer-by sources of tin, especially in Bohemia, were the first used. To be sure, the port of Tartessus, in southwest Spain, was the great commercial center for all Atlantic trade from perhaps 1000 B. C. to 500 B. C., but whether much tin came there either from Cornwall or Brittany is hard to decide.

We know that the mines in South Brittany were worked earlier than 500 B. C., for the Cornwall product superseded their output about that time. The Cornwall tin was collected in an island called Ictis—probably Mount St. Michael, and all exported from there, either by sea via Gibraltar or by land across France. It may be guessed that the Carthaginians, or even earlier the Phoenicians, had good reasons for not wanting Greeks to sail out between the Pillars of Hercules into the Atlantic. The earliest Greek we know who got into the Atlantic was blown out there accidentally. He was trying to get to Egypt, but missed it badly. It was nevertheless a lucky thing for this Coleus of Samos for he brought back a profitable cargo in the year 630 B. C.—New York Herald Tribune.

Sun Dance Barbarity Tempered By Indians

Modernism Injected By Redskins Who Attend Ceremonial In Motors

There was a curious mixture of modernism and barbarity in the strange ceremonial of Bannock and Shoshone tribes of Indians, which took place near Pocatello, Idaho, recently, says the Milwaukee Journal.

They held a three-day dance to the sun god, while their squaws chanted weirdly. Many stalwart bucks danced till they fell from exhaustion, while women of the tribes united their voices to stimulate the men to continued exertion, as they hopped around a totem pole in the centre of the enclosure, and blew shrill blasts with birch whistles. A blistering sun shone upon them all day, as if the sun god himself were looking up the dancer's exertions.

This barbarous ceremonial had not been conducted for some years, not because the red men were unwilling to undergo its painfulness, but because the ruling palefaces decided that the ceremonial was torture for its participants.

As for the mixture of modernism with this sun dance, it is recorded that Indians came from far to witness the spectacle, many of them in motor cars, a vehicle which must cause the sun god surprise as he watches the proceedings.

Adirondack Peasants Called Chicago Myth

"Ain't No Such Critter" In Empire State, New York Times Asserts

According to the Chicago Tribune which is not always quite as respectful to the east as the Middle West ought to be, the New York papers have not sent reporters of the right sort up into the Adirondacks to report the happenings at and near White Pine Camp.

The Tribune grows facetious over the inability, as it imagines, of the assigned correspondent to decide whether it was a pike or a pickerel that the president caught. Only when Governor Smith appeared by the lake, it says, and talked of light wines and beer and other things familiar to metropolitan reporters could they write with any ease or certainty.

Their one interesting achievement, the Tribune asserts, was the discovery of the New York "peasantry." That was done when "a native" pulled two of them out of the water into which a clumsily overset canoe had tumbled them.

Now "peasantry" is a word safe to apply to the resident and born inhabitants of the Adirondacks only from a distance at least as great as Chicago. "Natives," is a term they would accept cordially enough and even proudly when it was used by a New Yorker. They have,however, not one trait of peasants—neither their humility nor their occasional ferocity and still less either their illiteracy or their superstitions.

They are just plain American citizens, well edapted to environment, and with no end of reasons for being self-respecting in any presence. Presidents and Governors do not awe them.—New York Times.

The Barber Shop all Children Love to Visit is on the Third Floor—all freshness and sunshine. The atmosphere just hums with business, barber Bob is busy trimming and curling, kiddies busy watching their reflections in the long, clear mirrors.

Most mothers find it a good plan to leave the children here while they finish shopping, and call for them in the waiting room, which adjoins the Barber Shop, later. Third Floor

Col Jack Hays Old Texas Ranger

Throughout this period of slaughter Hays was wounded but thrice, and never seriously. Once while scouting at the head of 12 Rangers he surprised an equal number of Comanche scouts, suddenly rising up within 60 or 80 yards of them. They fled to a dogwood thicket and fortified themselves behind three oaks. Hays dismounted his men, stationed ten around the thicket and, taking two with him, entered it. A flight of arrows killed one, dangerously wounded the other and injured Hays' finger. He dragged the wounded man to safety and reentered the thicket, armed with a double-barreled shotgun and a pistol. Of three savages coming out at him simultaneously he killed two with the shotgun and, reserving the pistol for an emergency, left the thicket, procured a Jaeger rifle and returned to the attack. He fought three hours. Arrows fell thickly around him, but the density of the thicket and his frequent changes of position baffled his foes. Eventually but one Comanche remained. Armed with a gun and intrenched behind a log he proved the most formidable of all. Hays, maneuvering in the brush, made repeated changes of position to get a good shot at him. The Indian at last upreared himself and their shots rang out simultaneously. Hays suffered a grazed shoulder, but the Comanche was killed.

What was regarded as the fiercest fight in the history of the Rangers was that at Cista's Creek, where Hays at the head of 15 men rounted 76 well armed and well mounted savages, killing 31 and wounding most of the others.—From Adventure Magazine.

Foolish Beliefs Not Confined To Sailors

In defense of the supposedly superstitious fisherman, Lorenzo Sabine, in 1853, in an article on the American fisherman, wrote:

"It is said that he is credulous and superstitious. Admit that Kidd's money has been dug for in every dark nook of the coast, or talked about in every cuddy for a century and a half, and that horseshoes are nailed upon the masts of fishing vessels to keep off witches; what then? Is he the only one who has been or still is guilty of the same follies?

"In 1825 the duches de Berri visited a watering place in France and indulged in sea bathing. Salt water and fish which were afterward taken from the spot were articles of immense value and sold at enormous prices. Indeed, those persons who could not purchase a whole fish gladly possessed themselves of a few scales or a fin! The water where the 'royal person' had been washed, when bottled and offered for sale, was known as "Berri wine.' Have fishermen committed greater follies than these fashionable people of France?

Good for Lorenzo! Today horseshoes are so scarce that nobody no longer nail them to the masts of their schooners to keep off witches, although they do hang used automobile casings over the side to keep off other craft that might rub their planking.
